House Warns Goldfine For Contempt

Tycoon Faces More Queries During Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators held a threat of a contempt citation over Bernard Goldfine Thursday night as he continued to insist that details of his companies' transactions are none of their business.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) halted hearings and called the special House investigating committee into closed-door session to discuss whether to move immediately against the millionaire gift-giving friend of President Eident Eisenhower's assistant, Sherman Adams. It was decided to leave the matter open and recalled Goldfine for more questions Friday.

"After the record is complete," Harris said, "the committee will then decide what action it will take and the procedures as to possible contempt."

Acknowledges Generosity

The abrupt interruption in the hearings came only a short time after Goldfine had acknowledged more of the kind of generosities that have made his friendship with Adams a national issue — payment of hotel bills totaling almost $1,200 for three Republican senators. These were Sens. Frederick G. Payne (Maine), Norris Cotton (NH), and Styles Bridges, (NH).

All three senators acknowledged the payments, and all three said there was nothing wrong with it.

A recapitulation boosted by about $1,000 the amount Goldfine has acknowledged paying in hotel bills for Adams.

Goldfine talked freely about the hotel bills, but again clammed up on other subjects.

He had first refused to tell why his various companies had issued $777,000 worth of checks, some long uncashed. Hs was told to expect a subpoena for the books. Then the storm broke over his refusal to talk about a $20,000 withdrawal he was alleged to have made from one of the companies.

Subcommittee counsel Robert Lishman reminded Goldfine he has testified he knew little about the internal affairs of the company in question—Boston Port Development Co. It is a subsidiary of the Boston industrialist's real estate holding firm, East Boston Co.

Refuses To Answer

Then Lishman asked Goldfine whether he was familiar enough with company affairs to know, in 1947, that "its cash position was strong enough for you to withdraw $20,000 allegedly as a commission."

Goldfine, as he has frequently in the past few days, refused to answer on the ground that the question was not pertinent to the committee's field of inquiry—an investigation of federal regulatory agencies.

Joint Cabinet Is Agreed Upon

Decision Marks Final Conference Between Ike And Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (AP)—The United States and Canada agreed Thursday to create a Joint Cabinet Committee on Continental Defense.

The decision marked the final, former consultation session of President Eisenhower and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker.

The agreement will subject problems of common defense, now in military hands to "civilian decision and guidance." Possibly the new committee will consider equipping Canadian planes with nuclear warheads.

Spokesmen said Eisenhower and Diefenbaker feel their discussions have been helpful, have resulted in improved relations and have opened the way for further cooperation.

Consult On Trade

Besides the agreement on a defense committee, the conferences produced decisions to consult on the troublesome problem of trade with Red China.

Diefenbaker indicated the United States has agreed that Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies may send nonstrategic goods to China. He said a statement Friday will show there will be no interference with such trading.

Red China has expressed interest in buying motor cars from Ford Motor Co. of Canada. Ford turned this down after consulting with its parent U.S. company.

In Washington, U.S. Secretary of Commerce Weeks indicated the United States will permit Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms to ship nonstrategic goods to Red China if the Canadian government approves the shipments. Weeks told a news conference that if the Canadians first gave an official okay in such cases he would expect the U.S. Government to concur.

Inspection System

The Eisenhower - Diefenbaker meeting also produced a decision to work on plans for an international arctic control and inspection system to guard against surprise attack—perhaps for ultimate presentation to Russia.

Such touchy economic issues as U.S. wheat sales abroad and restrictions on oil and metals imports were canvassed, too—with undetermined results.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said there was no advance expectation of many "hard, ironclad decisions." No final communique was contemplated.

In the American view, closer personal contacts and understandings may have been prime accomplishments of the three-day conference.

It was set up originally with an awareness on both sides of the border that cleavages have developed, mainly over Canadian objections to various U.S. trade and tariff policies.

Hagerty said Eisenhower felt that the meeting "has resulted in a very good effect on relations between our governments and the men who control those governments."

Bumper Crop In 1958 Seen By Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Thursday 1958 crop production appears likely to equal—if not top—the record volumes harvested in 1948, 1956 and 1957.

The Agriculture Department gave this picture of prospects. Its report emphasized that generally favorable weather and further advances in agricultural technology promise to offset effects of retirement of cropland under the soil bank program and other surplus control measures.

Featuring the outlook is the second largest wheat crop of record. Such a crop would bulge surpluses of the grain to a new high level unless unforeseen market outlets develop.

The report said crop growth through June and early July was mainly favorable despite some local flooding or other storm damage.

On the basis of conditions early this month, the indicated crop volume was 106 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Officials said favorable growing and harvesting conditions might well shove this figure to a new record. The average acre yield, considering all crops, seems likely to pull ahead of last year's record.

Triplets Born To Wife Of Taxi Driver

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—Triplets were born Thursday to the 20-year-old wife of a Crisfield taxi driver. Mother, two boys and a girl are doing nicely.

They have one other child, Kathy Lynn, 2½.

Brittingham, 29, hardly could contain himselff.

"I feel like an 18-year-old," he said. "Kathy Lynn will really have something to play with when I take this big triple threat bundel home."

Cuban Rebels Release First U.S. Serviceman

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Cuban rebels Thursday released the first of 30 kidnaped U.S. Navy men they have been holding in mountain hideouts for nearly two weeks.

Airman Thomas R. Mosness of Ames, Iowa, was flown out of the jungle by helicopter. The bespectacled airman posed reluctantly for pictures and told newsmen he felt "pretty good" before intelligence officers whisked him away.

Mosness was accompanied on the flight out by U.S. Consul Park Wollam of Santiago who has been dickering for release of the 30 servicemen and 20 civilians abducted by the rebels. Wollam told newsmen tersely, "I am hopeful of getting out the rest of the men."

Cuban police reported meanwhile a Cuban named Angel Seco, who runs a string of private warehouses inside the U.S. Naval Base, was seized by rebels during the day, robbed of $200 and shot dead outside the city. Four civilians were arrested for the killing.

With Mosness' return, 29 sailors and Marines and one Canadian civilian remained in rebel hands. Nineteen North American civilians have been freed singly and in small groups over the past few days.

Mosness emerged a few hours after Adm. Jerauld Wright, commanader of the Atlantic Fleet, flew from Norfolk, Va. to see what was holding up release of his men.

Fliers Say Soviet People Beat Them

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Five U.S. airmen told Thursday how they were kicked, beaten and threatened with hanging by Soviet peasants after their unarmed plane was shot down by MIG jets.

Maj. Bennie A. Shupe of Miami, Fla., had a noose pulled around his neck before he convinced the peasants he was an American.

The five, part of a crew of nine that landed in Soviet Armenia, June 27 had parachuted from their C118 transport plane when Soviet fighters set it aflame.

The four others landed with the plane and were picked up by Soviet soldiers at the end of a landing strip. They were not abused or mistreated. All were held for 10 days before being released Monday.

The airmen appeared fresh and rested after two days back at their Wiesbaden base. They met reporters in the Air Force's European headquarters building.

Why the parachutists had met with abuse from the local population was a mystery. Asked if they knew of any reason for the mistreatment, they all shook their heads and shrugged.

It was suggested that the men might have been mistaken for Turks or Iranians, but an Air Force spokesman replied: "We simply don't know. What those people were saying didn't make any sense to our men."

However, Soviet citizens are constantly fed stories that foreign powers are sending in spies and saboteurs. This is particularly true in Soviet Armenia, which has a long border with Turkey. Armenians hate the Turks because of oppression under the old Ottoman Empire.

When captured the fliers were wearing regular flight suits without any patches identifying them by rank or nationality. An Air Force spokesman said this is the routine costume on such flights.

Shupe said he did his best to convince the people he was an American and had no intention of harming them. He said the noose was around his neck and the rope strung over a telephone pole before he finally got a flicker of recognition by calling out "New York—Chicago."

Some one in the crowd picked up the words. Shupe responded by calling out the names of every American city he could think of. This exchange of foreign words gave the peasants pause.

"While hanging preparations were still going on, one man shouted something—I don't know what—but it stopped them," Shupe said.

A little later Soviet soldiers came up and Shupe was turned over to them.

Col. Dale D. Brannon of Chardon, Ohio, gave this account: The C118 got off course in a snow storm while flying from Cyprus to Iran.

The plane was carrying medicine and other supplies.

The crew noticed two jet fighter planes approaching. Not realizing they were over Soviet territory they assumed they were Turkish or Iranian planes.

Suddenly the pilot, Maj. Luther W. Lyles of Savoy, Tex., saw one of the fighters fire a burst in front of the plane. He said this is a generally recognized signal to land and he immediately lowered his landing gear to show he would comply.

Brannon said that in spite of this, the MIGs fired upon the plane "with the apparent intention to shoot it down."

Tough Bandit Gets $16,000

BRUMLEY, Mo. (AP)—A tough-talking bandit interrupted a board of directors meeting, threatened to kill all five directors and fled with $16,000 fro the Bank of Brumley Thursday.

Missouri State Sen. C. R. Hawkins, who owns the bank, and his wife were among those threatened by the gun-waving bandit. They were locked in the bank vault with the others but no one was hurt

The prisoners let themselves out a few minutes after the masked bandit left the bank and ran up a side road on foot. There was no sign of a getaway car.

Mrs. Hawkins said the man "threatened to send us to meet our ancestors" unless they produced all available currency. She said he was waving an automatic pistol.

Heaviest Man Dies In Trailer

BREMEN, Ind. (AP)—The half-ton body of Robert Earl Hughes, heaviest man in medical history, posed a massive problem for undertakers Thursday after the 32-year-old carnival attraction died in his specially built trailer.

Measles, a heart ailment and, finally, uremia, took the huge man's life in spite of around-the-clock attendance by doctors, nurses, and four members of his family.

Hughes, exactly 6 feet tall and whose last recorded weight was 1,041 pounds, spent his last four days in a combination bed-chair, heavily constructed of 2X4 boards. He could not be taken indoors and was treated inside the trailer, parked behind Bremen Community Hospital.

Busy Sheriff Squeezes Jail

PAINTSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A busy sheriff and the high cost of living are putting the squeeze on the Johnson County jail.

So many people are getting arrested that fiscal court says the county can't foot the food bill.

The result: The court wants Sheriff Wince Trimble to cut down on the number of his deputies—from 30 to three.

Negro Stewardess Resigns Position

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Trans World Airlines disclosed Thursday Miss Margaret Grant, hired as the lines first Negro hostess, had resigned.

He said his business—making portable bars—is up 25 per cent in the last six months.

Arab Communists Infiltrate Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi security sources charged Thursday that Arab Communist elements, under orders of the Syrian Communist party, have begun to infiltrate heavily into Lebanon to support a rebellion against Lebanese President Camille Chamoun.

Chamoun's government previously accused the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria of massive interference by sending arms and men into his country.

Court Approves Annulment

By The Associated Press

ROME (AP)—An Italian court stepped out of a legal maze Thursday and approved ar annulment of the marriage of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini. But the public prosecutor stepped in and vowed to block it.

The annulment, sought by Rossellini, is what 42-year-old Miss Bergman looks forward to in order to marry for the third time—this time to the Swedish millionaire Lars Schmidt. She has said they would marry as soon as legally possible.

But Prosecutor Martino Ferraiola, contending the matter was not for Italian courts in the first place, waved the court-approved annulment in his hand and pledged: "This will never become final as long as I can help it."

In London, where she is working on a film, Miss Bergman said she preferred to make no comment.

More Hungary Citizens Being Placed On Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist Hungary is reported to be putting more and more of its citizens on trial for taking part in the 1956 uprising against Soviet domination.

"These trials have reportedly run as high as 100 in a single recent 10-day period," press officer Lincoln White told newsmen at the State Department Thursday.

White announced that the department is making the information it has available to the United Nations Special Committee on Hungary, in response to the committee's request.

Efforts To Get ICBM's Nose Cone Dropped

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A U.S. ballistic missile has been fired at intercontinental range for the first time, but the Air Force announced Thursday efforts to recover the nose cone and its mouse have been abandoned temporarily.

Air Force officials confirmed that a mighty Thor-Able rocket launched Wednesday night landed in the south Atlantic Ocean near Ascension Island, 6,000 statute miles from Cape Canaveral. That meant U.S. missile men had passed another milestone in their bid to conquer space.

As far as it is known, it was the first time a ballistic weapon traveled more than 6,000 miles through outer space and survived the redhot plunge back into the earth's atmosphere.

Officials said the search for the top secret nose cone was called off because of darkness in the area. They planned to resume the hunt early Friday.

Two aircraft and two ships cruising in the impact area spotted the nose cone as it dropped back from space. Sporadic radio signals have been picked up from the cone, but in insufficient strength to pinpoint the location.

Failure of the radio transmitter or the power supply might result in an unsuccessful recovery operation, officials said.

After a blazing takeoff, it took the Thor-Able only about 30 minutes to span the intercontinental distance. Once in space, the nose cone reached speeds as high as 12,000 m.p.h.

The two stages, a Thor Intermediate Range Missile topped by a Vanguard second stage satellite rocket, were preset to drop away as soon as their fuel exhausted.

The Atlas, only U.S. test-operational ICBM, has been fired eight times but reportedly never beyond a range of about 600 miles. An Atlas intercontinental shot is expected soon.

The fate of "Mia II", which got his nickname as the second "mouse in Able", appeared to be darker as the hours slipped by without a report from the recovery team.

Three Dead, Two Missing In Upheaval

Huge Waves Swamp Boat; Picnickers Swept Into Ocean

By The Associated Press

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A mighty earthquake, felt throughout all of southeast Alaska Wednesday night, has left three known dead and two missing.

The dead were three picnickers swept into the sea when the quake sheared off the tip of an island in Yakutat Bay, some 200 miles northwest of Juneau.

Missing were a man and his wife whose 44-foot fishing boat was swept by giant waves toward the rocky sides of Lituya Bay, on the coast 125 miles west of this Alaska capital.

Prominent Woman Dies

The dead included Mrs. Jeanice Welsh Walton, 54, head of a Bellingham, Wash., family which owns the Icy Straits Canning Co. cannery at Yakutat and has been identified prominently with the Alaska fishing industry for years.

The two other victims were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tibbles, employes of the Civil Aeronautics Administration station at Yakutat.

Witnesses to the tragedy, Yakutat Postmaster John Williams and his wife Dora, said about 500 yards of the south end of Khantaak Island heaved 20 feet into the air and then fell into the bay. The island is about a mile off shore. Nothing but picnic plates were found floating in the water after the severe turbulence had subsided.

Missing are Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wagner, a young, childless couple who lived at Idaho Inlet, near Juneau. Their troller, the Sunmore, was anchored in Lituya Bay beside one operated by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Swanson of Auburn, Wash.

Flown To Juneau

The Swansons said after they were flown to Juneau and hospitalized Thursday that they were asleep when the quake hit. They awoke and went to the pilot house to look around. As they glanced toward three glaciers at the head of the bay they could see ice and debris being sheared off "like a gravel truck dumping a full load."

"Then a huge wall of water about 50 feet high came racing toward us," they said, "caught our boat, and swept it up to a crest where we saw the Sunmore. The law we saw of the Wagners' boat it was headed toward a rocky cliff."

The quake caused the worst cable break in the Alaska communications system history, snapping it in four places in the Skagway-Haines area. Communications between southeast Alaska and Seattle were seriously disrupted.

So severe was the tremor when it hit that it knocked the needle off the seismograph at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Protest Mouse Use

LONDON (AP)—The mouse that was fired into space from Cape Canaveral, Fla., drew indignant rumblings Thursday from the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The society said it will protest to the American Embassy.

Oscar Levant Calls Police To Save Him From Wife

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Oscar Levant has called the cops for protection from his wife.

The bad boy pianist of local television called police headquarters Wednesday night and said his wife, June, had hit him with a shoe and threatened to stab him with scissors. The pianist said she accused him of running around with other women.

Police Chief Clinton Anderson was in one of the two squad cars that sped to Levant's home.

"Levant was yelling and screaming inside the house," Anderson said. "You could hear him from a block away."

Mrs. Levant was locked in the bathroom. Anderson finally coaxed her out.

"That woman hit me with a shoe," Anderson said Levant screamed. "She's dangerous."

Ridiculous, replied Mrs. Levant. "You don't see any bruises on him, do you?"

Anderson told the Levants to keep their family squabbles more on the quiet side. Then he and his trusty officers left.

"I don't know if it was a TV production or the real thing," Anderson said.

Levant, former concert pianist and movie actor, has a local television program on which he mixes his acid wit with complaints about his health and the world at large.

Mrs. Levant told a reporter that her crazy mixed-up husband was spending Thursday at his doctor's.

"I guess this is the kind of publicity Oscar wants, but I don't want to have any part of it," she said. "Doesn't he have any regard for our three lovely daughters?"

Mrs. Levant, a former member of the singing Gale Sisters, said she didn't know if the moody pianist is absent from home for good.

Black-Bearded Man Slays Two Children, Then Flees

CUBA, N.M. (AP) — A black-bearded killer invaded this northern New Mexico farm community Thursday, shot down and killed two children, and fled into the wilderness.

Townspeople quickly organized posses for the pursuit to aid state police.

The girl's mother was superficially wounded by a glancing bullet.

The unidentified assailant, armed with a high-power rifle, escaped in a pickup truck after the midday shootings on Cuba's main street. Cuba is a village of fewer than 500 people, about 70 airline miles northwest of Albuquerque.

Dr. Everett E. Stohr said Eileen was shot in the back and instantly killed. Eddie, who was sitting on the porch of his home was fatally wounded.

The killer, whose pickup had a Utah license, eluded two state police cars which took up his trail.

Stohr said Mrs. Cebeda and her daughter had been shopping in the Cuba supply store, two doors from their own store and residence. Stohr's office is between the two.

"They stopped in front of their place of business," Stohr said. "They were leaning against the car talking to a friend, and this man drove up."

An eyewitness, Weldon Vernon, said the gunman had picked up a rifle lying on the seat beside him and fired two shots without warning. The first shot, which Vernon said appeared deliberately aimed, killed the little girl and ricocheted, giving Mrs. Cebeda a superficial wound.

The boy was sitting on the Cebeda porch and was hit by the second shot. He died on the way to an Albuquerque hospital.

The killer drove away immediately after firing the second shot. He was chased by Richard Vellarde, who turned back to telephone police after getting a license number.

The country in which the killer was at large is mountainous and forested terrain, thinly populated.

Officer Testifies Chicago Lawyer Marked For Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — A police lieutenant testified Thursday that Abraham Teitelbaum was marked for death in 1954 in an underworld plot to seize control of Chicago's rich restaurant industry.

The plan, Lt. Joseph Morris of Chicago told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, was to push Teitelbaum from the balcony of his office high up in the Chicago Fine Arts Building and make it look like suicide. Teitelbaum's office is on the 16th floor.

Teitelbaum, a lawyer, then was the $125,000-a-year labor consultant for the Chicago Restaurant Assn. There has been testimony that he exercised some sort of magic when it came to settling labor disputes.

Called before the Senate probers Teitelbaum invoked the protection of four different constitutional amendments and refused to say whether he knew anything about the murder plot.

"Can't you be helpful to the committee?" Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) asked the big sweating, florid-faced witness.

But Teitelbaum was adamant. He refused to answer more than 80 questions on the grounds that answers might tend to degrade or incriminate him.

Morris testified he received information that Louis (Needle Nose) Labriola and James Weinberg, two gangsters who were subsequently murdered, were plotting to get rid of Teitelbaum.

Morris described an underworld split over an effort to set up an organization to be known as the Metropolitan Restaurant Assn. and to take over from Teitelbaum's powerful group.

The police officer said Tony Accardo, swarthy king of Chicago's underworld, appeared to be behind the move, with Sam (Golf Bag) Hunt slated to be boss of the new association.

Morris said the scheme failed mainly because of internal troubles. He testified that Labriola and Weinberg eventually transferred their operations outside of Chicago and became "important enough to be killed."

Suitor Runs Down Woman

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jealous suitor critically injured a divorcee by running her down with his automobile, deputies reported Thursday.

Gene Butterfield, 25, a car salesman, was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder as a result of the motor-ized attack Wednesday night on Janet D. Byzeck, 28, Iron River, Mich.

Mrs. Byzeck, mother of six children, suffered fractured ribs, a fractured pelvis and internal injuries when a car hit her as she walked along the sidewalk with a friend, Marine Pfc. John Ross, 25, of Camp Pendleton.

Investigators said she rejected Butterfield's bid for a date and went out with Ross.

Meyner To Speak

HUNTINGTON (AP) — Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, a Democratic Presidential possibility, was announced Thursday as principal speaker at a dinner of the Cabell County Democratic Executive Committee Aug. 15.

Railway Makes Women's Car

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — "Marvelous."

That's how one feminine commuter described the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad's new car for women only.

The baby blue, perfume-scented car was placed in service for the first time Thursday on the morning rush-hour run from here to New York City.

Mrs. Vera Veseley of Fords, said the car was marvelous because she had more elbow room.

"Men always spread out their newspapers and hog space," she said. "Only yesterday I had to tell a man to fold up his paper."

But the roominess in the air-conditioned car didn't last for long. All 44 seats were soon taken and standees jammed the aisle.

Mrs. Veseley had only one mild criticism: "You could probably save time by applying make-up in the ladies car instead of at home, but there are no mirrors. As long as the railroad spent all this money, I don't see why it didn't install wall-to-wall mirrors."

Mrs. Corrine Rose of Edison, patted the blue leather seats and commented: "These will save my stockings. Those cane seats in the old cars always gave me runners."

One woman offered a dissenting opinion.

Pilot's Error May Be Cause Of Fatal Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff, says he suspects that pilot error may have caused the June 27 crash of a Europe-bound jet Stratotanker on takeoff from Westover Air Force Base, Mass.

Six newsmen were among the 15 persons killed in the accident.

Asked about the accident after he addressed a National Press Club luncheon Thursday, LeMay said the official investigation is not complete but has uncovered nothing to indicate mechanical malfunction.

LeMay said his guess is that the pilot was distracted in the cockpit and let the nose go down a little so that the airplane settled immediately after takeoff.

Warns Of Stress On Technical Subjects

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Madame Chiang Kai-shek warned Thursday night against too much stress on science and technical subjects in education.

Too much of this, she said, could lead to "petrification of the intellect." And she suggested this may already have happened to some intellectuals who regard biological survival above all else.

Madame Chiang, wife of the Chinese Nationalist President, expressed her views in an address prepared for a special convention of the university of Michigan where she received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

OTTAWA (AP) — President Eisenhower hooked his first drive into a bunker at the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club Thursday but won cheers anyway from about 300 watching club members.

Then he tried again and his second drive was 200 yards straight down the middle.

Nearing the end of his three-day visit to Ottawa, he made a four-some with Transport Minister George Hees, Senate Speaker Mark Drouin and Club President John B. Cross.

Police Rescue Trapped Boys

MOUNT VERNON, Ind. (AP) — Two teen-age boys, trapped 12 hours halfway down the chimney of a three-story building, were rescued Thursday by police who knocked a hole in the bricks.

Alva Scott Heath, 16, and Jimmy Mayville, 17, both of Mount Vernon, were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Evansville, suffering from bruises, cuts and exposure.

Police questioned the youths only briefly because of their exhausted condition. They reported the boys said they were playing on the roof of a business about midnight. One fell into the chimney and the other followed in an unsuccessful rescue attempt.

Phoebus May Ask For Call Of Legislature

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) —The minority leader of the Maryland Senate said Thursday if the State's highest court rules unconstitutional legislation outlawing slot machines at Potomac River casinos, he will ask the governor to call a special session of the General Assembly to reenact the law.

Sen. Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset) told the Fredericksburg Free Lance-Star in a telephone interview he had worked hard on the measure ruled unconstitutional yesterday by two Circuit Court judges.

The reason cited for knocking down the law was that the Legislature exceeded its authority by enacting the anti-slot machine bill at a short session limited constitutionally to consideration of statewide, budgetary and emergency matters.

"The people wanted the law as we passed it. We felt that it was an emergency and could be taken up at that session," Phoebus said.

Maryland's Attorney General announced that he would ask for a special summer session of the Court of Appeals to hear the state's appeal from the Circuit Court ruling.

Asked why, in the event the lower court ruling is upheld, he would recommend the calling of a special session when a regular session of the Legislature is scheduled next year, Phoebus replied:

"This certainly is a big issue—whether the gamblers and gangsters can rule the country or whether the good people will. If we believed in it last March, we certainly believe in it now."

The controversial law banned slot machines in any establishment on a navigable river of the state, unless such a place is accessible by foot from the Maryland shore.

The law hit directly at the casinos operating in the Potomac River off the Virginia shore. The establishments are licensed in Maryland and do a thriving business from Virginia, which outlaws slot machines and the sale of whisky by the drink.

292-Year-Old Flag Wanted For Celebration

If they can't find one, women helping plan a celebration to be held here in October say they'll sew one.

They found out what the flag looked like this week in a painting which had been hanging in the Baltimore law offices of the late Southey Miles, a Somerset Countian. The painting was brought here for reproduction by Joshua W. Miles Jr.

It is a red, white and blue flag just like the Union Jack of Great Britain except for an Indian head where the bars cross each other. It was a maritime flag and was given to Somerset because it was a maritime county.

In 1666 when the flag was issued the county extended from Chesapeake Bay to the Atlantic Ocean and from the Naticoke River in Delaware south to Pocomoke County. Since then Worcester and Wicomico counties have been carved from it.

Confidence Man Caught By FBI

BALTIMORE (AP) — The FBI announced Thursday it had arrested a man who bilked the American Red Cross in 25 cities in 13 states into advancing him money with a story he was waiting for compensation from the Veterans' Administration.

The FBI identified him as Elbert Cecil Joseph, 32, and said he had used six other names.

James J. Kelly, special agent in charge, said Joseph was arrested at Poughkeepsie, N.Y. on only one indictment. Kelly said that Joseph had obtained $100 from the Red Cross there.

The agent reported that Joseph also had been advanced money by the Red Cross in Maryland, Delaware, Connecticut, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New Jersey, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Kelly said Joseph would go to the Red Cross and claim he was an unemployed veteran who needed financial help. He would tell of having been discharged from the Air Force with 50 per cent disability resulting from a crash in Korea.

To support the story, the agent said, Joseph would display a fictitious application for veterans' compensation which he had not yet received. The FBI said Joseph submitted the false claim to the VA and it was on this charge that he was indicted in Poughkeepsie in December of 1954.

Agent Kelly said Joseph actually enlisted in the Navy in 1941 by stating he was 18 when he was only 15. He was discharged the next year when his true age was discovered.

Joseph was not injured in naval service and not entitled to any pension, Kelly said.

Trade Extension Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted 12-2 Thursday for an extension of the reciprocal trade program in a form far different from what President Eisenhower asked.

In the first place, the proposed extension is for three years. President Eisenhower asked for five years, and the House voted five.

The Senate Committee wrote in an amendment sharply limiting presidential power to overrule the Tariff Commission on the question of higher tariffs. This was a victory for those who say domestic industry needs more protection from foreign competition. It is expected to cause a hot fight when the extension bill comes up in the Senate.

Port Interests Protest Tunnel

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP) — Maryland port interests have filed protests against a proposed tunnel under the Baltimore shipping lane at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay.

They contended the 5,665 foot tunnel projected for the natural lane to Baltimore and other Bay ports would be too restrictive and should be at least 6,200 feet.

The protests were filed by the Maryland Port Authority and the Baltimore Association of Commerce with the Army Corps of Engineers at Norfolk. Thursday was the deadline for such protests.

The tunnel is one of two proposed for a combination bridge-tunnel crossing at the mouth of the bay. The other, planned for 6,200 feet, would cross under the Thimble Shoals channel handling traffic into Hampton Roads and Norfolk.

Virginia interests proposed the second tunnel after Maryland shippers protested plans for a bridge across the channel now used for traffic to the upper Bay.

"The shorter tunnel projected by the consulting engineers employed by the Chesapeake Bay Ferry District, the Virginia agency in charge of the proposed crossing, would require considerable filling in of the natural wide and deep fairway that is now utilized by vessels serving Baltimore," the Maryland Port Authority said.

Before World War II, the Soviet Ukraine accounted for nearly a fourth of Russia's entire wheat and corn crops, a third of its barley and two-thirds of its sugar beet output.

Teen-Agers Get Reformatory Terms

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four teenagers who stole cars and held "drag races" with them on the highways were sentenced Thursday to four years each in the State Reformatory for Males.

Judge Joseph L. Carter imposed the terms in Youth Court on Vincent C. Vccioni Jr., 17, Timothy Cling, 18, Jackie G. Cooper, 17, and Howard D. Mace, 18.

Police testified that a total of 10 cars had been stolen by the boys during a two-month period beginning late in March.

Council Appointed

Gov. M'Keldin Believes In Integrity Of Adams

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland, leaving on a trip to Israel, Thursday expressed what he termed his fullest belief in the integrity of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams.

"I have known him for many years," said McKeldin. "I think of him as a man of profound integrity. He would not do anything wrong in this world."

As for the current congressional probe into the relations between Adams and Boston financier Bernard Goldfine, McKeldin said:

"What kind of an investigation is that? How little that becomes the spirit of this country."

Accompanying the governor were his wife and two children, Theodore Roosevelt, 21, and Clara Whitney, 18, both college students. In his party also were Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Baltimore and Mrs. Sobeloff.

In Israel McKeldin will take part in ground-breaking ceremonies for an American student center in Jerusalem and receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Check-Grabbing Goldfines Slow Answering Quiz

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Goldfine clan may be fast at grabbing for the check, but it must be just about the slowest family on record at answering questions.

Bernard Goldfine, the millionaire textile manufacturer who likes to present gifts to important people, was back Wednesday as a witness before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee. And he fetched along one of his sons to help him with the testifying.

The son—his father calls him Horace, but the son refers to himself as H. Maxwell—doesn't look a bit like his father. Also unlike his father, Horace Maxwell's command of English is almost perfect. But put a microphone in front of him, and throw a committee question his way, and he can match papa, silence for silence.

At 36, H. Maxwell is a dapper, cool young man, who wears a blue suit, a heavy coat of tan, and a look of amused tolerance, largely because he raises his eyebrows so often he has created permanent creases in his forehead.

With a cigaret dangling from his lips, he looks surprisingly like a motion picture gambler, one who appears carefree because he holds a pat hand.

Bernard Goldfine obviously is the star of this show, since it was he who did the favors for Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 White House man.

Yet he scarcely was seated on the witness stand before he was modestly proclaiming that he was not the gold mine of information that the committee had hoped for.

"My son is here," he said. "He would be glad to tell you."

So H. Maxwell Goldfine joined his father at the microphone.

How simple that sounds, and yet how tricky the execution!

For the Goldfines are so fortified with legal and secretarial help there was no room.

"The platform," Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) observed, "can hold only so many."

Furthermore, H. Maxwell has his own private lawyer, who was assigned to his left ear. When the change was made at last, some of Goldfine's best legal talent was pushed so far back that Roger Robb, who heads the squad, could only waggle his wishes, like a baseball manager telling a right-hander in the bullpen to warm up.

Yet once the younger Goldfine made the lineup, he showed no great enthusiasm for this type of work.

He, like his father, conferred frequently with the lawyers. He, too, showed a distaste for a couple of simple English words, yes and no. He, too, did something his father likes to do.

"Would you repeat that question, please?" Or "May I have the question again?"

Harris tried to speed the hearing up, but he didn't get very far.

Once, when he was urging speed, Robb protested that Bernard Goldfine merely had been trying to confer with his lawyers and couldn't he do that?

"He can confer with anyone he wants to," Harris said, "and he's surrounded by a good many."

Tours World With Navy He Hasn't Joined

ANNAPOLIS (AP) -- A 16-year-old Maine boy is seeing the world with the Navy, and he didn't even have to join up.

Stephen M. Levine of Auburn, Maine, arrived at the Naval Academy here on the first leg of a 45-day trip which will take him to Puerto Rico, South America and around Cape Horn to California on one of the Navy's supercarriers.

Young Levine earned the trip by winning first prize in a nationwide contest sponsored by the Navy Recruiting Service, the Navy League and a company which sells ship and plane models.

More than one million entries were judge by a board headed by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. Stephen's prize-winning entry said it is his ambition to make the Navy his career.

Soviet, German Treatment Of Fliers Differs

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Nine American fliers forced down in the Soviet Union and nine American fliers forced down in East Germany have received entirely different treatment.

A case can be made for the Soviet actions at home. None can be made for her actions through her German puppets.

In one case, an American military plane, though actually not armed, was indisputably intercepted 30 miles within the Soviet Union.

American and Communist military forces face each other around the worldwide Communist perimeter. Such taut-nerved situations always have produced incidents. They are even more inevitable when any plane can carry terrible destructive devices or equipment for extensive spying.

There is no question about what would happen to an unannounced Soviet military plane caught 30 miles inside a U.S. border.

It would be shot down, just as was the American plane. Or else the defense establishment would be in trouble.

Later the United States would have expressed regret over the necessity, but that's not to be expected from a government with slaughterhouse manners. The fliers were released after a reasonable period. Charges of Soviet barbarism, in this one instance, will be hard to sustain.

In East Germany, however, human beings are being held as political hostages, a practice from which the rulers of the area have not advanced since the times of Tamarlane and Darius.

The same thing is happening in Red China, and has been happening throughout the communist sphere for years.

A hundred years ago Western powers considered this practice so reprehensible they never let anybody get away with it. War was preferable to this type of blackmail, which played upon western feeling for the human being.

Now war, which would threaten humanity as well as human beings is not preferable to anything. Political kidnapers can ply their trade without fear of military force.

The Soviet Union and the East German Communists want the puppets recognized as a legal government and make their attempts in petty ways.

Store Manager Stole Them Blind

MOSCOW (AP)—The press this week splashed the case of a jewelry department manager of a big Moscow store who stole two million rubles worth of baubles over the years and then, conscience stricken, gave himself up.

The culprit, Naum Isakovich Krakovsky, once decorated with the "excellent worker" badge, got a 25-year sentence.

By keeping the top management brass well polished, he avoided inventories for years, he said.

Rumblings Of The Recession Are Heard Today Among Many Churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Rumblings of the recession are heard today among the churches.

They're wrestling with the effects—both on their pocketbooks and on their consciences.

"Grave moral and spiritual issues are involved," says the Board of Social and Economic Relations of the Methodist Church.

As for the collection plate, it has fared variously. Receipts of some congregations have skidded. Others, with extra effort, are doing better than ever.

"It's often a matter of what countermeasures have been taken," says the Rev. Arthur Rinden, a church budget-raising expert.

In any case, U.S. religious institutions, with assets of 13½ billion dollars and programs totaling 3½ billion a year, are sensitive to business trends.

Breaking a steady, 10-year climb in building outlays, the total dropped 1 per cent in the first quarter of 1958, despite prior predictions of a continued rise.

David M. Church, director of the American Assn. of Fund-raising Counsel, says time is too short and the amount of the drop too small to draw definite conclusions, but the figure is the best index of church financial status.

On many fronts, however, church programs dollar-wise are still going up. Most denominational conventions this year have set increased over-all budgets.

Southern Baptists reported that central receipts for the first half of 1958 were more than 8 per cent ahead of 1957.

But what is going on in local parishes where the first signs would show?

The interdenominational fortnightly Christianity Today said a survey indicates a trend toward "caution about future spending," adding: "Individual members were not as willing to pledge amounts of money over an extended period."

Of 30 Southern Baptist pastors questioned at a Kansas City meeting, 12 thought the recession had adversely affected offerings. Of 12 Los Angeles churches polled, all said income had dropped. But many elsewhere said it was up.

The Rev. Mr. Rinden, of the Stewardship and Benevolence Department of the National Council of Churches, says the recession has "caused a number of churches to use more care in setting their budgets.

"As a result they've come off better than before."

A flood of demands has resulted this year in his department holding seven seminars at which pastors (about 40 at each seminar) are trained in budget-raising methods. Comparatively, only two such seminars were held last year.

Several church groups have urged government steps to ease recession hardships and unemployment. "Involuntary unemployment is a basic injustice . . ." said the general board of the 32-denomination National Council.

It called for steps to expand and equalize jobless benefits in various states. So did the Methodist Social-Economic Relations Board, but it warned against inflation-causing "deficit spending that will mortgage the future."

Meanwhile, there was a move in the United Lutheran Church to restore financial priority of regional synods over the central church—a policy of early 1930s depression.

The national Roman Catholic weekly, The Sign, said economic letdowns are bound to come because of "a deep-rooted failing in human nature. The economic system in this regard is like a person's spiritual life."

Just as neglect of the soul is corrected by "periods of prayer and penance," it added, so man's prosperity extremes are chastened by temporary setbacks.

Allowed To Return

SINGAPORE (AP) — Hundreds of Singapore-born Chinese students who went to Red China without parental consent are being allowed to return at their own and parents' requests. Singapore's chief minister Lim Yew Hock told reporters: "They will be allowed to return and enjoy what they now realize communism cannot give and do for them."

Lebanon Crisis Boils Down Into Hazy Internal Mush

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

In the two weeks since U.N. Secretary General Hammarskjold went to Lebanon the situation there has boiled down into a hazy mush which may have averted a military crisis.

Hammarskjold's position which is backed by a vague report by the U.N. observations group, is that the shooting there is primarily an internal matter which must be settled by the Lebanese themselves.

The United States and Britain think the observations group may be technically correct in failing to find massive foreign infiltration into the rebel ranks, but wrong in issuing a report playing down such interference from Syria as there is.

Since the two powers can hardly justify intervention as long as the U.N. does not overrule Hammarskjold, they have been given an out with the Lebanese government which may be more welcome than is admitted publicly.

Expressed doubts as to Beirut's claims may also have served to forestall the expected Lebanese request for a U.N. police force or for U.S.-British aid under the mutual defense provisions of the U.N. charter.

One damper on outside action to aid the Chamoun government has been its reluctance to throw its own army into what it has tried to make appear as an outside invasion from the Syrian section of the United Arab Republic.

The government apparently has feared the effects of division within the army itself, and the army leaders apparently prefer a middle course until the ultimate political victor is determined.

There was a report at the U.N. Monday that Chamoun was considering an offer to the rebels to resign when Parliament meets late this month, remaining only as caretaker until the September election. The report was discounted by many who failed to see just what it would mean to a compromise, since he has promised to get out in September anyway, and since there is no evidence of central authority among the rebels.

Such an attempt at compromise would also be an admission that the Lebanon rebels can be dealt with, and that outside pressure, arms and infiltration are not predominant factors as the government has claimed.

The rebels have promised, but showed no signs of producing, an important military campaign. The government is holding its own.

A new crisis will arise if an anti-Western government seems about to be established either through military or political action between now and September. In the meantime the crisis has been reduced from a flood to a quagmire.

Will The Igloo Count In U.S. House Census?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should the building of a new igloo be taken into account when Uncle Sam tabulates housing statistics?

This is a somewhat exaggerated example of the problems facing the Census Bureau and other federal agencies which will have to amend their statistical ways once Alaska becomes a state.

Officials of most of the agencies involved say the impact of Alaska on almost all sets of figures will be small. However, they acknowledged that the admission of a 49th state will create some special problems.

The Census Bureau already gathers quite an array of Alaskan statistics and will merely have to lump these into the national total. However, even Census has cause for handwringing. Since all its present forms list Alaska with the territories, these will have to be discarded and replaced with new ones giving Alaska a position next to Alabama.

At the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the big question is how to integrate Alaska's high living costs into the consumer price index. People in Alaska earn more and spend more because so much of what they need has to be shipped great distances.

The government probably will move fast to include Alaska in surveys of personal income. Speed is necessary because per capita personal income serves as the basis for apportioning federal aid for such programs as health, hospital construction and school lunches.

The Commerce Department, which makes these surveys, has no reliable income figures for Alaska. Before it begins gathering them, it will make a study of past income trends there, so figures for the new state will be in line with those for the rest of the nation.

Monthly employment and unemployment statistics also will be revised to take the Alaskan labor market into account. This won't change the national picture very much since the most recent Census Bureau estimate puts Alaska's civilian population at 165,000.

Soviet Missile Lead Is Not Great

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

The Army's missile boss says we could run faster in the space race with Russia if:

1. American science could provide a leader who combined high technical objectivity with the ability to make dynamic and forceful decisions.

2. We changed "our national philosophy of crucifying the man who makes one mistake even though he's had nine straight successes. "That philosophy leads to a man's spending more effort on avoiding mistakes than doing something."

But Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, head of the team which put Explorers I and III in orbit, also thinks the Soviets "don't have such a lead that it can't be overcome.

"There is nothing they know how to do that we don't know how to do. We have the creative ability and the productive resources. But it's going to take hard work and a continuing sense of urgency."

Technical leadership is needed to weigh various space age proposals and give green lights to the best bets, Gen. Medaris told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview.

Can't Be President

"And this leader can't, for example, be the President, for his job is too big. He shouldn't have to make all such decisions."

Medaris agrees with the President that civilian leadership is needed. But —

"Scientists don't join forces with each other to develop such leaders. They won't follow someone else."

Further, most of the highly competent scientists in the space area, says Medaris, are directly involved in one or the other of the projects under way and could not be expected to approach the overall program objectively.

He says the main reason space efforts have been conducted so far by the armed services is the organization capabilities of the military managers.

If we must continue to depend upon military management in this area, Medaris warns, we will lose the psychological war with Russia. The Soviet won't fail to exploit the argument that the military is running the show — with warlike intent.

Fear of making a mistake delays decisions and programs in government and industry alike, Medaris said. The bigger the company, the more likely the tendency to play it safe.

Aren't Doing This

"But the Soviets aren't doing this with their creative scientists. The man who is successful on his first try can afford failures on the next venture or two at least. However, this apparently does not apply in the political area in Russia."

Tall, with dark graying hair and mustache, Gen. Medaris was commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., during the past 2½ years, and is now chief of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, which includes that agency and other key missile research and development facilities.

The Army is working on one or two rockets to explore the moon with instruments measuring magnetism and gravity, and at least one more satellite for International Geophysical Year studies. But Medaris offers no details yet.

As for the Russians, "I have an uneasy suspicion their main goal next is to bring a satellite successfully back to earth again. That's the first step in getting animals or humans into space and back again safely."

Work On Lunar Probe

"I think they're also working on a lunar probe as we are. But my hunch is they think there's greater propaganda value, for one thing, in a satellite that can be recovered."

Medaris's first exposure to rocketry came in 1912 when he was 10, living in Springfield, Ohio. A mechanic made him a brass tube, open at one end, into which he could tamp black powder, then set it off.

In World War II as an ordnance officer, he made it his own business to learn early about German rocket weapons. He came to Huntsville in September 1955.

Medaris—"The Big M" to many of his men—has developed such a team of experts, in depth for each job, that "no man there is indispensable, including me."

The team includes the renowned Wernher von Braun.

"If someone picked six men, very carefully, and took them away from me, it would hurt. Any number less than that wouldn't seriously or permanently hurt the program, though some would be sorely missed for psychological reasons until the men accepted their successors."

Medaris finds his own job "a field as little known and understood as any in the world. It means taming imaginative science for productive ends, a science of the management of development, without stifling the imagination of scientists.

"Sometimes you have to arbitrate between teams of scientists who are like wild horses in harness. And they should be that way for they have imagination and a high sense of individuality that makes them good."

Not a scientist himself, Medaris learns fast, aided by a rare photographic memory and ability to read 700 to 800 words a minute with high retention.

A very successful management expert in civilian life — between two long Army hitches—he uses a knack of defining basic problems to reach solutions or help assistants reach solutions.

Medaris pays particular attention to maintaining high morale and a sense of challenge at Huntsville. Both played a role in shooting explorer I into orbit.

"The Army had no satellite assignment. But Secretary (of Defense) McElroy was at Huntsville the night Sputnik I went up. Naturally we weren't happy the Russians had done it first.

"Von Braun said to him: 'Secretary McElroy, we can get a satellite up in 60 days.'

"No, Wernher, 90 days," I said.

Took 80 Days

"It took us 80 but we weren't starting right from scratch by any means. We had been testing nose cones for intermediate range missiles, using three-stage rockets based on an elongated Redstone booster.

"We had nine of them. We had fired three, recovered a nose cone —the one the President showed on television—and had the data we wanted. So I had the other six rockets put away in the bank, just in case.

"The morning after Sputnik, we had this stuff off the shelf and were moving. We added a fourth stage rocket. The IGY panel assigned us an experiment on cosmic rays, which the Jet Propulsion Laboratory engineered for the Explorer shape.

"We didn't get the official go-ahead for Explorer until four or five days after Sputnik. We were that much ahead again.

"One of the nose cone tests, in September 1956, went 3,000 miles a year before Sputnik.

"My boys had figured in advance that that 1956 shot could have put a satellite in orbit, if they'd tossed away the dummy top section and put on the fourth stage and the satellite itself.

"And I think they would have done it if I hadn't watched 'em."

Frostburg College Seeks $1½ Million

The State Planning Commission has been asked to approve a total allocation of $1,455,000 for additional projects at Frostburg State Teachers College.

However, of the total, $536,000 was asked for Gunter Hall, the dining hall building. During the past fiscal year, $422,000 had been appropriated, but when bids were opened they were about $80,000 higher than the amount available.

The State Department of Public Improvements made attempts to modify the design of this building, but the State Board of Education did not approve the change in the style of roof.

This would be inconsistent with the architecture that has been followed in the other new buildings, the board said.

The Board of Education wants two more residence halls, one for men and the other for women. The board is asking the planning commission to approve the allocation of $362,000 for each of them.

R. Bowen Hardesty, Frostburg State president, said each of the halls would be similar to the other two new residence halls built in the past few years, — Allen Hall for men and Simpson Hall for women.

Each would be designed to accommodate 90 students, giving additional residence space to 180 students.

The board also asked $195,000 for site improvements. This would go for outdoor athletic facilities in the south area in the rear of Compton Hall, the gymnasium.

Hardesty commented that the college has first class indoor athletic facilities, but the outdoor area is substandard.

He said part of that money would go for landscaping around Gunter Hall when it is completed.

There are two residence halls for women at Frostburg, Simpson Hall with space for 91 and Frost Hall with rooms for 120.

Allen Hall will accommodate 90 students.

When Gunter Hall is completed, the dining area in Frost Hall will be converted to a large living room, which that building lacks, a music room, infirmary with quarters for physician and nurses, and quarters for the hall supervisor.

Completion of these projects would have Frostburg State making a creditable contribution to the educational facilities of Western Maryland.

The only state college in Western Maryland, it has been expanding by leaps and bounds since the building project was instituted in 1947 by Dr. Lillian C. Compton, who was president of the school when a state committee advocated that it be closed down.

The citizens of Frostburg and surrounding areas and the faculty and alumni of the college were instrumental in saving the institution from being abandoned, and in addition got a building program started.

Workers Begin Razing Span Over Wills Creek

Workmen are in the process of dismantling the temporary bridge across Wills Creek at Baltimore Street.

The wooden structure of heavy beams was erected last year and while the modern concrete span was being constructed across the creek the temporary span was used by thousands of autos and small trucks.

A large crane is being used to lift the heavy deck planking from the bridge onto trucks. The temporary span cost approximately $35,000. Much of the heavy timber can be salvaged.

Meanwhile, the Western Maryland Railway is continuing the work on a new bridge to replace the span in use just above the Baltimore Street bridge for many years. Both projects are part of the overall flood control program.

The railway bridge had several large piers in the stream bed and this impeded the flow of the water. The new span will be of a design to fit in with the general flood control program. A temporary trestle type span is being used by the railway while the new bridge is being constructed.

The temporary railway span is supported by huge steel beams which were driven into bedrock of the creek.

4-H Club Week Registration Started Here

Registration of Allegany County boys and girls who will attend the annual 4-H Club Week program at the University of Maryland August 4 through August 9 has been started.

Last year approximately 45 boys and girls attended from this county. James Arnold, assistant county farm agent in charge of boys club work, and Miss Mary Wise, county home demonstration agent, said reservations should be in by July 19.

The program includes demonstrations and discussions on agriculture and related subjects for boys. The girls will discuss home economics and also witness demonstrations.

For the older 4-H boys and girls over 16 years of age the classes have been planned on topics such as careers, clothing selection, new trends in home economics and agriculture, recreation and public speaking.

During the late afternoon various activities such as dancing, tennis, softball, volley ball, crafts, sketching are on the program. Campfire programs are held on two evenings during the week.

The boys and girls are divided into 24 Indian tribes and on three evenings Indian councils are held. Vesper services are held at the end of each day's program.

A visitors' day will be held August 8 and a Club Week pageant is slated for the morning of August 8. On the same day a dress review will be held in the afternoon.

There will be several sightseeing tours of Washington.

Members of 4-H Clubs in Allegany County who expect to attend will have a pre-club week meeting July 24 at 7:30 p. m. at the office of the Extension Service, third floor of the Court House.

Teen-Agers Dance

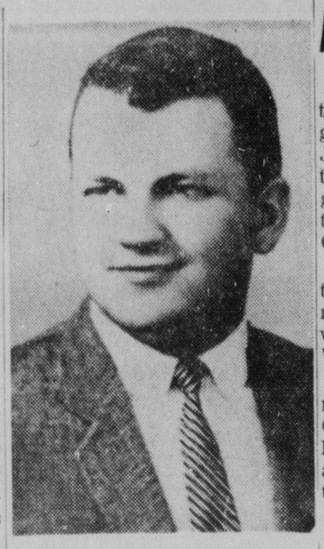
WESTERNPORT — A Teen-Age dance will be held at the Union Hall Friday at 8:30 p. m. Music will be provided by the Music Makers featuring Les Clifford.



GRADUATES — Edward C. Athey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Athey, 212 Laing Avenue, was graduated June 30 with a degree in commercial science from Benjamin Franklin University in Washington. A graduate of Fort Hill High School in 1954 where he played football and baseball, Athey has also taken undergraduate work at the U. S. Department of Agriculture School. He is married to the former Dixie Lee Klosterman and they have one son.

Strike Action Authorized By Kelly Local

In a vote taken during the past two days, the membership of Local 26, United Rubber Workers, has given its officers the right to call a strike during the current wage negotiations with Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Of the 1,600 members of the union, 78 per cent went to the polls, A. E. Johnson, president, said.

The margin in favor of giving the officers the authority was a hundred to one, he added.

The union is conducting negotiations with Kelly officials through a wage reopening clause in the contract that will remain in effect until next spring.

Johnson said the industry pattern of eight cents an hour is being asked. Two weeks ago, Goodrich and Goodyear companies of Akron granted an increase of eight cents an hour to the 35,000 rubber workers there.

Held off in Akron for later discussions were proposals concerning pensions and insurance programs.

Johnson said the 60-day wage reopening period comes to an end at midnight Saturday. Negotiations are continuing daily, he said.

Area Land Dispute Hearing Is Today

A land condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission against a property owner on U. S. Route 40 in the Flintstone area is scheduled for a hearing before a jury in Circuit Court today.

The SRC brought the suit against Saul P. Mauzy for land needed in the highway modernization project under way in that area. Milton Gerson is Mauzy's attorney while William C. Walsh represents the SRC.

A similar suit for another piece of land on U. S. Route 40 in the Flintstone area which had been scheduled yesterday was settled out of court. The land was owned by Arthur C. Walters. He was represented by Earl E. Manges and Harold E. Naughton while the SRC was represented by William L. Wilson.

Railroad Traffic Boost Expected

Traffic on the Western Maryland Railway and B&O Railroad is expected to pick up next week when union mines go back to work.

Coal business on the two carriers, which haul much bituminous fuel from area West Virginia and Pennsylvania pits, has been slack during the past two weeks.

This period is the annual paid vacation of the miner who works for companies having contracts with the United Mine Workers.

The two-week vacation when rail traffic is down is also taken by many railroaders for their annual leave.

Medical Doctors Needed In Creek Area

The need for medical practitioners in the Georges Creek region was outlined in a letter to John Sargeant, executive secretary of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Sargeant had written the county board concerning the need for medical practitioners in that area which lies between Frostburg and Westernport.

The commissioners said the need for medical service in the Georges Creek area is general. For a number of years there was a doctor in Midland, one in Barton and three in Lonaconing, the board stated. At present there is only one physician to serve the center portion of the valley, the commissioners pointed out.

The medical body inquired particularly about Knapps Meadow, Moscow, Nikep, Mill Run and the county commissioners pointed out they are all located in the same general area.

Any doctor interested in locating in the valley will be able to obtain suitable housing in Midland, Lonaconing or Barton, the commissioners told Sargeant. They also said schools are excellent and Lonaconing has a modern two-million dollar high school, which is Valley High.

As far as social activities, Maplehurst Country Club at Frostburg offers the usual social and recreational facilities of such organizations, the board added. The nearest hospital is Miners in Frostburg and in addition residents of the area are also treated at Sacred Heart and Memorial hospitals in Cumberland.

The opportunities for a young, interested doctor are great in this area, the commissioners stated.

KEYSER — A Chestnut Street house and one automobile were badly damaged in a two-car collision at the corner of Chestnut and South Davis shortly before 1 p. m. Wednesday.

City Patrolman James Spurling said Robert Lee Selders, 40, New Creek, was driving north on South Davis Street when Leon Wineow Holmes, 57, Cumberland, Md., driving a 1954 Ford, pulled through a stop sign out of Chestnut in front of Selders.

Selders rammed into the Holmes car and it careened across the sidewalk into the front porch of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Clifford. The car smashed into the front porch, through a post and into the front door. The impact was so great that plaster in the ceiling of two rooms was knocked down.

Neither Selders nor Holmes was hurt, but Holmes was charged with failing to have his car under control. He told Spurling the accelerator on his car stuck.

The Selders car was only slightly damaged, but the Holmes vehicle was extensively damaged.

Diocese Bishop Is Brother Of Local Priest

The Most Rev. John J. Russell, Bishop of Charleston, S. C., has been named to head the Richmond Diocese succeeding the Most Rev. Peter L. Ireton, who died April 27.

Bishop Russell is a brother of Rev. W. Joyce Russell, former assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church here.

The Richmond Diocese covers Virginia and eight counties of West Virginia, including those in the Eastern Panhandle such as Mineral, Hampshire, Morgan and Berkeley counties.

The administrator for the Richmond Diocese until the new bishop was appointed by Pope Pius XII was the Most Rev. Joseph H. Hodges, auxiliary bishop of the diocese.

Bishop Hodges lived in Cumberland as a boy, attending St. Patrick's School. He was the son of a B&O railroad physician.

Bishop Russell is a native of Baltimore and graduate of St. Charles College and St. Mary's Seminary and Urban University in Rome.

He was made a domestic prelate in 1945 after serving pastorates in Baltimore and Washington. In January 1950 he was made Bishop of Charleston, S. C.

The raccoon is found only in North and Central America. It is common to the whole of the United States.

PREPARING FOR PICNIC—Cooks at the Men of LaSalle corn and wiener roast Sunday will feature the oversize chef hats which Joseph Divico (standing) tries on Paul G. Stakem, left, and John C. Baar. Mr. Divico, a city chemist and a chef in his own right, is chairman for the outing. Mr. Stakem is co-chairman and Mr. Baar, master brewer for the Cumberland Brewing Company, is food chairman. The picnic will be held at SS. Peter and Paul picnic grounds on Mason Road from 6 to 9 p. m., with dancing from 9 p. m. to midnight.

Prankster Loose?

TORONTO (AP) — Police are looking for what they think—they hope—is a prankster. He's been going around putting printed signs on the windshields of visiting U.S. cars that say: "Get out of Canada, Yankee," signed "The Royal Loyalists of Canada."

Three Miners Found Dead In Deep Workings

SOPHIA, W. Va. (AP) — Three vacationing miners who went back to work for one day were found dead, Thursday, victims of a gas explosion deep in a coal mine in the southern part of the state.

The three miners agreed to go back Wednesday morning to start some pumps in No. 1 mine of the Slab Fork Coal Co., idle during the miners' annual 10 - day vacation period. When they had not returned home by 11 last night, their families notified company officials, and rescue parties started in after them.

About 2½ miles into the slope mine, the leading rescue party was blocked by debris from an explosion. Their indicators showed definite traces of explosive methane gas and deadly carbon monoxide.

It seemed obvious that the methane gas had seeped into the mine tunnel and had been ignited, possibly by a spark from a motor. There was no resulting fire.

The force of the explosion tossed an eight - ton motor into the side of the tunnel.

Although the debris considerably held up the rescue operations, the chief deterrent was in ventilating the mine and exhausting the combustible gases.

Dead were Sam Sawyers, 54 - year - old father of 12 children, and Walter Moore, 38, married but childless, both of Slab Fork, and Herbert Cline, 42, night foreman and father of six, of nearby Maxwell Hill.

The mine was scheduled to resume operations next Monday, when the vacation period ends. It doesn't look likely now.

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Sawyer, who are next - door neighbors within sight of the mine entrance, said their husbands went into the mine at 7 a.m.

When their husbands did not return home by suppertime, they still were not unduly alarmed, for they could see that no water was being ejected from the exhaust line. They must be working overtime, the women thought.

But by 11 p.m., they were worried. They called Mrs. Sawyer's brother - in - law, Charles Francis, a load supplier at the mine. Francis called an assistant to the coal company's president, and a rescue party was quickly organized.

The party entered the mine about midnight. At 3 a.m. Thursday, it sent up word that it "looks like there must have been an explosion." The men found pieces of twisted beltline and a beltpan.

An investigation would await the clearing of the tunnel to the explosion site.

State Mines Chief Crawford L. Wilson said in Charleston that the clearing was expected by Friday and the investigation would start at 9 a.m.

Wilson scheduled the formal hearing for 10:30 a.m. Saturday. He said that Charles Ferguson of Washington, safety director for the United Mine Workers, would be among those present.

The mines chief, who was in touch with the operations in the mine throughout the day, said that a total of 50 men took part in the search for the three miners. Of these, about 15 were state mine inspectors and other officials of the mines department. The accident came when the company rescue teams were on vacation.

In October of 1956, another three men were killed in an accident at the same mine.

Lions Invited To Visit W.Va. By Underwood

Governor Speaks At Chicago Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Cecil Underwood invited Lions from all over the world to visit West Virginia during a special program at Chicago Stadium honoring his state Thursday night.

The governor began his speech with a tribute to Dudley Simms of Charleston, W. Va., president-elect of Lions International who will take office when the four-day convention here ends Saturday.

"You will come to know more of his great talents in the year ahead," he said of Simms during the "West Virginia Night" program.

Inviting the Lions present to visit his state, Underwood promised a welcome "with warmth and pleasure."

He put his invitation like this: "If you've never seen, or if you enjoy seeing, the flame of the maple and oak as the autumn leaves turn to gold; if you thrill to the eloquence of the quiet trees and green-glistening sod; if you appreciate a pioneering spirit where people are progressive and full of vigor; and if you like to be among friends — then we invite you to our state, the land of the rhododendron where people relax and work with pride and joy in their land."

Garment Plant Operations To Begin Monday

Factory Result Of Civic Effort

FROSTBURG — After more than 10 years' work by various civic groups to secure a new industry here, the project will become a reality Monday when the Frostburg Development Company (undergarment factory) will begin operations in the $100,000 factory constructed by the Frostburg Industrial Development Corporations, a non-profit group of local citizens.

Following several trys over the 10-year period to obtain funds for the erection of another factory for a local industry, and missing out by a small margin in each case, the present project was begun through the cooperation of the Mayor and Council and interested citizens. The Cumberland Undergarment Company was planning on moving operations due to the type of building they were operating in. The firm needed a one floor operation for more economical production. This project, too, seemed doomed when pledges for shares in the construction were not forthcoming.

The group was ready to drop the matter when William Preston, then a private citizen and now a city commissioner, said "let's try again and get the women to help." From then on the project moved forward and enough pledges for shares of stock were secured to erect the building which is now located at Wrights Crossing.

The new factory, which will manufacture women's slips, half slips and night gowns, will employ approximately 130 persons when in full operating capacity, Maurice Milberg, company official said. Equipment moved into the factory has been installed and is now receiving finishing touches.

Milberg stated that as soon as the factory begins regular production an open house will be held for all shareholders, followed by another for all local residents.

First Class Post Office Is Assured For Paw Paw

Increased Receipts Improve Rating

PAW PAW—The Paw Paw Post Office is the first in Morgan county to receive a first class rating, effective July 1.

Local receipts have soared from $6,500 to $65,500 in the last year as the result of the Avon Products Company locating a local shipping center which occupies a building formerly used by the old tannery.

The new status has brought about plans for a new post office building on the site next to the Consolidated Orchard Company offices, now under option by the Post Office Department. This will provide the town with modern postal facilities.

The new post office building here will probably be built within the year. It will be especially adapted for post office use and will provide the town with a new attractive structure.

Rouzee Postmaster

James H. Rouzee has been postmaster here the past 18 years. The sudden growth has saddled him with numerous new responsibilities which include the supervision of one station at the Avon plant. He will also have more employes under his supervision. The postmaster, one clerk and a substitute ran the office for years.

Rouzee has also had a rural route from the office which provides services for persons living in Morgan and Hampshire counties in West Virginia and Allegany County, Maryland. Miss Ada Lions has been on the staff for 24 years and Mrs. Ray Portmess, one year. Robert McCoole, who has been with the Postal Transportation Service for eight years running the Washington-Grafton Railway Post Office, will be transferred to the Paw Paw station after July 12. Herman Gatey is the rural carrier.

The large shipment of parcel post is now being handled by a truck route between Martinsburg and Paw Paw. The route is the principal source of incoming mail, as well as outlet. The county seat of Berkeley Springs and Great Cacapon receives mail from this route, as does Hancock, W. Va.; Hancock, Md.; Warfordsburg, Pa. and several other offices by connection made at Berkeley Springs.

Money Orders Up

The outgoing COD business, numbering about six or seven each year, has now expanded to about 45 daily. Paw Paw is without a bank and a large money order business for the post office has resulted.

The principal industry of Paw Paw is the growing and packing of fruit. The Consolidated Orchard Company has a packing plant and offices here. Until a few years ago, the tanning business played an important part in the town's economy. This plant operated nearly full-time during the thirties and Paw Paw weathered the depression better than most small towns.

Through the effort of a citizens' committee seeking replacement industry, the town's possibilities were brought to the attention of the Avon firm which took advantage of local facilities and the labor market. This company now provides about 90 per cent of receipts at the post office, and is the town's second largest employer with Consolidated leading the employment picture with 110 full-time workers and up to 400 during the orchard season.

Rouzee is the fifteenth postmaster of the Paw Paw office which was established May 26, 1846, with Isaac Baker as postmaster. He was succeeded by Samuel A Pancoast July 8, 1854. Others serving the office, with the beginning date of their terms, were William Heironimus, August 10, 1857; Jacob Ziler, May 15, 1862; Albert Hughes, January 15, 1878; Lewis Largent, March 7, 1878; Oliver Wilson, September 16, 1885; Samuel Edminston, April 11, 1889; John Williamson, June 30, 1893; Samuel Edminston, June 30, 1897; George Flora, May 13, 1901; P. E. Nixon, February 15, 1915; George Flora, August 13, 1921; Benjamin Moser, October 20, 1925; Mrs. Lillie Mosier, January 16, 1926 and Henry McNabb, 1933. Only one of the former postmasters. Mrs. Moser, is still living.

Formerly Flora's Mill

The Town of Paw Paw was originally in Hampshire County, prior to the formation of Morgan County, and on early maps was listed as Flora's Mill. The railroad and the canal brought a shipping and trading center here. During the Civil War, Union troops kept a considerable force here to protect the railroad and canal and flank forces attempting to cut communications over both.

Receipts of the Paw Paw office are about three times those at the next largest office in the county, the second-class county seat office at Berkeley Springs. Paw Paw and Great Cacapon post offices are the only ones left of six in Cacapon District. These now serve all the people of this area, giving star and rural routes door service to patrons who formerly walked to small offices for mail.

Protocol Hassle Settled: 'Judge' Title Off Ballots

CHARLESTON (AP) — A big hassle over protocol was settled to the satisfaction of all concerned at the Secretary of State's office Thursday.

It started when two circuit judges complained that a third circuit judge had gained "an unwarranted and unfair advantage" by having "judge" in front of his name on the ballot.

All three judges, along with four other citizens, are candidates for the Democratic nomination for judge of the Supreme Court to fill a vacancy created by the recent death of Judge James B. Riley.

The joint complaintants were Judges Norman Knapp of Beckley and Harlan C. Calhoun of Moorefield. They were nettled by a rival candidate, Judge K. K. Hall, being listed as "judge" on the Democratic ballot. Judge Hall readily agreed to dropping his title on the ballot.

Meanwhile, Republican Judge Max DeBerry of Harrisville heard about the Democratic hassle and wired Secretary of State Helen Holt to delete the "judge" from his name on the GOP ballot.

Judge DeBerry and E. Franklin Pauley of Charleston are running for the Republican nomination for the Republican nomination for a six-year vacancy on the Supreme Court bench.

Mrs. Holt promptly informed Judges Knapp and Calhoun that it had been customary for the Secretary of State to accept titles with candidacies.

She held conferences, however, with Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron and representatives of the West Virginia State Bar.

The Bar's legal ethics committee, in an earlier case involving Judge Hall this year, said it was unethical for a judge to use the prestige of his position to seek political office.

That was when Judge Hall announced for Congress without resigning his office as judge. He later withdrew.

After the round of conferences, Mrs. Holt issued a statement saying, "we are right in accepting titles."

However, Judge Hall requested that the "judge" be eliminated from his listing. So Mrs. Holt said that inasmuch as all parties to the controversy had gotten together, her office would go along with them "as a matter of courtesy."

She forthwith sent out telegrams to all circuit clerks, who are responsible for printing the local ballots, asking them to delete the "judge" from Hall's name on the Democratic ballot, and from DeBerry's name on the Republican ticket.

If the ballots are already printed, she suggested stickers be pasted over the "judge."

Belington Man Abandons Plan To Span Ocean

SOUTHWEST HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Two men who planned to cross the Atlantic in an 18-foot outboard boat canceled their trip Thursday and said they might have to hitchhike home for lack of money.

Roy Sutter, 43, of Belington, W. Va., said he and James Pirtle, 30, of Fort Worth, Tex., gave up the project after having waited three weeks for word and money from their sponsor. They identified him as Ben Whitehouse, owner of a Fort Worth boat company.

Sutter said he and Pirtle want to "apologize to the press, although the outcome of the adventure is not our fault."

He said their resources had now diminished to $26 and 20 gallons of fuel and that they presently didn't know just how to return to their homes.

Sutter said he had given up a position in Los Angeles to make the crossing.

Parolee Held In Burglary

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — Donald Clarence Barber, a parolee from the Maryland Reformatory for Males at Hagerstown, was held on burglary charges Thursday in connection with the breaking and entering of a filling station.

The 18-year-old Hagerstown youth was picked up on the highway after a filling station at U.S. 40 and Swan's Creek, between Havre de Grace and Aberdeen, was broken into at 12:35 a.m.

The station's owner heard noises from a receiver he has in the station and called police. An Aberdeen policeman arrived just after someone had climbed out of a rear window. A car was parked in the station's driveway and police said two cigar boxes with an undetermined amount of money were in the car.

Barber was lodged in the Harford County jail at Bel Air pending action by the state's attorney.

Police records at Hagerstown showed that Barber is on probation from an 18-month sentence at the Maryland Reformatory for Males and has been arrested eight times on such charges as larceny, drunk and disorderly conduct and assault.

Farm Income Up

Total cash farm income in Maryland during the first quarter was three per cent higher than a year ago, the State Planning Commission has reported.

The increase was due to better income from livestock—up 13 per cent — allthough income from crops was 40 per cent under a year ago.

Horse Dies; Owner Cited For Cruelty

CHARLESTON (AP) — Carlos Seabolt of Shrewsbury, operator of a cinder block plant and former mayor of Cedar Grove, has been cited for alleged cruelty to animals.

Magistrate Earl Arthur said Thursday that Seabolt had been ordered to appear in his court Monday in answer to a complaint lodged by the Charleston Humane Assn.

Mrs. Dorsey Smith, president of the humane group, said an investigation established that Seabolt had mistreated and failed to take proper care of a horse.

"It's the worst case of neglect of an animal I've ever seen," Mrs. Smith said. "We sent a veterinarian to the animal's aid but the horse died before the doctor arrived."

Cops, Take, Lose, Then Find Slots

MULLENS (AP) — The battered remains of five slot machines stolen from headquarters of the Wyoming County State Police detachment have been found along the Cabin Creek road.

The machines, confiscated in a weekend raid on the Mullens American Legion Club, were stolen Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

Col. C. W. Andrick said an unidentified man had provided information which led to finding the machines scattered near a bridge, where an attempt apparently had been made to throw them in a creek.

The machines, officials said, apparently were battered open for the seven or eight hundred dollars worth of coins they were said to have contained.

The Recession Is Wearing Out

Students of the U. S. economy now have the situation pretty well sorted out. They see the recessionary trend as waning rapidly because of two factors.

Disposable personal income, which means spending power, is down only $4 billion. That is only 1 per cent less than the peak annual rate. Government payments have largely offset the payroll decline.

These payments include unemployment insurance, social security and veterans' benefits—the built-in anti-recession programs which had been expected to soften any business decline.

Maintenance of relatively high consumer purchasing power is a solid factor in helping business over the doldrums. Business was confronted by the necessity of liquidating excess inventories. While this is happening at a record rate, more goods are being consumed than produced.

Presently industry will be producing at the rate of consumption, and the upturn will be here.

Buyers will be back in the supply markets, factory production schedules will increase, and the unemployed will return to the assembly lines.

There is no threat to an increasing economic vigor except the normal mid-summer lull. Once that is past, there will be an upward movement of moderate proportions at least.

With rising population and new products to meet the increasing wants of the American people, the next period of prosperity should last well into the 1960s.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Does It Cost?

Many, many years ago, when I was associated with the National Association of Manufacturers, some of the hired help got into a great discussion as to how to measure a standard of living. There had always been large talk on how high and superior the American standard of living is but how does anyone really know? What is the yardstick that can be universally applied?

So we worked it out on the basis of how many hours of labor does a man have to sell to buy a pound of butter, a loaf of bread, a glass of water, a pair of shoes, a shirt, a dress, etc. We found, after careful research, that not only was the American standard of living high but that, in comparison with many other countries, the cost of living, measured in terms of labor, was low.

Now along comes the AFL-CIO, Department of International Affairs, with a chart that brings such studies up-to-date. In fact, they do a more complete job because, in addition to showing what the situation is now, they make a comparison with 1938. The ultimate test of Communism, even from the standpoint of dialectical materialism, will not be how many nations the Kremlin will reduce to its will and power, but what happens to the people of those countries, what is done for their general welfare. For instance, in Albania, according to this AFL-CIO chart, in 1938 it cost a man 205 hours to buy a suit of clothes, but in 1957, it cost 513. Something obviously is wrong there. The hours of labor should have been reduced as the country moved from a revolutionary to a stabilized condition. If we take the United States as the norm, only because we live here, it takes a man 33 hours, 10 minutes of labor to buy a suit of clothes and in Soviet Russia, it takes 350 hours of work for the same purpose. When one realizes that 350 hours is nearly 44 working days of 8 hours each, it is an enormous price to pay for one suit of clothes.

Let us have a look at one pound of bread. In the United States, that costs a worker five minutes of labor and we complain about the high cost of living. In Soviet Russia, which used to be called the granary of the world, it takes 11 minutes of work to get that pound of bread. In Albania, 22 minutes; in Bulgaria, 23 minutes; in Poland, 20 minutes.

Mere figures do not explain what this means. In the Iron Curtain countries, bread is still the staff of life, the principal article of food in every household. Nobody there can say that if bread is too dear, let them use a cake mix. They have no cake mix and would not eat it.

This study, currently made, has enormous implications because how long can a people be inadequately fed and clothed and take the pabulum of Utopian promises as compensation? Of course, those who go on personally conducted tours do not see what the life of the people is in 8,500,000 square miles, nor could one in a life-time of exploration and research. Furthermore, unless one has been studying economic and social standards in these various countries since 1917, it is impossible to form a judgment.

The question that arises, then, is how authentic are the AFL-CIO figures? The chart states that the figures are based on the most authoritative sources, but the sources are not given. From the context of the printed matter, it would appear that the figures are taken from Soviet publications. It would have been better had the sources been published so that no question as to authenticity can arise. If we accept the data in the AFL-CIO chart, the conclusion must be reached that as regards certain essential articles of food and clothing, the standard of living in Iron Curtain countries continues to go down.

It would be interesting if the same type of examination were made for the 100 commodities most consumed in the United States. Let us take a stenographer as an example. What does she consume in the course of a year in the United States; what does a similarly employed girl, working identical hours, consume in Soviet Russia, Rumania and Red China? What a story that would tell!

The Clown Act

Reversal Of Little Rock Decision Being Demanded

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Representative Emanuel Celler, Democrat, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, has issued a statement demanding that the Department of Justice intervene as a "friend of the court" and try to get reversed the decision recently handed down at Little Rock. Federal Judge Harry Lemley granted a two-and-a-half-year delay in desegregation, as requested by the School Board. Mr. Celler says:

"It is imperative for the Department of Justice to intervene and assert the importance of the settled law of the school segregation case."

It is not the function, however, of the Department of Justice to intervene in every case when it is alleged the law is being violated by private litigants. Usually it intervenes only on the request of the court itself. Nor is there any such thing as "settled law" in the school segregation problem.

On the contrary, the law concerning delays in desegregation cases is far from "settled." A most informative article on this subject, which was compiled by the editors of the Harvard Law Review and presented in a recent issue, now takes on added significance. It treats exhaustively all the different kinds of delays that have occurred since the Supreme Court decided the desegregation case in 1954 known as "Brown vs. The Board of Education." Articles and "notes" in the Harvard Law Review are often quoted in Supreme Court decisions, and many of the editors of past years have been chosen to be "law clerks" to various Supreme Court justices.

The Harvard Law Review article on delays in desegregation cases refers to the factors of "community hostility" as follows:

"The courts, in reviewing local School Boards, have exhibited great diversity in according weight to the administrative factors enumerated in the Brown decree, and in the scope of review accorded the Boards' actions. The cause of this diversity appears to be the response of the courts and the School Boards to the factor of community hostility.

"Although this factor is not expressly considered in the Brown decree beyond the statement that 'disagreement' cannot alone prevent ultimate enforcement, since the court ordered retention of jurisdiction of the cases by the lower courts, it seems probable that in some instances the court contemplated a protracted period of transition.

"Some courts and commentators have found that the Brown decree forecloses consideration of actual or potential local hostility in determining the need for delay, and that only the enumerated elements of adminstrative difficulty may be weighed in determining the need for delay in plans for desegregation. On the other hand, several courts have placed direct reliance on hostile community attitudes in order to justify delay."

In one instance the U. S. Court of Appeals for the 8th Circuit affirmed a plan of desegregation which is not expected to be completed for seven years. The School Board's stated reasons for delay were the "size and complexity of the job and the need for planned new facilities whose creation should be awaited, the need in order to begin where fewer teachers and students are involved to desegregate by descending grades, and the value of gaining experience gradually to avoid 'mistakes.'."

Inasmuch as none of these difficulties, treated as administrative problems, appeared to the Harvard Law Review editors to present a reasonable basis for requiring a seven-year transitional period, the editors declared that it seemed to them, therefore, that "the court must have allowed some weight to be given to the factor of community hostility which is latent in the reasons given by the School Board."

The article points out that, where delay is likely to occur, the court as a condition of withholding an injunction ought to require the School Board to make a prompt and reasonable start, including the formulation of some plan by which the ultimate desegregation is to be achieved. The Harvard law editors added this comment:

"The conscientious School Board defendant can represent to the court a sober judgment of the limits of what is peaceably possible at a particular place and time. The court may find that recognition of the plaintiff's right requires greater speed, and disapprove the plan in whole or in part; but by refusal to consider hostility the court will cut itself off from a valuable source of relevant information."

None of this indicates that there is any such thing as "settled law" with reference to the enforcement of the desegregation decision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Some form of delay is almost certain to be upheld in the Little Rock case. The issue may turn on whether two-and-a-half years is too long and whether some modification might be made which would permit a review at the end of another twelve months. Plainly the School Board at Little Rock not only made an effort to conform to the Supreme Court decision, but actually did try, by the admission of nine Negro students, to develop an integration plan When the same School Board which made this effort now comes into court and says it needs more time, it would be surprising indeed if any of the higher courts denied the School Board the right to exercise some discretion in the timing of its plans for enforcing the Supreme Court's decree.

Our Daily Food Gets Safe Chemical Additives

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Contrary to some ideas that have been circulated, reliable food processors have not reduced the nutritional quality of our foods or created inferior products through the use of chemical additives. Actually, the quality and sanitary characteristics of our foods have been improving. Likewise, there is no evidence that consumption of foods resulting from the use of the new chemicals in crop production, or in the processing of foods, has created mysterious disease epidemics or endangered the health of the people."

This statement by the Food Protection committee of the National Research council appeared in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Dietetic Association. It was used by Dr. H. W. Schultz to quell many misleading claims made by those who think the public is being poisoned by modern food technology.

The word "chemical" has a harmful or undesirable connotation to some individuals. This has led to misconceptions and alarming statements about the hazards of adding such substances to foods. Many persons do not realize that food itself is a chemical or a combination of chemicals. The same can be said of vitamins, minerals, flavors, and the natural coloring matter of foods.

Various chemicals are added during the production, processing, and storing of almost everything we eat. They help to protect growing crops against insects and plant diseases; to preserve edibles; and to improve the nutritional value, eye appeal, texture, and flavor. Virtually the only objection stems from the use of pesticides that might remain in the foods when they reach the consumer. Some of these chemicals are essential for many reasons but they need not be hazardous.

Competent experts are retained to judge the safety of a product before it is marketed. According to Dr. Schultz, "No reputable food manufacturer will add a chemical to food when a hazard to public health is known to him."

This does not mean that all chemicals are safe and that all manufacturers have the good of the public at heart. The Food Protection committee of the National Research council has been following the process closely in the interest of public welfare.

NEW INFECTIONS

J. J. S. writes: Between the ages of 13 and 30 I had three attacks of rheumatic fever. Is it possible this infection was active in my system during those years?

REPLY

Recurrences are common in rheumatic fever but each attack is preceded by a respiratory ailment of streptococcal origin. Further attacks are discouraged by avoiding strep infections or by the routine use of a sulfonamide or an antibiotic. The moment a throat infection occurs it should receive immediate treatment.

PRESSURE HAZARDS

W. Z. writes: Why is high blood pressure dangerous?

REPLY

It is dangerous when it leads to enlargement of the heart and causes premature hardening of the arteries. It is the latter that is responsible for heart attacks, strokes or uremia.

MUSCLES IN CROSS-EYE

Mrs. F. writes: Is cross-eye in a child due to paralysis of the eye muscle?

REPLY

It could be but muscle weakness is a more common cause.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Revived: the story of the little man homeward bound from a festive office party. He consulted his watch. It was 7 p. m.! From the taxi window, he next spotted a clock outside a jewelry store. It registered 6:55. Then he asked a driver for the time. "The time," was the answer, "is exactly 6:50."

"Turn around fast," implored the little man. "I'm going in the wrong direction!"

Texas, of course, is the largest state in the union, but how many of you can name the following five in their proper order? Your list made? Well, here they are: California, Montana, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada.

Jones had just flubbed his fourth shot in the same trap one Sunday morning. "The way I'm playing golf," he muttered disgustedly, "I might just as well have gone to church."

Microphone-Placing, Wiretapping Long Used In Washington Sleuthing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This writer, who for some years has specialized on getting the inside news from Cabinet meetings and smoke-filled rooms, has been the subject of considerable ribbing on having his ace sleuth caught in company with the ace sleuth of the Harris Congressional committee. The ribbing is justified.

Two wrongs don't make a right, but the mistake Baron Shacklette, the Harris committee's chief investigator, made was in "bugging" the room next to him in the Sheraton Carlton Hotel instead of using the Washington police.

The metropolitan police are not supposed to bug rooms or tap wires for either private individuals or Congressional committees. It is strictly against the rules. However, they do it just the same, as demonstrated by the operations of Police Lieut. Joseph Shimon when he spied on Howard Hughes, the west coast airplane manufacturer, and his executives for the benefit of Pan American Airways. Congressional testimony developed the fact that Lieut. Shimon not only directed eavesdropping on the Hughes entourage at two Washton hotels, but that Washington police tapped the telephone of the late Sen. Josiah Bailey of North Carolina, then Chairman of Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, who had the power to pass on important legislation affecting Pan American Airways.

After the Senate probe was all over, Lieut. Shimon went before a police review board to see whether he should be penalized. He was exonerated and given a new choice assignment.

That is how the nation's Capital has looked upon wiretapping and microphone-placing and similar undercover sleuthing in the past. It's not a happy state of affairs in the past. It's not a happy state of affairs in a democracy, and I have written various columns regarding it.

Shadowing Newsmen

It's become something of a habit lately for big businessmen who are under investigation and have plenty of money to spend, to hire detectives to probe Congressmen. Most Congressmen are just as clean as Ike's proverbial "hound's tooth," and many of them are a lot cleaner But with even the cleanest, a smart investigator can sometimes dig up a skeleton which can hurt in a tough election battle. Shacklette, the committee's ex-investigator, was checking on this counter-espionage.

It's a sad travesty on life in the nation's Capital that few hotel rooms are 100 per cent safe if you want to discuss matters highly confidential. Nor are private offices. When you went into the office of former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, he usually pushed a secret button on his desk which turned on a recording machine. General Eisenhower, when commander of NATO, could push a little lever on his desk which recorded the conversation of visitors.

I have never placed a microphone in anyone's room in my life or tapped a telephone wire, and never shall. But when I don't want to let either government investigators or private gumshoes know what I'm talking about I move out of my office into the garden or talk in an automobile.

The New York Times recently revealed that newsmen were being shadowed by agents of the Eisenhower administration. This is true, but it's an old story. I was shadowed more under the Truman administration. The chief reasoning for the shadowing is to ascertain a newsman's sources.

This state of affairs was why Roger Robb was smart in hiring detective Lloyd Furr to look over the rooms of his clients for microphones This is also why the claim of Miss Mildred Paperman that her papers were stolen does not make sense. Smart people don't leave important papers in hotel rooms for a weekend, and Robb is too smart to have his client leave any papers which were worth bothering about.

Vicuna Democrats

A lot of people have been asking what it was Goldfine's agents were discussing on that Sunday night when their room was bugged. Frankly, it was a long way from any earth-shaking plot.

It was a plan to make public various thank-you letters from governors who had received vicuna cloth from Goldfine via Governor Dwinell of New Hampshire during the Governors' Conference in 1955.

The Goldfine crew shuffled through the letters to pick the most embarrassing one and finally selected those of Governor Leader of Pennsylvania, Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan, and ex-Governor Lausche of Ohio, all Democrats.

There was some discussion over whether to withhold Lausche's letter because he had now been elected to the Senate, and was never considered a party-line Senator anyway.

"This is a Democratic-controlled committee," argued one Goldfiner, "and our purpose is to embarrass the Demcoarts."

Someone then proposed including at least one Republican and suggested releasing a letter from J. Bracken Lee, the ex-Governor of Utah, because, though a Republican, he was now defeated and pretty much out of politics. Apparently it was not realized that Lee is now preparing to run for the Senate.

The Bracken Lee idea, however, was ruled out. It was finally decided that Democrats only were to be embarrassed. So the letters of Governor Leader, who is running for the Senate from Pennsylvania, Governor Williams, who is running for an unprecedented sixth term in Michigan and is a presidential candidate, and finally ex-Governor, now Seantor, Lausche of Ohio, were selected.

In brief, the so-called conspirators laid an egg.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

ENCINO, Calif. — Jack Webb and his beautiful bride have gone off to Palm Springs for a honeymoon. They left their little cottage here to Gayle and to me. It is a dream place, as beautiful as a ten-karat diamond set in a cluster of emeralds. The swimming pool is in the back and is shaped like a busted banjo.

Mr. W. is going to sell it for $200,000.

Gayle wishes we could buy it. I said I wished that we could buy one of the bathrooms. At least one of the towels. "Ha!" Gayle said. "You have money you haven't even folded." She is fresh and the Sisters at Star of the Sea Academy will, I hope, drill a little more respect into her bony skull.

The house sets on three acres. It is easy to find. All one does is drive like a maniac up Sunset Boulevard out of Hollywood to Coldwater Canyon, turn right, pass Betty Grable's new house on the left, tear through the canyons of the Santa Monica mountains until Earl Felton's fort is hard a-port, then down to San Fernando Valley, turn north on Ventura Boulevard, fight the other madmen-on-wheels, turn right on Encino Avenue and you will see a big white electric gate on your left.

That's it. That's us. There is a sweep of lawn as in Gone With the Wind, and a one-story house which rambles from left to right all the way across the property. There are curving driveways, little landing strip lights on the edge of the grass, coach lights at the entrance, garages in back, a big guest house and bar, a tennis court, swimming pool, diving board, underwater lights, a servant's house, a small farm, an assortment of fruit trees, including real oranges, and no people.

Originally, it was built by William Bendix. Then, unless I'm mistaken, it was bought by Marie McDonald and Harry Karl. Her dressing room is about the size of the Paramount lobby. After that, Jack Webb and, I think, Julie London, bought it. The woman's shoe rack in one closet will hold 87 pairs of shoes without scuffing.

When Webb got the house, he had John Sturdevant decorate it. All the curtains are made of Irish handkerchief linen. The draw drapes operate on electric impulse. Sturdevant, one of the great art directors, had George Montgomery carve the furniture. It is all hard wood, all early American. The doors are all Dutch, with big brass hinges. The break fronts show old colored plates.

Mr. Jackie Gleason was a guest here last spring. He took one look at the size of the bad in the master bedroom, phoned Wilma, the maid, and said: "Honey, bring a few beers into the baseball diamond." Tall hedges screen the estate from the rest of the world.

Gayle is lost. From her bedroom, which is equipped with two baths, she yells to me in my bedroom, but I cannot hear her. So she picks up her phone, dials 4, and my phone rings. "Hey, pops," she says, "I'm going swimming. How about it?"

"Go ahead," I say. "Just leave your telephone extension with the maid." There is a little silence. "How about us living out here?"

"Nothing doing. Too hot at Christmas time."

"Ginny wants to move out."

"I know. You go swimming and I'll see you later."

The Campaign for California is on. "I've been thinking," Gayle says, "that our house in Sea Bright could be dropped inside of Mr. Webb's guest house." I nod. "That's the good girl," I say. "Keep thinking Sea Bright because that's where you're going to live."

"What a cheapskate," she mumbles. "This place is only $200,000."

"Do you know how much money that is?"

"Well — not exactly."

"You know that quarter spending money you get?"

"Sure daddyo. And that reminds me, you owe me for last week."

"It would require 800,000 weeks of spending money for you to buy this place."

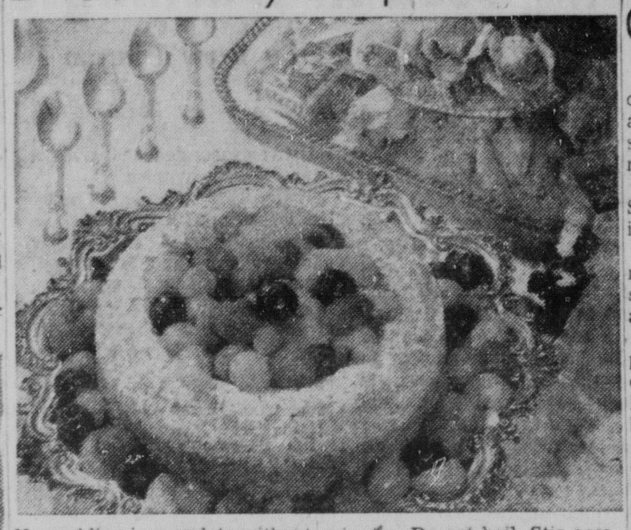
Wishing Ring Of Rice Bridal Party Surprise



No wedding is complete without showering rice on the bride and groom. Why not bring rice into the picture early in the engagement? Serve a colorful and luscious fruit dessert ring at the bridal parties. Decorate with tinted uncooked rice. Give guests packages of the rice as a favor.

INGREDIENTS:

2¼ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup uncooked white rice
3½ cups milk
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¾ cup beet or cane sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 almonds
½ cup drained raspberries, mashed
Red and green food coloring
Mint flavoring
½ cup whipping cream
5 cups chilled fruit, drained (strawberries, maraschino cherries, mandarin oranges, dark sweet cherries, Royal Ann cherries, raspberries)

METHOD: Put 2 cups of water, salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil. Turn heat down. Cover. Simmer 14 minutes. Add 2½ cups of the milk. Cover. Cook over low heat until the milk is absorbed, about 45 minutes. Do not boil. Stir occasionally.

Pour the ¼ cup water over gelatin. When water is absorbed, add remaining 1 cup of milk. Heat very slowly to dissolve gelatin. Stir into the cooked rice. Add sugar, vanilla and almonds. Cool slightly. While warm, lift out slightly more than half of mixture and mix with raspberries. Add red food coloring, if desired.

To rest of rice add mint flavoring to taste. Tint green. Make slightly darker than desired. Cool. Cover and chill both mixtures in refrigerator. When rice is cold, whip cream until stiff. Fold into green rice. Spread in a well-greased ring mold holding 6 cups. Top with raspberry rice. Cover and chill.

Two hours before serving, run a knife around all edges. Dip mold in hot water. Place a large serving platter over mold. Invert. Cover and chill. Or unmold on small plate. To serve, slip to serving platter. Serve with the fruit in and around the ring. Twelve servings.

TO TINT RICE: For each pound of rice, slowly stir in 2 tablespoons colored water. Spread out to dry.

Veal Tarragon

Tarragon, a favorite salad herb, is an ideal flavoring agent for veal. It takes only a pinch of the herb to flavor a couple of pounds of the meat.

Veal Tarragon

2 pounds veal round steak, cut 1-inch thick
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon paprika
2 tablespoons lard
3 medium onions, sliced
½ teaspoon tarragon
1 cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar

Cut veal in serving-size pieces. Combine flour, salt, pepper, and paprika; rub into cut surfaces of veal. Brown meat in hot fat; add onions and brown thoroughly. Sprinkle in tarragon; add water and vinegar. Cook, covered, over low heat until tender, about 1 hour. 6 servings.

Printed oilcloth makes up well into window shades that are unique and washable.

Orange Sauce Over Cured Pork

New and interesting ideas concerning foods, menus or recipes are usually welcomed or considered a refreshing change by most homemakers.

Canadian-Style Bacon-Orange Sauce can turn a colorless meal into a palette of color.

It might interest many homemakers to know that Canadian-style bacon is the boneless cured and smoked back strip of loin.

For convenience and variety purposes, Canadian-style bacon can be roasted if in one piece. If sliced, it may be broiled, panbroiled, or panfried.

In this recipe, 12 slices of Canadian-style bacon are used. They act as a base and topper for an orange and onion slice. The recipe serves 6.

12 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut ¼ inch thick
6 thin onion slices
6 orange slices, rind removed
2 teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup orange juice
1 orange, cut in sections
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Arrange 6 slices Canadian-style bacon in a greased shallow 1½-quart baking dish. Top each slice with an onion slice, an orange slice and another slice of Canadian-style bacon. Bake in a slow oven (300°F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. Mix together sugar and cornstarch. Add orange juice and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Stir in orange sections and lemon rind. Serve sauce over Canadian-style bacon. Yield: 6 servings.

Pink Party Cake Needs Little Work

A good, adaptable party cake recipe which does not require a lot of fancy work is mighty nice to have on hand, especially if you have youngsters with their umpteen reasons for giving parties.

Here is such a cake, thoroughly children-tested which owes its festive air to the simple device of color. By tinting half the batter with any of the pure food colorings in your color kit, you can have a marbleized surprise cake keyed to the party's color scheme, such as the guest of honor's favorite hue. Matching frosting can be elaborate or lusciously simple as shown here, with easy-to-make leaves (leaf pastry tube) centering the candleholders and corcling the cake base.

The cake's flavor is a delicious blend of pure vanilla and almond extracts. Because children love to have their cake and eat it too (as who doesn't?) the recipe allows for a 9" cake and 9-12 take-home cupcakes, each frosted with a guest's name and used as place cards. Pretty ribbons can link them to the cake.

Pink Party Cake

½ cup butter
½ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
2¾ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon pure almond extract
6 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon red food coloring

Cream butter and shortening; add sugar gradually. Sift flour with baking powder and salt three times. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk; beat after each addition. Blend in pure vanilla and almond extracts. Beat egg whites until stiff but still glossy; gently fold into batter. Spoon half of batter into 2 greased 9" layer cake pans and into cupcake pans. Blend coloring to remaining batter with folding motion and alternate spoonsful in cake and cupcake pans. Run spatula once through batter to give marbleized effect. Bake in a 350° oven about 35 minutes. Cool. Frost with pink boiled frosting.

Canned Meats Can Ease Summertime Cooking

Canned meats are a summer treat to Mom because they're easy to prepare; to the family, because they're so tasty. All you need is a little imagination, a can opener, and a cabinet of food supplies (including canned meats).

The next time you shop for food, glance at the canned meat section. There are dozens and dozens of canned meat products. Each can of meat is as protein, vitamin and mineral-rich as fresh meat. For your convenience, the label on the can describes its contents and approximate number of servings.

Three popular canned meats are deviled ham, chili, and luncheon meat. The small can of deviled ham holds a delicious meat blend—it's made of whole ham finely ground and blended with spices. That hearty chili mixture is a spicy blend of chopped meat with a zippy tomato sauce, packed with or without beans. While some canned luncheon meat is all beef or ham, usually the meat is chopped pork shoulder with perhaps some beef, veal, or ham.

Here are three tempting summer recipes using the above canned meats. They can be the meat highlight of a formal brunch, a hearty supper, or an outdoor meal.

Delightfully different, delightfully delicious is the combination of nippy deviled ham, pineapple, and a creamy curry mixture. These deviled ham delights are just the right size and taste combination for a brunch or luncheon.

Deviled Ham Delights

- 2 cans (3¼ ounces, each) deviled ham
- 3 large English muffins, cut in half
- 6 slices canned pineapple
- 1½ tablespoons brown sugar
- 1½ tablespoons butter or margarine
- ⅛ teaspoon curry powder

Spread deviled ham over muffin halves; top each half with a slice of pineapple. Mix sugar, butter, and curry powder. Spread a thin layer of this mixture on each pineapple slice. Place on broiler rack about 2 inches from heat source. Broil 5 minutes. 6 servings.

This meat entree is easy to prepare. Just open a can of chili, prepare a corn bread mix, and you have:

Chili Shortbread

- 2 cans (16 ounces, each) chili con carne with beans
- 6 squares hot corn bread (3-inch squares)

Place chili in sauce pan and cook over low heat until piping hot. Spoon chili over corn bread square. 6 servings.

Sweet-Sour Meat Kebabs

- 1 can luncheon meat
- 1 large green pepper cut into 1-inch chunks
- 6 small whole cooked onions
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons catsup
- 1 tablespoon water
- ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
- 6 frankfurter buns

Cut meat into 1-inch cubes (makes 18 cubes). Alternate meat, green pepper, and onions on skewers, using per skewer, 3 meat cubes, 1 onion, and several green pepper chunks. Place skewers in shallow pan; mix brown sugar, vinegar, catsup, water, and ground cloves, and pour sauce over skewers. Broil 3 inches from heat about 4 minutes, turning once. Remove from skewers and serve on frankfurter buns; spoon on sauce from pan. 6 servings.

Barbecued Beef Dishes Easy To Fix

It's easy to have delicious barbecued food! With this recipe no special equipment is necessary and the sauce is made with just two ingredients plus water! Here is an economical meat dish as well as a last minute one.

Rice is used to stretch the beef and make six generous-sized meat loaves from one pound of beef! The loaves are browned then simmered in a superb barbecue sauce. There's plenty of this sauce so each individual loaf is succulent and good when it's eaten.

MENU

Barbecued Beef Loaves
Butered Sweet Corn
Tossed Vegetable Salad
Favorite Bread
Sliced Peaches Cake

Ingredients:

- 1⅓ cups water
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅔ cup uncooked white rice
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 teaspoons steak sauce
- Flour
- 3 tablespoons cooking fat
- ½ cup chopped onions
- 1½ cups tomato ketchup
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 cups water

Method: Put the 1⅓ cups water, salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid.

Simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

After the rice cooks, stir in the beef, egg and steak sauce. Chill the mixture. Form into 6 small meat loaves using a liberal ½ cup mixture for each loaf. Roll each loaf in flour.

Melt the cooking fat in a large skillet. Add the meat loaves and brown on all sides. Add the onions. Cook several minutes. Arrange the loaves over the onions. Add the ketchup, Worcestershire sauce and water. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until the onions are tender.

Delicious Franks

Slit a frankfurter; stuff it with a mixture of catsup, chopped olives and oregano; wrap in cheese pastry and bake it. The result is frank-cheese delight — wonderful for serving at a casual supper or as a party snack.

Frank-Cheese Delight

- 10 frankfurters (about 1 pound)
- ½ cup catsup
- ¼ cup catsup
- ¼ cup minced black olives
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup lard
- ⅓ cup grated cheese
- ⅓ cup cold water

Slit each frankfurter lengthwise, but do not cut through. Fill opening with a mixture of catsup, olives, and oregano. Sift flour and salt; add lard and cut into flour until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add cheese and mix lightly. Add water, sprinkling it over one portion of the dough at a time and blending in gently with a fork. Shape into a ball; divide into two parts. Roll each part in a rectangle ⅛ inch thick. Cut each part into five rectangles large enough to enclose a frankfurter. Place frank on a section of dough and fold ends over frank; bring sides of dough together; and pinch pastry together at top. Bake on a greased baking sheet at 425° F. 20 minutes. Serve immediately 5 servings.

Freezer To Frying Pan

Cook frozen beef without thawing, say nutritionists, but the meat will require longer cooking time. They recommend adding 15 to 20 minutes per pound to the cooking time.

Rays of red light have the longest wave length of the colors in the visible spectrum.

Spicy Cranberries

- 4 cups (1-lb.) fresh cranberries ground
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ cup orange juice
- 1 cup raisins
- 2 cups brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- ½ cup black walnuts, chopped

Mix all ingredients except black walnuts. Place in refrigerator an hour or more for flavors to blend. Add black walnuts to relish just before serving. Makes 3 cups.

New York Matchmaker Is Indicted In Boxing Scandal

White Tried To Fix Akins, Logart Bout

Walman Is Named In Indictment As Co-Conspirator

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing matchmaker Jimmy White Thursday was indicted and Manager Herman (Hymie the Mink) Wallman was linked with another alleged fix attempt in the spreading boxing scandal.

White, a 51-year-old New Yorker, was indicted by a New York grand jury on charges of conspiracy in trying to fix the Virgil Akins-Isaac Logart fight, and acting as an undercover manager for Logart, a Cuban.

He pleaded innocent and was released in $2,500 bail.

Wallman was named in the indictment as a co-conspirator but not as a co-defendant.

The furrier-manager, who has been suspended by the state athletic commission, also had been named as a co-conspirator in another indictment which the grand jury returned last week against boxing Judge Bert Grant. Grant has been accused of accepting $400 in bribes to influence his decisions in fights involving Wallman's boxers.

Akins, far behind, rallied to knock out Logart in the sixth round of their welterweight tournament elimination bout in Madison Square Garden March 21. Akins, of St. Louis, then knocked out Vince Martinez in the fourth round at St. Louis June 6 to win the vacant welterweight title.

Immediately after the Akins-Logart fight, the DA's office served more than a dozen subpoenas to fight figures, including Akins and Martinez, their managers, and White, at the garden.

BEAUTY IS INTERNATIONAL—Faye Hasenauer (left) can hardly believe the news that judges at Palisades Park, N.J., have selected her Miss New Jersey over 300 other beauties. The title will put her in the running for Miss United States, and if she wins that crown, she will compete in the Miss Universe Pageant. At right, Arminda Perez Gonzales, 24, figures in the running as she is named Miss Cuba in competition in Havana.

Frostburg: Betty Ann Hanna, low net; Driscella Shriner and Gwen King, tied for second low net; Betty Groves and Betty Ann Hanna tied for lowest number of putts.

Oakland: Min Stanley, low net; Betty Swadley, second low net; Ellen Seefeld and Kay Fredlock, tied for lowest number of putts.

Sifford, Burke Lead Insurance Open Tourney

Shoot Sub-Par 63s In Opening Round

WHETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP)—Charles Sifford of Philadelphia and Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., shot a pair of 8 under par 63s Thursday to tie for the first round lead in the annual $25,000 Insurance City Open Golf Tournament.

A total of 54 players broke par and 15 others equalled regulation figures over the 6,551-yard par 71 course.

This exhibition of hot shooting broke the Professional Golfers' Anns. record for the year set last week in the Rubber City Open at Akron, Ohio. On that occasion 45 players broke par and six equalled.

Bracketed in a four-way tie for third place with scores of 65 were Doug Ford, Paradise, Fla., Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.; George Bayer, San Gabriel, Calif., and Jim Ferrie, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Al Balding of Markham, Ont., Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., the Masters champion and Gary Player, of Johannesburg, South Africa, had 66s.

Dr. Ted Lenczyk of Newington, former Connecticut Open champion, led the amateur contingent with a four under par 67.

British Bar U.S. Heavy

Williams Received "Mystic Messages"

LONDON (AP)—Cleveland Williams, American heavyweight from Houston, Tex., who claims to receive mystic messages "from above," was barred from British boxing rings Thursday.

The British Boxing Board of Control said it had no sympathy with Williams' claim to have received a spiritual message instructing him not to go through with a July 2 fight against Dick Richardson of Wales.

"Naturally we don't want to disturb any good will existing between us and the New York State Athletic Commission," said Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British board. "It is also true that Williams might have a religious or superstitious streak."

"But a promoter who has sold nearly 12,000 tickets cannot be subject to the whim of a boxer. The sanctity of contracts must be upheld."

Williams flew home Saturday after his fight had been postponed a week. Pittsburgh's Bob Baker stepped in as a last minute substitute and was outpointed by Richardson at Porthcawl, Wales, Thursday night.

Essing Loses In Publinx Golf Event

Sikes Is Conqueror In Third Round, 5-4

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Junie Buxbaum, taking a week's vacation from his Memphis auto salesman job to play golf, Thursday ousted Bob Faulkenberry 4 and 2 to gain the National Public Links Golf semifinals.

The 5 feet 6½ inch Memphis mite, winner of the meet in 1956, won four consecutive holes on the back nine in chopping down the erratic Oklahoma City display advertising salesman.

Sikes Beats Essig

The biggest upset of the meet came in the third round, however, when Dan Sikes, 27, of Jacksonville, Fla., a law student, overwhelmed the defending champion and medalist, 19-year old Don Essig of Indianapolis, 5 and 4. Sikes crushed Essig by holding out a 15-yard wedge blast from the heavy rought for an eagle 3 on the 541 yard ninth hole.

Sikes continued his par busting in the quarterfinals and moved to the semis with a 3-1 decision over Al Kelley, Orlando, Fla., draftsman.

Sikes was 4 under par for his day's work of 31 holes.

Bob Ludlow, 220-pound Indianapolis junior high school physical education instructor, gained the 36-hole semifinals by downing Ron Luceti, San Francisco dental student, 2 and 1. Ludlow, former golf star for Butler University, smashes Charles Kline of Roswell, N.M., 4-3 in the morning.

Buxbaum, who says he plays par on the card and not his opponent defeated Warren Strout of Speedway, Ind., in the morning round 3 and 2 before taking care of Faulkenberry with 2-under-par shooting for the 16 holes needed.

Buxbaum, who came up through the caddy ranks and was a golf pro five years before being reinstated in the simon pure ranks in 1953, won four straight holes beginning with the 11th with three pars and a 30-foot birdie deuce putt. Faulkenberry folded as he missed greens and wandered into traps.

Other Semi-Finalists

Also moving into Friday's 36 hole semifinals was the 37-year-old Portland, Ore., stevedore, Bob Patterson. Patterson disposed of young Bob Kletcke of Chicago in the morning 19 holes, then took on heavily favored Harry Mussatto, muscular golf coach at western Illinois University in Macomb. Patterson polished him off 4 and 3, shaving par by 3 strokes.

Sports Car Club Decides To Drop Hill Climb Plans

Western Maryland Club Cancels Event Set For Next Month

There will be no sports car hill climb on Breakneck Road this year after all, it was learned here last night.

Four weeks ago, the Western Maryland Sports Car Club made tentative arrangements to stage the climb east of Cumberland on Sunday, August 10. At that time, the Central Pennsylvania Sports Car Club of Altoona offered to provide technical direction for the climb. The local club was to have assisted in obtaining entries. Proceeds were to have benefited the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company.

Since that tentative decision of June 13, several impediments have been placed in the path of the climb promoters, with the resulting cancellation for 1958.

One difficulty was the high insurance rate for cars participating in the climb. Another was the relatively short time for the Flintstone firemen to obtain advertisements for the climb program.

Finally, it was decided to cancel plans for a 1958 climb and to begin promoting the 1959 hill climb early next spring. There were sports car hill climbs here in 1955 and 1956.

The Western Maryland Sports Car Club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Sports Car Motor Sales, McMullen Highway. A sports car film will be shown.

Lonaconing Cops Pony Loop Game

LONACONING, July 10 — Lonaconing defeated Mt. Savage in a Bi-State Pony Baseball League game here today by the score of 6-4.

The big blow of the game was a three-run homer by Roger Wilson of Lonaconing in the fifth inning. Al Cesnick banged a two-bagger for the winners.

George, who relieved Miller in the fourth inning, was credited with the victory.

Thomas Belts Pair, Ups HR Total To 24

CHICAGO (AP) — Pittsburgh rallied for five runs in the ninth inning Thursday but the Pirates dropped an 8-7 decision to the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. Rain delayed play for 16 minutes in the ninth inning and forced postponement of the second contest.

Rookie Dick Stuart highlighted the Pirates' rousing finish with his first major league homer in his first major league game.

For Golfers Who Drink

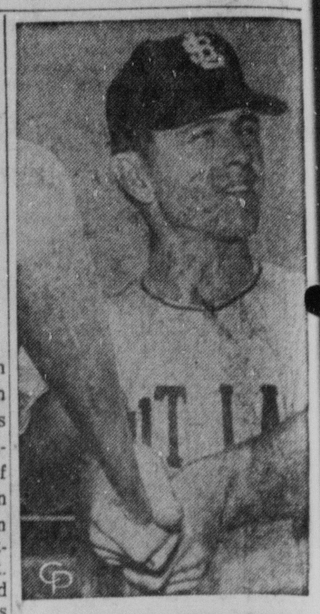
BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — The Bourbon Open golf tournament held here every year lives up to its name.

Every golfer is given a half-pint of bourbon at the first tee. Refreshment stops are scattered liberally along the course.

In the clubhouse, the whisky is free. Water costs 25 cents a glass.



N. L. HURLERS BEWARE!—Dick Stuart who has already homered 31 times this season for Salt Lake City's Pacific Coast league team, brings his mighty war club along as he joins the Pittsburgh National leaguers.

NEW RIDING STAR - - - By Alan Maver

Gallant Man Will Oppose Small Field

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Gallant Man and four other stakes runners Thursday were entered in the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday, making it the smallest field in the history of the handicap.

Named to go against Gallant Man, Ralph Lowe's great little 4-year-old English-bred bay, were the Elobee Farm's Eddie Schmidt, N. S. McCarthy's Irish colt, Seaneen, Mystic Eye from the O. Enterprises Stable and Swirling Abbey owned by Tom Ross and Phil Klipstein.

Entries for the mile and one-quarter feature, fixture of the Hollywood Park meeting, were taken two days ahead of the usual one-day period.

War Trouble Pays $19.40

Favored Encore Is 7th At Monmouth

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 10 (AP)—War Trouble, an 8-1 chance, sped to a two and a half length triumph over the fast closing St. Amour 2nd in the New Jersey Senate Purse today at Monmouth Park.

The attendance was 19,665.

Winning his second of four starts this season, the 4-year-old Mr. Trouble colt paid $19.40, $9.40 and $5.40 across-the-board. With W. M. Cook making up most of his 121 pound impost, the colt owned by Mrs. C. White ran the 6 furlongs in 1.11 1/5 over a "good" track.

Nan's Mink, an early factor along with Sand Boy and Encore, the 19-10 favorite which ran last in the field of seven, was third. St. Amour 2nd returned $7.60 and $4.80 and Nan's Mink was $4.40 for show.

Miss Zeno ($19.40) winner of the first, ridden by George Gibb, combined with Foiled Attack ($13.00), victress of the second, piloted by Larry Gilligan, formed the $104.40 daily double.

Howard Grant, the nation's second leading rider as of June 30, celebrated his return to competition by riding Navy Brass ($12.80) to a victory in the third race. Grant had been set down for 15 days by the stewards for careless riding.

Hurricane Jackson's Retirement Ordered By New York Group

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission Thursday ordered the retirement from boxing of heavyweight Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson on the recommendation of its medical advisory board.

Jackson had been barred from the ring by the National Boxing Assn. last November on the grounds that he was in danger of serious physical injury if he should continue.

Jackson, a wild swinging puncher with almost no defense, staged a sensational rise in 1954 to become a leading heavyweight contender. He fought champion Floyd Patterson in a title bout last July and was stopped in the tenth round after taking a bad beating.

Last-Minute Catch

On the way to the dock, Lon let his plug trail along in the water behind the boat. He hooked a 2½ pound bass.

Five Sons Lose

ELMONT, N. Y. (AP) — Five sons of Nasrullah ran in the 83rd Withers Stakes at Belmont Park opening day this spring and all five were out of the money. Liberty Ruler, son of Nasrullah — Vagrancy, made the best showing of the five Nasrullahs, finishing fourth. Sir Robby, a son of Papa Redbird, won the race.

Baltimore And Yankees Make Sweep Of Doubleheaders

New Yorkers Beat Indians, 7-4 And 4-3

Kucks And Shantz Win; Ryne Duren Stars In Relief

NEW YORK (AP)—Woody Held played Jerry Lumpe's pinch-single into a two-run double in the eighth that gave New York a 4-3 victory over Cleveland Thursday night for a day-night doubleheader sweep. The Yankees won the opener 7-4 with Elston Howard driving in three runs.

The Yankees, blanked on five hits by rookie Gary Bell for seven innings, busted loose for all four in the nightcap eighth, then breezed in as fire-balling Ryne Duren made his second mopup of the day.

Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle singled with one out in the eighth. McDougald scored on a passed ball and Mantle scooted home on a single by Yogi Berra that chased Bell.

Hoyt Wilhelm, who wild pitched a run home in the opener, struck out Bill Skowron, but then walked Siebern. Lumpe followed with his hit to left, which Held failed to cut off.

The Yankees, who hadn't won any of their previous six home games, got going in the opener when Howard's fourth inning triple scored two runs. Winning reliever Johnny Kucks then singled Howard home for a 3-2 lead that handed Jim "Mudcat" Grant a 6-7 record.

The Yankees upset the first place Red Sox, 10-4, at Post Field, and the Giants nosed out the Cardinals, 5-4, at Penn Avenue Field, in games played yesterday in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan League.

Boston Routs Chicago, 11-2

Jackie Jensen Hits Grand Slam Homer

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Jensen, the Boston strong boy, belted a grand slam homer in an 11-2 Red Sox victory over Chicago Thursday night. The blow enabled Jensen to bolster his lead in two American League batting departments as he stretched his hitting streak to 16 consecutive games.

The grand slam, seventh of Jensen's career and second this season, boosted his homer total for the year to 25 and his runs-batted-in figure to 72. He tops the AL in both categories.

Jensen greeted reliever Bob Keegan on a 1-1 pitch with his 400 foot clout into the left field screen as the highlight of a six-run fourth inning that turned a 1-1 game into a rout.

Roberts Beats Cardinals, 13-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Poor St. Louis Cardinal pitching Thursday night gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 13-3 victory and sent the Phils into third place, where the Red Birds were before the game.

It was the Phils' eighth victory in their past nine games, and they achieved it with 13 hits and 10 walks off Cardinal pitching.

Robin Roberts was the Phillie winner, for his seventh victory. He has lost eight. Sal Maglie was the Cardinal starter and loser. Roberts' worries ended in the fourth inning, when the Phils tacked a five-run rally on Maglie with only three hits.

Los Angeles Park Is 3rd In Homers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After half a season, the Los Angeles Coliseum ranks only third among National League parks in home run yield.

This falls somewhat short of bearing out the forecasts of preseason prophets, who said balls would be flying out of the place so fast it would look as if somebody left the door open on a popcorn machine.

However, the screen, standing 251 feet from home plate at the foul line, actually has done a rotten job of intercepting homers. It's true that fewer have been hit here than at Wrigley Field in Chicago and Seals Stadium at San Francisco. But about 90 per cent of the Coliseum homers have flown over that artificial barrier that extends 140 feet along the left-field wall.

And it would seem safe to conclude that only the spacious dimensions of center and right field have saved the Coliseum from becoming a Utopian hunting ground for seekers of souvenir baseballs.

Through the 37 games played here before the All-Star break, the Dodgers hit 36 home runs and the opposition 51. The total of 87 was slightly lower than that of Wrigley Field (94) and Seals Stadium (92), but considerably greater than that of most of the parks in the league.

Exploding for five runs in the ninth inning, the V.F.W. defeated Pittsburgh Plate Glass by the score of 8-3 yesterday at Stitcher Field and retained their lead of 1½ games in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The mound duel between "Pete" Elliott and Bill Thompson came to a conclusion in the second overtime stanza when the Vets coupled three passes with four hits for five tallies.

After walks to Elliott and Reuschel and Ted Durbin's single loaded the bases, Thompson forced over the tie-breaking run by passing Dean. Vern Penner then singled in two tallies and Ronnie Cage and "Bub" Porter hit safely to drive in two more runs.

The win was the 6th without a loss for Elliott, who tossed a 5-hitter.

Cage hit a two-run homer and single, Penner collected a double and single and Porter and Reuschel had two safeties each for the Vets. Stevenson rapped a double for the Glassmen.

The Elks scored three runs in the first inning and edged the Ritter A. C., by the score of 3-2 at East Side Field. The losers made it a close one by chasing over two tallies in the final frame.

In the opening frame, "Pooch" Orndorff walked and Dick Klavuhn walloped a home run. After Bob Pence singled, Ted Rowan blasted a triple for the third run of the inning.

Roy Manges and Ted Rowan had two hits each for the Elks and "Whip" Kreitzburg excelled behind the plate.

Ritter's scored two runs in the final stanza on hits by Martin, Morgan and Ritter but Leo Rhodes was cut down at the plate as he tried to score the tying run.

The Knights of Columbus handed Celanese its 15th consecutive defeat at Celanese Field by the score of 6-2.

After the Silkmen had taken a 2-0 lead in the second inning, the Caseys scored thrice in the third to put the game on ice. Bob McGreevy homered with Mickey Clark aboard and Al Sheetz drove home the third run of the inning and went on to post his sixth win against two losses.

Orioles Win 6-3 And 3-2, Move To 5th

Athletics Dropped To Third In A.L. 7-Team Scramble

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles throttled a pair of ninth inning Kansas City threats Thursday night to win both ends of a twi-night doubleheader 6-3 and 3-2 and further tighten the seven-team scramble behind the winging New York Yankees in the American League.

The twin victories moved the Orioles up two notches into fifth place and dropped the Athletics to third place behind the Boston Red Sox. Boston is 11 games behind New York but only 2½ games ahead of Baltimore.

Arnold Portocarrero, the big right-hander obtained in an April 18 trade with Kansas City, upped his record to 7-5 in the second game while earning his first triumph over his former mates in three decisions.

Lions Defeat Rotary, 4-2, On Stratton's Home Run

Optimists Win 3-2 On No-Hit Contest Hurled By Stewart

Jim Stratton's home run with Joe Balch aboard in the top of the eighth inning enabled the Lions Club to defeat the Rotary Club in an extra inning thriller yesterday at Fort Hill Field. The score was 4-2.

Balch had singled before Stratton hit for the circuit.

The victory enabled Manager John Daum's Lions to take sole possession of first place in the Hot Stove League with a 7-3 record. The Lions and Kiwanis were tied at 6-3 prior to yesterday's contest.

Mike Miller, who relieved Ronnie Evans in the 6th with two on and none out throttled the Rotarians and hurled one hit ball the remainder of the route. Evans fanned nine and Miller whiffed six. Joe Ranker, the losing pitcher, supplanted Manges in the 4th frame and struck out 11 batsmen in the role of relief hurler.

Miller, Evans and Balch of the Lions and Ranker of Rotary collected two hits each.

Mike Long's single scored "Chuckie" Fields with the deciding tally in the 7th inning to give the Cumberland Optimists a 3-2 decision over the Bedford Road Optimists last night at Penn Avenue Field.

Jim Stewart tossed a no-hitter for the victors, struck out ten and registered his fourth straight win of the season. He also led the Cumberland Optimists' 7 hit attack with a two-bagger and single. Seeders, who went the distance for Bedford Road, fanned ten. Scores:

Detroit Loses To Washington

Senators Win Game On Home Runs, 5-3

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roy Sievers, Clint Courtney and Jim Lemon drove in all of Washington's runs with homers Thursday night as the Senators gained a costly 5-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers. In the second inning, shortstop Rocky Bridges, only Washington player to make the 1958 American League All-Star team, suffered a broken jaw when hit by a Frank Lary pitch.

Pedro Ramos was credited with his seventh victory of the season, most of the Washington staff. He received a bit of brilliant help by reliever Dick Hyde in the ninth. With one run in, men on first and third, only one out and the Tigers trailing by two runs, Hyde proceeded to fan Ossie Virgil and Al Kaline to snuff out the threat.

Pucker Up Wins Over Bornastar

5-Year-Olds Finish Half Length Apart

STANTON, Del., July 10 (AP)—Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Pucker Up, last year's champion handicap race mare, today defeated her rival of long standing, J. Graham Brown's Bornastar, in the featured Twilight Tear Purse at Delaware Park.

The two famous 5-year-olds reached the end of the six furlongs a scant half length apart with the Pentagon Stable's Salix third in the field of six, two and a half lengths farther back. Pucker Up, under Steve Brooks, flashed home in 1:11 flat, carrying equal weight of 121 pounds with Bornastar. Ken Church rode the latter.

Both Pucker Up and Bornastar were getting a prep for the second and third segments of Delaware Park's distaff big three series, which gets under way Saturday with the $50,000 Oaks for 3-year-olds exclusively. On the next two Saturdays come the $40,000 New Castle Stakes, then the $150,000 Delaware Handicap, world's richest for distaff racers.

Bornastar had defeated Pucker Up in their last three meetings, but Mrs. Rice's star had beaten her rival before that. In 1957 Pucker Up failed to last, losing a photo in the mile and a quarter Delaware Handicap classic, won by now-retired Princess Turia.

The crowd of 10,065 installed Bornastar favorite at 4 to 5. Pucker Up naturally was the second choice, returning $5, $2.20 and $2.20. Bornastar paid the same place and show—$2.20 and $2.20, the legal minimum—and Salix likewise was $2.20 third.

Golfing with ALEX MORRISON Teacher of Champions

Tommy Bolt's remarkable self control while winning the 1958 U. S. Open offers a top lessons for all golfers.

THE ENTIRE golf world should congratulate Tommy Bolt on his winning of the 1958 U. S. Open. It was truly a great victory, proving a point of unlimited value to all golfers. Not only did Tommy completely dominate a huge field of the world's best golfers, competing over a course rated as the toughest ever used for the national Open, but he also demonstrated self control possibly greater than any ever shown by any U. S. Open winner including Bobby Jones and Ben Hogan.

In addition to completely surmounting obstacles of peak tournament competition it replaced Bolt's lifelong habit of yielding to a trigger temper.

Tommy explained: "I realized that my outbursts over bad shots weren't getting me any place so I decided to control myself."

He demonstrated that self control is something done within yourself, a sure way to better scores.

Williams Believes Fans Should Select All-Stars

Ted Prefers Old Style Of Voting

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams prefers the old style of All-Star voting with the fans selecting the players. The Boston outfielder hastens to add, however, he has no fault to find with the present method in which the players select their own.

"Those were fine representative teams we had in Baltimore," said Williams. "I'm sure they were the best men at each position. I'm certain, however, the same players would have been named by the fans. I'd like to see the game given back to the fans.

"Why not have each fan who attends a game be given a ballot. The more games he attends the more opportunities he should have to vote. The only restriction is that he should not vote for a home team player."

When it was suggested that the fans might have voted him for left field, the Red Sox slugger said: "No, I don't believe it. Bob Cerv of Kansas City certainly deserved to be picked over me. He is having a great season. I know our club fears him."

Virtually all of the National Leaguers complained about the background at Memorial Stadium. Most of the American Leaguers did, too, which may explain why the game was devoid of extra base hit.

"That background is murder," agreed Gus Triandos, Baltimore catcher, who must play 77 games a season in that spacious park.

"Those guys just got a taste of what I have to go through all year. And if they think that's bad, they ought to try to hit here at night. When those numbers on the center field scoreboard light up, you can't tell the difference between the ball and one of those bulbs."

The Bubble Gum Set

"Kids are taking over," said Annette Funicello, a dark-eyed, full-busted young lady who is fifteen and three quarters years old and whose first record "How Will I Know My Love" is in the top forty already.

Annette is typical of the younger crowd that is elbowing all the older crowd — that's anyone who has turned twenty — out of business. She has been a Mousketeer since Walt Disney started "The Mickey Mouse Club," which is to say three years. She's about to start her first feature film "Shaggy Dog." She's been dancing since she was five years old. She's got an LP on the market. She gets 5,000 fan letters a month.

In other words, she's a typical young teen-ager of the upcoming generation and I thought I ought to find out how she lived because we didn't live like that when I was a boy. "All the kids are turning to singing," she said. "Like Darlene Gillespie. She's a Mousketeer too. Or Laurie Collins. Do you know Laurie Collins?"

I said no, I'd never heard of Laurie Collins. "She's going out with Ricky now," she explained. I felt pleased that I knew who Ricky is. He's Ricky Nelson, the teen-age son of Ozzie and Harriet whose records are red hot. "And then there's Paul Anka." I was at sea again. I never heard of Paul Anka who, I was told, was not only a singer but who wrote his own songs and was all of seventeen years old.

Annette is the only Mousketeer left of the twenty-four that started with Disney three years ago. "When I started there were twenty-four. Then Mr. Disney dwindled us to sixteen, then to nine. Now they've all been let go except me."

What, I asked, happened to old Mouseketeers? "Well, they go on to other things. They've had experience. There's great demand for child actors. This is a good year for teen-agers, too," she pointed out.

That's the way the ball bounces now, Daddy-O. They start at eight and by fifteen and three quarters their lives are mostly over. One big problem, I pointed out, is that the audience outgrows the show. That's what happened to "Howdy-Doody." The kids grew up and forgot. Kids are fickle that way. And the same thing, I pointed out, threatens the "Mickey Mouse Club" and the Mouseketeers. "The audience ought to grow up with the performers," suggested Annette. "Like with Ricky Nelson. He was eight when he started and look at him now."

Annette has no great fear of being superseded yet. Eventually she'd like to be a dramatic actress. At the moment she's touring the country plugging Disney's picture "Light in the Forest" In Albany for instance, she was part of a big show called "Tower Of Talent" with the Everly Brothers and other teen-age talent. Thirty-two thousand people showed up; 4,000 were turned away. Life at the teen-age level is a hectic business.

"When I'm touring I hit usually five schools a day. I do TV appearances, hospitals for crippled children and disc jockeys," she sighed. "And it's sure great to get home." At home the grind doesn't end though. Most weekends and holidays she's expected to go out to Disneyland where she and the other Mouseketeers help to draw the crowds.

"Every time he goes out there, Mr. Disney adds something new," said Annette, who adores Disney. "He says Disneyland will never be finished. There'll always be room for something new." Talking about Disneyland she looked for the moment like a child, which is not fashionable any more.

At the age of fifteen and three quarters, she has already had to deny her own death not once, but dozens of times. "I don't know where the rumors start but they come in waves. I choked to death on a wad of bubble gum. Or I was asphyxiated by a poisonous balloon. Or I fell off my bicycle and was crushed to death. The letters pour in by the hundreds," she said.

The bidding:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 2 no trump | Pass | 6 no trump |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

Opening lead: Diamond ten.

On a casual inspection this hand would appear in the eyes of the average player to be more or less of a laydown and he would not be apt to give much preliminary attention to planning the campaign. However, a little thought will make it clear that if suits break badly, all will not be beer and skittles.

Those who are inclined toward ceremony may sneer at the rugged tactics employed by North and South in reaching today's very sound slam contract. To his humble observer, this bidding appears to be the acme of perfection. Its very simplicity is its greatest point of merit.

North has a point count of 11 and is assured that the two no trump bidder has at least 22—so that at worst the partnership assets amount to 33, which is sufficient to warrant a slam commitment.

The opening lead was the ten of diamonds. Barring any extremely bad break in spades, 12 tricks appear on the surface—four spades, three hearts, four diamonds, and one club.

Declarer cashed the king and jack of diamonds, entered dummy with the ace of spades and received a rude jolt when East failed to follow to the third diamond. Cashing the fourth diamond would now establish a trick for West.

Hoping that East would have the long spades, declarer took the remaining diamond and went about operations on the spade suit. When West showed up with a stopper the contract was doomed.

There was a relatively safe way to play the hand which would insure the contract against anything but five spades or a singleton jack in the East hand. Declarer should cash the king and jack of diamonds and then play a low spade to the ten in dummy. If it wins his troubles are over, and if it loses, he still retains an entry to dummy to cash the high diamonds without the necessity for overtaking the jack.

Plebiscite Vote For Alaska To Be Set Soon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Mike Stepovich said Thursday he will set a date before Aug. 1 for a plebiscite on Alaskan statehood —with an emphatic "yes" vote indicated.

He said he had received official notice from President Eisenhower that the bill to make the vast territory the 49th state has been enacted and signed.

"Predicting an overwhelming "yes" vote on the statehood issue, Stepovich commented:

"We want to get our elections out of the way so that we may seat our two U.S. senators and our one representative in the 1959 Congress."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Charm Of Manner

Any breach of etiquette you make is sure to hurt you more than anyone else. When you neglect or forget to write a thank-you note for hospitality or a gift, the stature of your charm shrinks in the eyes of the person to whom it is owed. But some slips have far more serious consequences. When you are in the driver's seat of your car, unmannerly conduct can develop into a fatal crack-up.

Some people, who have the most gracious ways in their own home, exhibit an entirely different nature when behind the wheel on the road. Although they would never think of trying to beat someone else through the door of their home, they take pride in trying to beat another car through a bottleneck. Though they carefully tune their house radio so as not to annoy their neighbors, they blast the horn of their car without provocation.

Statistics show that percentagewise, women have the fewest accidents. I think this is because they inherently have more consideration of others. To keep that record intact and yourself with it, and to serve as the best possible example for your family, check your driving practices against the life-saving and courteous practices listed:

1. Keep in the right hand lane, except when passing, so others can readily pass you. 2. Always signal turns and stops. 3. Pull your car off the road if you stop for any reason. 4. Honk your horn only to give necessary warning. 5. In traffic, await your turn with patience. Never try to steal a more advantageous position. 6. Dim your headlights when another car approaches on the highway. 7. Never throw trash or lighted cigarettes out the window.

Women have always been responsible for what degree of courtesy there is in this world. Let's see how much they can instill into their families this summer during the period in which all America is on the move.

Bonds Rally— To Another Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — News the treasury had been buying some government bonds and might buy more spurred a rally in these securities Thursday. It was the second day of advance after five straight declines.

Gains in government issues were reflected to some extent in high quality corporate bonds. Rails generally advanced while utilities eased. Foreign bonds continued to gain.

Trading in corporate bonds on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $4,170,000 par value compared with $5,200,000 par value Wednesday.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John J. Spinetta, who passed away July 11, 1943.
Days of sadness still are with us,
Tears in silence often flow,
You are gone but not forgotten,
And our hearts ache for you still.
And we will never forget you.
Sadly missed by MOTHER,
BROTHERS AND DAUGHTER

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

ROBERT O. BONNELL, Chairman, EDGAR T. BENNETT and JOHN J. McMULLEN, Constituting the STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND, Acting for and on behalf of the STATE OF MARYLAND vs. GEORGE ROTONDARO and HENRIETTA ROTONDARO, his wife. No. 2756 Law in The Circut Court for Allegany County. (Filed June 26, 1958)

PETITION NO. 2756

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, Maryland, belonging to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, consisting of 2160 square feet, more or less, which is being taken for stream changes and facilities as shown on Plat No. 18563 (revised 4-25-58).

TOGETHER with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown cross-hatched on said plats, such stream changes and facilities as are necessary in the opinion of the State Roads Commission within said area, together with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining and together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the bed of Park Avenue lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on the aforesaid plat.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a deed from George F. Hazelwood, Jr., et al. to George and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, dated August 27, 1951 and recorded on November 6, 1951 in Liber 236, Folio 45, among the Land Records of Allegany County.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the U. S. Route 40, Maryland Route 36 to Long, in Allegany County, Maryland.

That your Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check under the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland in the amount of Five Hundred and Sixty-Five ($565.00) Dollars, payable to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purpose.

That your Petitioners have attempted to set forth the interests or estates of all other parties having an interest, in the hereinbefore described and that the defendants George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing at 2312 Pitt Avenue, Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

NOTICE is HEREBY GIVEN to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, non-residents of the State of Maryland, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of July, 1958, and show cause, if any they have why said property or said defendants' interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said Petition.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

so.., Perry, and it would have been a real tragedy if they had separated.

The news that Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Todd Jr. will not make "Busman's Holiday," as they had planned, does not mean this organization has broken up, according to Bill Doll, vice president of the Todd Company, who is visiting here with his wife.

"Mike Jr. is going full speed ahead to make another picture, bu in this one Elizabeth will not be starred. There's absolutely no trouble of any kind between th beauteous Liz and her stepson," says Bill.

Keely Smith and Louis Prima received a telephone call from Frank Sinatra saying that he and the Peter Lawfords will stay at Cal-Neva for the Smith-Prima opening. Pat (Mrs. Lawford) is visiting her father, Joseph Kennedy, former Ambassador to Great Britain, at Lake Tahoe.

Tony Curtis' gift to Janet Leigh for her birthday was a diamond heart. Tony partied for Janet at Scandia with Debbie Reynolds, the Dean Martins, Judy Garland and Sid Luft and Joan Collins among the guests.

There will be no twins for producer Stanley Rubin and his wife, the former Kathy Hughes. X-rays show that they can expect only one baby.

Mary Healy and Peter Lind Hayes start a new TV show October 6 on ABC.

Nellie Manley, Paramount hair stylist, received a letter from Princess Grace giving permission for Princess Caroline to be officially listed as a sponsor of the WAIF ball in October.

George Capri, who Marie McDonald says she's going to marry, gave her a surprise birthday party at the Flamingo. All the stars on the Las Vegas strip turned out.

Judy Garland's new record album, "Judy in Love," to be made by Capitol Records, will have a cover written by Jimmy McHugh.

Behind The News In Business

by Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — The hottest case generated by the New York office of the SEC in years involves what Louis E. Wolfson and spokesmen for him did or did not say regarding his stock interest in American Motors.

Paul Windels Jr., the SEC's regional administrator, has hauled the multimillionaire Florida financial operator into Federal Court. The charges are "false and misleading statements and failure to disclose liquidation of Wolfson's entire holdings of 400,000 American Motors shares as well as short sales by him and associates of more than 100,000 shares."

Here's the record of press reports in recent months:

Detroit Times, Feb. 5, 1958 — "Louis Wolfson, financier and largest individual stockholder in American Motors Corp., has no intention of disposing of his AMC stock, it was announced at a stockholders' meeting today.

"The announcement was made by Martin Segal of Jacksonville, Fla., an associate of Wolfson's, who was elected to the company's board of directors today. . .

"Replying to stockholders who were disturbed by reports in a New York newspaper that Wolfson was selling his stock to a large corporation, Segal said:

"'I think this is the proper forum to scotch this report. Mr. Wolfson has no discussions on with General Dynamics Corp., or any other company regarding sale of even one share of his stock in AMC. He has great faith in Mr. Romney (George Romney, company president) and in AMC. He will continue to co-operate and continue to hold his shares in this company.'"

* * *

The N. Y. Herald-Tribune on April 12, 1958, Noting an "unprecedented" trading of 125,800 shares in American Motors, making it the most active Stock Exchange issue in two days said "it raised a highly speculative question on Wall Street — was financier Louis E. Wolfson getting out of the stock?"

The story reported:

"A spokesman said the Miami industrialist would not comment on American Motors save to say his holdings 'were unchanged.'

"This was echoed by W. A. Shea, a partner in the New York law firm of Manning, Hollinger & Shea and one of two Wolfson directors on American Motors board.

"Mr. Shea said that so far as he was concerned it was all 'rumor.' Mr. Wolfson, he said, planned to hold onto his stock, though 'you could never tell what kind of an offer somebody might make.'"

* * *

The N. Y. Times on June 20, 1958, reported: "The largest single stockholder in American Motors Corporation has been taking advantage of recent strength in the price of the stock to liquidate his holdings.

"Louis E. Wolfson, Florida industrialist, is about one-quarter the way home in disposing of the 400,000 shares of American Motors stock that he and his immediate family own, a spokesman for Mr. Wolfson said yesterday."

The N. Y. Times later identified the spokesman as Alexander Rittmaster, close associate of Wolfson and a director in his Merritt-Chapman & Scott.

A release sent over the "PR" news wire service to newspapers June 20, 1958, in the name of Ed Brause, press relations director for Merritt-Chapman & Scott, headed by Wolfson, had this lead:

"New York, June 20 — Louis E. Wolfson issued the following statement today in confirmation of published reports that he is disposing of his shareholdings in American Motors Corp. and to date has sold approximately one-quarter of the approximately 400,000 shares previously held by himself and members of his immediate family."

* * *

The Wall Street Journal on June 23, 1958, reported: "Louis E. Wolfson. . . called 'inaccurate' statements indicating that he has sold about 100,000 of the 400,000 shares in the auto and appliance manufacturing concern reportedly held by him and his family. . .

"Mr. Wolfson's statement. . . seemed to leave up in the air how much of his American Motors stock he has sold, while it confirmed that he had made up his mind to liquidate his position. . .

"William A. Shea, general counsel for Merritt-Chapman & Scott and a director of American Motors, said in an interview: 'I had thought that Mr. Wolfson had disposed of all his American Motors stock.'"

The SEC complaint filed in Federal Court charged that at the time of the June 20 newspaper story Wolfson had sold or otherwise "disposed" of all his holdings and "He, together with his associates, had a very substantial short position in the stock and was at the time of publication of this newspaper article, engaged in purchasing the common capital stock of American Motors to cover their short position."

Stock Market Rebounds To Cancel Earlier Losses

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market bounced back Thursday in a recovery which more than canceled Wednesday's losses.

Key stocks were up from fractions to about a point. Special issues made gains stretching to 2 points or so.

Wall Streeters commented that as offerings were well absorbed and prices remained fairly steady the selling dried up and optimism was regained.

Feeling in the financial district also was cheered by news that the U.S. Treasury had been buying government bonds and might buy more.

Coppers were a bit soft on news of a reduction in copper scrap prices but building material issues gained on the improving picture in the construction industry.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to $175.50 with the industrials up $1.10, the rails up $1.10 to a new high for the year and the utilities up 40 cents.

Of 1,149 issues traded, 517 rose and 345 fell. New highs for the year totaled 48 and new lows 7.

Volume was 2,510,000 shares compared with 2,630,000 Wednesday.

Twelve of the 15 most active stocks advanced, two fell and 1 was unchanged.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed with a slightly higher tendency. Volume was 750,000 shares compared with 780,000 Wednesday.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Others have tried and failed to get Fred Astaire in a straight dramatic role, but Stanley Kramer has high hopes that Fred will accept his offer to play an Australian naval officer in "On The Beach." This Neville Shute book gave me the blues after I read it. It's a story of what may happen if atomic bombs are dropped all over the world.

Stanley is still in Europe where he showed "The Defiant Ones," his latest picture, at the Berlin Film Festival. While he was abroad he made a side trip to Rome to talk to Ava Gardner about playing the femme lead in "On The Beach." Shocking as this book is, it may do some good in preventing the wanton destruction of entire cities and people.

You'll know I mean Eddie Constantine when I say he's an American performer who went to Paris many years ago and became the toast of the town. Well, Eddie's going to co-star in "Passport To Shame," a British picture with Diana Dors. Her contract with RKO has just been sold to an English company.

The curious thing about the Dors girl is that she started off with such a bang and then the pictures she made really died at the boxoffice. She was supposed to be another Marilyn Monroe, which she never was by any stretch of the imagination.

There's some fast talking going on between Bob Hope and Bing Crosby with Norman Krasna. Bob and Bing are interested in Norman's Broadway play, "Who is That Woman I saw You with Last Night."

I am reliably informed that the deal may be closed any edition. Wouldn't that be some movie — to see Bob and Bing together again. Let's hope the price is okay, so they will be able to acquire the film rights to the play.

The Mike Romanoff party on the 4th of July celebrating Mike's change from his title Prince Romanoff to American citizen with the plain handle Mister, was one of the most popular affairs ever given in our town. Mike's pure delight at becoming an American is heart-warming and you can take my word for it, he's a great and happy addition to our great country.

With all the publicity he's received, 20th Century-Fox, which owns the rights to the Luther Davis New Yorker Magazine series based on Mike's life story, is working to get it ready. Peter Ustinov, who's giving up his stage play and heading in our direction, is being mentioned for the Mike role.

An unexpected telephone call from Vic Damone tells me that everything is rosy and beautiful between him and Pier Angeli. His mother-in-law has gone to Italy.

Pier starts rehearsals July 15 for "Song of Bernadette," and she leaves for Rome July 28 to make a picture. Vic says he will tour the provinces in England, and his record "The Street Where You Live" is very popular in London.

I am happy Pier and Vic have worked out their problems. They both love their three-year-old

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (AP) — A moderate but broad demand spread through the grain pits on the Board of Trade Thursday and nearly all futures prices were bid substantially higher than the previous closes.

Wheat and rye led the upward movement with gains of well over a cent a bushel on most contracts while corn and oats moved ahead by fractions of a cent and soybeans finished with little or no change.

Dealers said the demand for rye stemmed from a stronger market for the grain in Winnipeg while wheat traders took their cue from the Kansas City market where prices were firmer.

Wheat closed ⅞-1½ cents a bushel higher, July $1.83⅜-½; corn ⅛-⅝ higher, July $1.30⅝-½; oats ⅜-¾ higher, July 64¾; rye ½-1¾ higher, July $1.27¼-27; soybeans ⅛ higher to ⅜ lower, July $2.24¼-⅛; lard 8 cents a hundred pounds higher to 8 cents lower, July $12.57-60.

The demand for all grains mainly was short-covering since there was a virtual absence of export business and other commercial buying was slow.

County Building Permits Rise During June

Six-Month Total Over 1957 Figure

June was another busy month for issuance of building permits in Allegany County as the year's previous high of 53 permits was matched and the builders' total estimated cost of the construction was $230,140, third highest monthly total this year.

The first half of 1958 topped last year in both the number of permits issued and in the total builder-estimated cost of construction. This year there have been 199 permits in the first six months for total construction of $3,295,084.

Most of that construction cost was attributed to the waste treatment plant at Westernport to serve the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Tri-Towns. The listed cost was $2,308,254. Work started there in May.

Last year, the first half totals were 197 permits and $2,233,775, which is $61,309 below this half year's total. In 1957 the big permit was for the proposed $2,000,000 shopping center on Winchester Road for which construction still has not started.

The number of June permits—53—was the same number issued in April. Total estimated construction cost of $230,140 last month was below May's $2,459,554 and March's $303,475. Some 19 of the June permits were for relatively minor jobs costing less than $1,000 each.

District 20 Leads

June building permits issued by the county assessing department authorized construction in 20 election districts around the county. The leader was Election District 20, the Corriganville-Ellerslie area, with seven. District 6, West Side suburban, and District 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings, were next with six permits each. Coupled with five permits each were District 29, LaVale, the usual monthly leader, and District 3, Flintstone.

Other districts with more than one June permit were District 5, North End suburban, three; District 8, Westernport, three; District 16, North Branch, two; District 17, Vale Summit, two; District 21, Cross, two; District 23, East Side suburban, and District 31, McCoole, two.

Among the 53 June permits were 26 for dwellings, one for dwelling with carport, one for dwelling and septic tank and one for store and dwelling. Other authorized construction included six additions to dwellings, five garages and two summer camps or cottages.

Other projects included a car shed, a smoke house, a poultry house, an addition to a garage, a wash house, enlarging cellar under dwelling, a workshop, utility room, shop, tool house and foundation.

False Reports To Police Bring $25 Fines Here

Similar Charge Filed Against Third Man

Two local persons were fined $25 and costs yesterday on charges of providing false information to city police.

The sentences were imposed on Allen Emerick, 18, and Adrian Counihan, 27, after hearings before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

The hearing opened last Wednesday but were continued to allow the magistrate to get additional information about the man and youth.

The charges, according to Lt. James E. Van, resulted from false statements made by the pair following a fight June 28 in nearby West Virginia.

When first questioned, they said they were beaten in a fight in Cumberland. They later admitted the fight occured in nearby West Virginia.

Faces Same Charge

A warrant charging a local man with the same charge was issued yesterday morning by Magistrate Dick.

He is Joseph Powell, 30, of 157½ North Mechanic Street, who was picked up for investigation Wednesday night. He told Detective Kenneth W. Morrissey that cuts and abrasions on his body resulted from being assaulted while on his way home from a tour of taverns Tuesday night.

Detective Morrissey became suspicious of Powell's story after trying to check it out Wednesday and after interrogating him Wednesday night Powell revealed his story had been a hoax.

Morrissey said Powell then told him he had fallen while entering the front door where he has an apartment and suffered an abrasion on his forehead when it struck the door jamb.

Powell said he then went to his room, dressed his head wound and proceeded to tear his shirt and inflicted scratches on his abdomen with a penknife. Police were called in by Powell's landlady after he told his fictitious story to her.

Faces Assault Charge

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said Powell is out under $500 bond, posted after his wife swore out an assault warrant, and that no additional bond was required.

Both charges, he said, will be disposed of today in Trial Magistrates Court.

Powell, he said, has admitted giving several false reports.

The investigator said that several months ago Powell reported he had been beaten up on Dingle Hill when he stopped to help a motorist fix a tire. Injuries he said were inflicted by a tire tool were actually suffered in a fight in Frostburg, Mr. Lilya reported.

Suits Filed And Settled

Two damage suits involving injury to minors in accidents which occurred in nearby West Virginia and their compromise settlements were filed together in Allegany County Circuit Court.

In one, Shirley Lee Auvil, an infant, by Raymond C. Auvil and Mary E. Auv.l, her parents and next friends, 407 South Cedar Street, filed a $500 damage suit against Foreman Thomas Saville Jr. and Foreman Thomas Saville Sr., 1013 Virginia Avenue.

The Auvil girl charged in her declaration that she sustained a leg laceration and other injuries last October 6 when the car in which she was a passenger ran down an embankment and crashed on the road between Green Spring and Springfield, W. Va. The car was owned by the elder Saville and was driven by his son.

Filed with the declaration was a $216.70 settlement signed by Donald W. Mason, as attorney for the plaintiffs, and W. Earle Cobey, as attorney for the defendants.

The briefing session was called so he might familiarize himself with the operation of the department.

Attending the session were George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Lake Gordon filtration plant and in charge of lines leading to the city; Andrew J. Bender, chief clerk, and Simon Carroll, superintendent of water distribution and maintenance.

Sitting in on the meeting were Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Philmore F. Fleming, commissioner of police and fire, and William R. Carscaden, city attorney.

Local Marine Unit Leads In Rifle Scoring

Fifty-eight Marine reservists from the Cumberland area proved their ability with the M-1 service rifle by scoring a high unit shooting average after only four hours of practice firing on the Dam Neck (Va.) rifle range.

Pfc. Norman G. Cline of 1211 Ella Avenue outshot his fellow reservists with the M-1 rifle.

The company spent Wednesday crossing beach obstacles and practicing infantry company tactics. They also learned how to debark safely from ships into assault landing craft.

On Monday, the company was instructed in the rudiments of amphibious organization, including boat team and assault wave structure.

Captain Billy C. Menges, commander of the local Sixth Infantry Company, was pleased with the way his men were responding to all phases of the annual field training. "During the first three days our men have demonstrated that they are capable of becoming the best Reserve Marines to train at Little Creek. To be frank, we're hoping to win the Reserve Trophy," he said.

The Reserve Trophy is awarded annually to the most outstanding of all units to train at Little Creek. Competition invariably runs high during the summer-long period.

The Cumberland reservists also were instructed in the newest concepts of vertical envelopment by helicopter. The company was organized into heli-teams and the men were airlifted by helicopter from their assembly area to a "battle point."

Later on the training cycle, the Reservists will learn how to discard clothing and equipment in the water while keeping themselves afloat. Men who have not yet learned to swim will practice water survival under the watchful eye of expert instructors. Early next week the Cumberland Marines will undergo rigorous physical conditioning along with bayonet fighting and marksmanship training.

Union Will Meet

The regular July meeting of Local 37-B, Operating Engineers, will be held Saturday, July 19, at 7 p. m., according to Harry L. Hickle, business agent.

58 Allegany County Boys Will Attend 4-H Camp

Four Western Maryland counties will be represented at the annual 4-H Camp starting Sunday at the Pleasant Valley center in Garrett County, but more than half of the 4-H members attending will come from Allegany County.

Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold, who will serve as camp director, said that the 101 4-H campers include 58 from Allegany County, five from Garrett County, 18 from Washington County and 20 from Frederick County.

The camp was named Algawa some years ago, taking the first two letters from the names of the three western-most counties of this state. This year Frederick County is joining in for the first time but the camp name is not being changed. Frederick County 4-H leaders have expressed hope that a 4-H camp might be established next year in their own county.

Mr. Arnold will have five assistants on the camp staff, all of them assistant county agents. They include E. Rankin Lusby and Barry Carr, both Garrett County; Richard Shukraft and Merritt N. Pope, both Washington County, and David Eigenbrode, Frederick County.

The busy schedule for this camp which continues until Saturday, July 19, includes swimming, rifle safety and range practice, handicraft, study of wild life and forestry.

Pleasant Valley, now officially designated as the Western Maryland 4-H Club Center near Bittinger, also is the site for a number of other July camps. During the first week in July, Prince George's County 4-H girls and boys held their camp.

As soon as the 4-H boys from four counties leave the center July 19, older youth from Allegany and Garrett counties will arrive for the bi-county senior 4-H camp over that weekend. About 25 from this county have registered.

The 4-H Conservation Camp, scheduled from July 21 to July 26, at Pleasant Valley, will feature classes in forestry subjects, according to Harry W. Denglar, extension forester and camp program director.

Campers will learn about forestry and tree planting, Christmas tree growing, woodland improvement and forest fire fighting. They will go on a one-day conservation tour of Swallow Falls State Park, Herrington Manor State Park and farms in the area.

From July 26 to August 2, Allegany County 4-H girls will camp at the Garrett County center.

Local Attorney Frees GI Once Sentenced To 25 Years For 12-Year 'French Leave'

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — A quirk of military law Thursday freed Pvt. Norman W. Swain, 41, who once was sentenced to 25 years at hard labor for wartime desertion.

At a second court-martial here, Swain was convicted of a lesser charge of being absent without leave and then was freed because a two-year statute of limitations applied to the AWOL charge.

Stunned by the turn of events, Swain grabbed a friend's arm, walked out of the courtroom and into the PX for a cup of coffee.

He was defended at his second trial by a Silver Spring attorney, Elmo Gower, who has taken part in about 3,000 courts-martial in this country and abroad. (Mr. Gower formerly of Cumberland).

Swain has been in Army custody since June 7, 1956, when a gendarme picked him up in Paris and turned him over to U. S. military authorities.

It was the story of a GI who took French leave intending to visit Paris for 48 hours but stretched out his absence to nearly 12 years.

Swain, whose home is in Southbridge, Mass., was charged with deserting the 3882d Quartermaster Truck Co. at Chalons, France, on Sept. 14, 1944. A court-martial convicted him of desertion and sentenced him to 25 years. This sentence was reduced by higher Army authorities to six years.

Last Nov. 8, the U. S. Military Court of Appeals here set aside the conviction on the ground the military court's legal officer erred in failing to tell the court-martial that Swain could be convicted of the lesser AWOL charge. A retrial was ordered.

This took place Thursday, with Gower pressing the argument that Swain was not a deserter because, while he admittedly left his unit, he did not intend to remain away permanently.

The court agreed with this view, finding Swain not guilty of desertion but guilty of being absent without leave. Gower then cited the statute of limitations and the court agreed it could impose no punishment.

General Term Bonds Covered By Sinking Fund

$400,000 Issue Paid During Fiscal Year

Sufficient funds are being held in the city's sinking fund to cover the remaining $275,000 of term bonds which are general obligations of the City of Cumberland.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, said the remaining term bonds totaling $1,883,068 are Water Department obligations.

The Sinking Fund was set up to retire term bonds issued by the City of Cumberland. Trustees are Charles G. Holzshu and John H. Mosner.

At the beginning of the 197-58 fiscal year, the fund stood at the $2,450,397.07 mark. Securities purchased by the trustees earned $82,573.59 and the City, through the Water Department, contributed $45,097.57 to bring the fund to the $2,558,068.23 mark.

The debt of the city was reduced by $400,000 during fiscal 1957-58 when the fund paid off the first bond issue sold by the city for Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Gibson said only three general term bond issues totaling $285,000 remain outstanding and that funds contributed to the Sinking Fund fully cover the remaining issues.

They are a $125,000 Memorial Hospital bond issue due in 1959, a $100,000 Memorial Hospital issue due in 1966 and a $50,000 Works Relief issue due in 1959.

During the present fiscal year, the City, through the Water Department, will contribute slightly over $45,000 to the Sinking Fund. This will be added to the $1,883,068 in the fund applicable to the term water bonds totaling $2,705,000.

These issues will be paid as they become due in from 1959 to 1970.

20,821 Use Up Jobless Pay

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Employment Security reports that 20,821 Marylanders have now exhausted their normal 26-week maximum of jobless pay benefits, but the number of new claimants has decreased.

A total of 727 were added last week to those who are eligible for an additional 13 weeks of benefits under emergency legislation passed by the General Assembly June 13.

The department said the rate claims are being exhausted rose from 16.3 per cent on June 28 to 17.2 per cent on July 4.

Otherwise the employment picture was brighter last week. Employers in insured industries reported the hiring and rehiring of 14,870 workers, an increase of 1.2 per cent from the week before. The number of new claimants was 40,560, a decrease of 2.3 per cent.

The largest dip was in Baltimore City, where 26,842 persons filed. The decrease was 3.6 per cent from the previous week. In the counties 13,718 claims were filed, an increase of 0.3 per cent over the previous week. But the number actually receiving compensation was down 1.4 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators held a threat of a contempt citation over Bernard Goldfine Thursday night as he continued to insist that details of his companies' transactions are none of their business.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) halted hearings and called the special House investigating committee into closed-door session to discuss whether to move immediately against the millionaire gift-giving friend of President Eident Eisenhower's assistant, Sherman Adams. It was decided to leave the matter open and recalled Goldfine for more questions Friday.

"After the record is complete," Harris said, "the committee will then decide what action it will take and the procedures as to possible contempt."

Acknowledges Generosity

The abrupt interruption in the hearings came only a short time after Goldfine had acknowledged more of the kind of generosities that have made his friendship with Adams a national issue — payment of hotel bills totaling almost $1,200 for three Republican senators. These were Sens. Frederick G. Payne (Maine), Norris Cotton (NH), and Styles Bridges, (NH).

All three senators acknowledged the payments, and all three said there was nothing wrong with it.

A recapitulation boosted by about $1,000 the amount Goldfine has acknowledged paying in hotel bills for Adams.

Goldfine talked freely about the hotel bills, but again clammed up on other subjects.

He had first refused to tell why his various companies had issued $777,000 worth of checks, some long uncashed. Hs was told to expect a subpoena for the books. Then the storm broke over his refusal to talk about a $20,000 withdrawal he was alleged to have made from one of the companies.

Subcommittee counsel Robert Lishman reminded Goldfine he has testified he knew little about the internal affairs of the company in question—Boston Port Development Co. It is a subsidiary of the Boston industrialist's real estate holding firm, East Boston Co.

Refuses To Answer

Then Lishman asked Goldfine whether he was familiar enough with company affairs to know, in 1947, that "its cash position was strong enough for you to withdraw $20,000 allegedly as a commission."

Goldfine, as he has frequently in the past few days, refused to answer on the ground that the question was not pertinent to the committee's field of inquiry—an investigation of federal regulatory agencies.

Joint Cabinet Is Agreed Upon

Decision Marks Final Conference Between Ike And Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (AP)—The United States and Canada agreed Thursday to create a Joint Cabinet Committee on Continental Defense.

The decision marked the final, former consultation session of President Eisenhower and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker.

The agreement will subject problems of common defense, now in military hands to "civilian decision and guidance." Possibly the new committee will consider equipping Canadian planes with nuclear warheads.

Spokesmen said Eisenhower and Diefenbaker feel their discussions have been helpful, have resulted in improved relations and have opened the way for further cooperation.

Consult On Trade

Besides the agreement on a defense committee, the conferences produced decisions to consult on the troublesome problem of trade with Red China.

Diefenbaker indicated the United States has agreed that Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies may send nonstrategic goods to China. He said a statement Friday will show there will be no interference with such trading.

Red China has expressed interest in buying motor cars from Ford Motor Co. of Canada. Ford turned this down after consulting with its parent U.S. company.

In Washington, U.S. Secretary of Commerce Weeks indicated the United States will permit Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms to ship nonstrategic goods to Red China if the Canadian government approves the shipments. Weeks told a news conference that if the Canadians first gave an official okay in such cases he would expect the U.S. Government to concur.

Inspection System

The Eisenhower - Diefenbaker meeting also produced a decision to work on plans for an international arctic control and inspection system to guard against surprise attack—perhaps for ultimate presentation to Russia.

Such touchy economic issues as U.S. wheat sales abroad and restrictions on oil and metals imports were canvassed, too—with undetermined results.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said there was no advance expectation of many "hard, ironclad decisions." No final communique was contemplated.

In the American view, closer personal contacts and understandings may have been prime accomplishments of the three-day conference.

It was set up originally with an awareness on both sides of the border that cleavages have developed, mainly over Canadian objections to various U.S. trade and tariff policies.

Hagerty said Eisenhower felt that the meeting "has resulted in a very good effect on relations between our governments and the men who control those governments."

Bumper Crop In 1958 Seen By Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Thursday 1958 crop production appears likely to equal—if not top—the record volumes harvested in 1948, 1956 and 1957.

The Agriculture Department gave this picture of prospects. Its report emphasized that generally favorable weather and further advances in agricultural technology promise to offset effects of retirement of cropland under the soil bank program and other surplus control measures.

Featuring the outlook is the second largest wheat crop of record. Such a crop would bulge surpluses of the grain to a new high level unless unforeseen market outlets develop.

On the basis of conditions early this month, the indicated crop volume was 106 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Officials said favorable growing and harvesting conditions might well shove this figure to a new record. The average acre yield, considering all crops, seems likely to pull ahead of last year's record.

Cuban Rebels Release First U.S. Serviceman

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Cuban rebels Thursday released the first of 30 kidnaped U.S. Navy men they have been holding in mountain hideouts for nearly two weeks.

Airman Thomas R. Mosness of Ames, Iowa, was flown out of the jungle by helicopter. The bespectacled airman posed reluctantly for pictures and told newsmen he felt "pretty good" before intelligence officers whisked him away.

Mosness was accompanied on the flight out by U.S. Consul Park Wollam of Santiago who has been dickering for release of the 30 servicemen and 20 civilians abducted by the rebels. Wollam told newsmen tersely, "I am hopeful of getting out the rest of the men."

Cuban police reported meanwhile a Cuban named Angel Seco, who runs a string of private warehouses inside the U.S. Naval Base, was seized by rebels during the day, robbed of $200 and shot dead outside the city. Four civilians were arrested for the killing.

With Mosness' return, 29 sailors and Marines and one Canadian civilian remained in rebel hands. Nineteen North American civilians have been freed singly and in small groups over the past few days.

Fliers Say Soviet People Beat Them

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Five U.S. airmen told Thursday how they were kicked, beaten and threatened with hanging by Soviet peasants after their unarmed plane was shot down by MIG jets.

Maj. Bennie A. Shupe of Miami, Fla., had a noose pulled around his neck before he convinced the peasants he was an American.

The five, part of a crew of nine that landed in Soviet Armenia, June 27 had parachuted from their C118 transport plane when Soviet fighters set it aflame.

The four others landed with the plane and were picked up by Soviet soldiers at the end of a landing strip. They were not abused or mistreated. All were held for 10 days before being released Monday.

The airmen appeared fresh and rested after two days back at their Wiesbaden base. They met reporters in the Air Force's European headquarters building.

Why the parachutists had met with abuse from the local population was a mystery. Asked if they knew of any reason for the mistreatment, they all shook their heads and shrugged.

It was suggested that the men might have been mistaken for Turks or Iranians, but an Air Force spokesman replied: "We simply don't know. What those people were saying didn't make any sense to our men."

However, Soviet citizens are constantly fed stories that foreign powers are sending in spies and saboteurs. This is particularly true in Soviet Armenia, which has a long border with Turkey. Armenians hate the Turks because of oppression under the old Ottoman Empire.

When captured the fliers were wearing regular flight suits without any patches identifying them by rank or nationality. An Air Force spokesman said this is the routine costume on such flights.

Shupe said he did his best to convince the people he was an American and had no intention of harming them. He said the noose was around his neck and the rope strung over a telephone pole before he finally got a flicker of recognition by calling out "New York—Chicago."

Some one in the crowd picked up the words. Shupe responded by calling out the names of every American city he could think of. This exchange of foreign words gave the peasants pause.

"While hanging preparations were still going on, one man shouted something—I don't know what—but it stopped them," Shupe said.

A little later Soviet soldiers came up and Shupe was turned over to them.

Col. Dale D. Brannon of Chardon, Ohio, gave this account: The C118 got off course in a snow storm while flying from Cyprus to Iran.

The plane was carrying medicine and other supplies.

The crew noticed two jet fighter planes approaching. Not realizing they were over Soviet territory they assumed they were Turkish or Iranian planes.

Suddenly the pilot, Maj. Luther W. Lyles of Savoy, Tex., saw one of the fighters fire a burst in front of the plane. He said this is a generally recognized signal to land and he immediately lowered his landing gear to show he would comply.

Tough Bandit Gets $16,000

BRUMLEY, Mo. (AP)—A tough-talking bandit interrupted a board of directors meeting, threatened to kill all five directors and fled with $16,000 fro the Bank of Brumley Thursday.

Missouri State Sen. C. R. Hawkins, who owns the bank, and his wife were among those threatened by the gun-waving bandit. They were locked in the bank vault with the others but no one was hurt

The prisoners let themselves out a few minutes after the masked bandit left the bank and ran up a side road on foot. There was no sign of a getaway car.

Mrs. Hawkins said the man "threatened to send us to meet our ancestors" unless they produced all available currency. She said he was waving an automatic pistol.

Heaviest Man Dies In Trailer

BREMEN, Ind. (AP)—The half-ton body of Robert Earl Hughes, heaviest man in medical history, posed a massive problem for undertakers Thursday after the 32-year-old carnival attraction died in his specially built trailer.

Measles, a heart ailment and, finally, uremia, took the huge man's life in spite of around-the-clock attendance by doctors, nurses, and four members of his family.

Hughes, exactly 6 feet tall and whose last recorded weight was 1,041 pounds, spent his last four days in a combination bed-chair, heavily constructed of 2X4 boards. He could not be taken indoors and was treated inside the trailer, parked behind Bremen Community Hospital.

More Hungary Citizens Being Placed On Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist Hungary is reported to be putting more and more of its citizens on trial for taking part in the 1956 uprising against Soviet domination.

"These trials have reportedly run as high as 100 in a single recent 10-day period," press officer Lincoln White told newsmen at the State Department Thursday.

White announced that the department is making the information it has available to the United Nations Specjal Committee on Hungary, in response to the committee's request.

Efforts To Get ICBM's Nose Cone Dropped

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A U.S. ballistic missile has been fired at intercontinental range for the first time, but the Air Force announced Thursday efforts to recover the nose cone and its mouse have been abandoned temporarily.

Air Force officials confirmed that a mighty Thor-Able rocket launched Wednesday night landed in the south Atlantic Ocean near Ascension Island, 6,000 statute miles from Cape Canaveral. That meant U.S. missile men had passed another milestone in their bid to conquer space.

As far as it is known, it was the first time a ballistic weapon traveled more than 6,000 miles through outer space and survived the redhot plunge back into the earth's atmosphere.

Officials said the search for the top secret nose cone was called off because of darkness in the area. They planned to resume the hunt early Friday.

Two aircraft and two ships cruising in the impact area spotted the nose cone as it dropped back from space. Sporadic radio signals have been picked up from the cone, but in insufficient strength to pinpoint the location.

Failure of the radio transmitter or the power supply might result in an unsuccessful recovery operation, officials said.

After a blazing takeoff, it took the Thor-Able only about 30 minutes to span the intercontinental distance. Once in space, the nose cone reached speeds as high as 12,000 m.p.h.

The two stages, a Thor Intermediate Range Missile topped by a Vanguard second stage satellite rocket, were preset to drop away as soon as their fuel exhausted.

The Atlas, only U.S. test-operational ICBM, has been fired eight times but reportedly never beyond a range of about 600 miles. An Atlas intercontinental shot is expected soon.

The fate of "Mia II", which got his nickname as the second "mouse in Able", appeared to be darker as the hours slipped by without a report from the recovery team.

Court Approves Annulment

By The Associated Press

ROME (AP)—An Italian court stepped out of a legal maze Thursday and approved ar annulment of the marriage of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini. But the public prosecutor stepped in and vowed to block it.

The annulment, sought by Rossellini, is what 42-year-old Miss Bergman looks forward to in order to marry for the third time—this time to the Swedish millionaire Lars Schmidt. She has said they would marry as soon as legally possible.

But Prosecutor Martino Ferraiola, contending the matter was not for Italian courts in the first place, waved the court-approved annulment in his hand and pledged: "This will never become final as long as I can help it."

In London, where she is working on a film, Miss Bergman said she preferred to make no comment.

Neither she nor Rossellini ever appeared in court in connection with the suit. Rosselini is reported at his seaside summer home in Sante Marinella.

Missing were a man and his wife whose 44-foot fishing boat was swept by giant waves toward the rocky sides of Lituya Bay, on the coast 125 miles west of this Alaska capital.

Prominent Woman Dies

The dead included Mrs. Jeanice Welsh Walton, 54, head of a Bellingham, Wash., family which owns the Icy Straits Canning Co. cannery at Yakutat and has been identified prominently with the Alaska fishing industry for years.

The two other victims were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tibbles, employes of the Civil Aeronautics Administration station at Yakutat.

Witnesses to the tragedy, Yakutat Postmaster John Williams and his wife Dora, said about 500 yards of the south end of Khantaak Island heaved 20 feet into the air and then fell into the bay. The island is about a mile off shore. Nothing but picnic plates were found floating in the water after the severe turbulence had subsided.

Missing are Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wagner, a young, childless couple who lived at Idaho Inlet, near Juneau. Their troller, the Sunmore, was anchored in Lituya Bay beside one operated by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Swanson of Auburn, Wash.

Flown To Juneau

The Swansons said after they were flown to Juneau and hospitalized Thursday that they were asleep when the quake hit. They awoke and went to the pilot house to look around. As they glanced toward three glaciers at the head of the bay they could see ice and debris being sheared off "like a gravel truck dumping a full load."

"Then a huge wall of water about 50 feet high came racing toward us," they said, "caught our boat, and swept it up to a crest where we saw the Sunmore. The law we saw of the Wagners' boat it was headed toward a rocky cliff."

The quake caused the worst cable break in the Alaska communications system history, snapping it in four places in the Skagway-Haines area. Communications between southeast Alaska and Seattle were seriously disrupted.

So severe was the tremor when it hit that it knocked the needle off the seismograph at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Protest Mouse Use

LONDON (AP)—The mouse that was fired into space from Cape Canaveral, Fla., drew indignant rumblings Thursday from the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The society said it will protest to the American Embassy.

Oscar Levant Calls Police To Save Him From Wife

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Oscar Levant has called the cops for protection from his wife.

The bad boy pianist of local television called police headquarters Wednesday night and said his wife, June, had hit him with a shoe and threatened to stab him with scissors. The pianist said she accused him of running around with other women.

Police Chief Clinton Anderson was in one of the two squad cars that sped to Levant's home.

"Levant was yelling and screaming inside the house," Anderson said. "You could hear him from a block away."

Mrs. Levant was locked in the bathroom. Anderson finally coaxed her out.

"That woman hit me with a shoe," Anderson said Levant screamed. "She's dangerous."

Ridiculous, replied Mrs. Levant. "You don't see any bruises on him, do you?"

Anderson told the Levants to keep their family squabbles more on the quiet side. Then he and his trusty officers left.

"I don't know if it was a TV production or the real thing," Anderson said.

Levant, former concert pianist and movie actor, has a local television program on which he mixes his acid wit with complaints about his health and the world at large.

Mrs. Levant told a reporter that her crazy mixed-up husband was spending Thursday at his doctor's.

"I guess this is the kind of publicity Oscar wants, but I don't want to have any part of it," she said. "Doesn't he have any regard for our three lovely daughters?"

Mrs. Levant, a former member of the singing Gale Sisters, said she didn't know if the moody pianist is absent from home for good.

Black-Bearded Man Slays Two Children, Then Flees

CUBA, N.M. (AP) — A black-bearded killer invaded this northern New Mexico farm community Thursday, shot down and killed two children, and fled into the wilderness.

Townspeople quickly organized posses for the pursuit to aid state police.

Killed in the apparently senseless shooting were Eddie Cebeda, about 13, and his aunt, Eileen Cebeda, 12.

The unidentified assailant, armed with a high-power rifle, escaped in a pickup truck after the midday shootings on Cuba's main street. Cuba is a village of fewer than 500 people, about 70 airline miles northwest of Albuquerque.

Dr. Everett E. Stohr said Eileen was shot in the back and instantly killed. Eddie, who was sitting on the porch of his home was fatally wounded.

The killer, whose pickup had a Utah license, eluded two state police cars which took up his trail.

Stohr said Mrs. Cebeda and her daughter had been shopping in the Cuba supply store, two doors from their own store and residence. Stohr's office is between the two.

"They stopped in front of their place of business," Stohr said. "They were leaning against the car talking to a friend, and this man drove up."

An eyewitness, Weldon Vernon, said the gunman had picked up a rifle lying on the seat beside him and fired two shots without warning. The first shot, which Vernon said appeared deliberately aimed, killed the little girl and ricocheted, giving Mrs. Cebeda a superficial wound.

The boy was sitting on the Cebeda porch and was hit by the second shot. He died on the way to an Albuquerque hospital.

The killer drove away immediately after firing the second shot. He was chased by Richard Velarde, who turned back to telephone police after getting a license number.

The country in which the killer was at large is mountainous and forested terrain, thinly populated.

The paratrooper was home on furlough.

"How many jumps have you made?" a friend asked.

"None," said the boy. "But I've been pushed out 17 times."

Officer Testifies Chicago Lawyer Marked For Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — A police lieutenant testified Thursday that Abraham Teitelbaum was marked for death in 1954 in an underworld plot to seize control of Chicago's rich restaurant industry.

The plan, Lt. Joseph Morris of Chicago told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, was to push Teitelbaum from the balcony of his office high up in the Chicago Fine Arts Building and make it look like suicide. Teitelbaum's office is on the 16th floor.

Teitelbaum, a lawyer, then was the $125,000-a-year labor consultant for the Chicago Restaurant Assn. There has been testimony that he exercised some sort of magic when it came to settling labor disputes.

Called before the Senate probers Teitelbaum invoked the protection of four different constitutional amendments and refused to say whether he knew anything about the murder plot.

"Can't you be helpful to the committee?" Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) asked the big, sweating, florid-faced witness.

But Teitelbaum was adamant. He refused to answer more than 80 questions on the grounds that answers might tend to degrade or incriminate him.

Morris testified he received information that Louis (Needle Nose) Labriola and James Weinberg, two gangsters who were subsequently murdered, were plotting to get rid of Teitelbaum.

Morris described an underworld split over an effort to set up an organization to be known as the Metropolitan Restaurant Assn. and to take over from Teitelbaum's powerful group.

The police officer said Tony Accardo, swarthy king of Chicago's underworld, appeared to be behind the move, with Sam (Golf Bag) Hunt slated to be boss of the new association.

Morris said the scheme failed mainly because of internal troubles. He testified that Labriola and Weinberg eventually transferred their operations outside of Chicago and became "important enough to be killed."

Tito, Nasser Ask End Of Differences

PULA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Presidents Tito and Nasser appealed Thursday to the East and West blocs to settle their differences.

Winding up eight days of discussion, Tito and the visiting President of the United Arab Republic urged a summit conference of East-West nations and an end to nuclear weapons production and tests.

Suitor Runs Down Woman

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jealous suitor critically injured a divorcee by running her down with his automobile, deputies reported Thursday.

Gene Butterfield, 25, a car salesman, was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder as a result of the motorized attack Wednesday night on Janet D. Byzeck, 28, Iron River, Mich.

Mrs. Byzeck, mother of six children, suffered fractured ribs, a fractured pelvis and internal injuries when a car hit her as she walked along the sidewalk with a friend, Marine Pfc. John Ross, 25, of Camp Pendleton.

Investigators said she rejected Butterfield's bid for a date and went out with Ross.

Meyner To Speak

HUNTINGTON (AP) — Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, a Democratic Presidential possibility, was announced Thursday as principal speaker at a dinner of the Cabell County Democratic Executive Committee Aug. 15.

The governor will be accompanied here by Mrs. Meyner and members of his staff, Committee Chairman Robert H. Burford said.

Railway Makes Women's Car

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — "Marvelous."

That's how one feminine commuter described the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad's new car for women only.

The baby blue, perfume-scented car was placed in service for the first time Thursday on the morning rush-hour run from here to New York City.

Mrs. Vera Veseley of Fords, said the car was marvelous because she had more elbow room.

"Men always spread out their newspapers and hog space," she said. "Only yesterday I had to tell a man to fold up his paper."

But the roominess in the air-conditioned car didn't last for long. All 44 seats were soon taken and standees jammed the aisle.

Mrs. Veseley had only one mild criticism: "You could probably save time by applying make-up in the ladies car instead of at home, but there are no mirrors. As long as the railroad spent all this money, I don't see why it didn't install wall-to-wall mirrors."

Mrs. Corrine Rose of Edison, patted the blue leather seats and commented: "These will save my stockings. Those cane seats in the old cars always gave me runners."

One woman offered a dissenting opinion.

Pilot's Error May Be Cause Of Fatal Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff, says he suspects that pilot error may have caused the June 27 crash of a Europe-bound jet Stratotanker on takeoff from Westover Air Force Base, Mass.

Six newsmen were among the 15 persons killed in the accident.

Asked about the accident after he addressed a National Press Club luncheon Thursday, LeMay said the official investigation is not complete but has uncovered nothing to indicate mechanical malfunction.

LeMay said his guess is that the pilot was distracted in the cockpit and let the nose go down a little so that the airplane settled immediately after takeoff.

Warns Of Stress On Technical Subjects

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Madame Chiang Kai-shek warned Thursday night against too much stress on science and technical subjects in education.

Too much of this, she said, could lead to "petrification of the intellect." And she suggested this may already have happened to some intellectuals who regard biological survival above all else.

Madame Chiang, wife of the Chinese Nationalist President, expressed her views in an address prepared for a special convention of the university of Michigan where she received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Ike Plays Golf On Canada Trip

OTTAWA (AP) — President Eisenhower hooked his first drive into a bunker at the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club Thursday but won cheers anyway from about 300 watching club members.

Then he tried again and his second drive was 200 yards straight down the middle.

Police Rescue Trapped Boys

MOUNT VERNON, Ind. (AP) — Two teen-age boys, trapped 12 hours halfway down the chimney of a three-story building, were rescued Thursday by police who knocked a hole in the bricks.

Alva Scott Heath, 16, and Jimmy Mayville, 17, both of Mount Vernon, were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Evansville, suffering from bruises, cuts and exposure.

Police questioned the youths only briefly because of their exhausted condition. They reported the boys said they were playing on the roof of a business about midnight. One fell into the chimney and the other followed in an unsuccessful rescue attempt.

Phoebus May Ask For Call Of Legislature

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) —The minority leader of the Maryland Senate said Thursday if the State's highest court rules unconstitutional legislation outlawing slot machines at Potomac River casinos, he will ask the governor to call a special session of the General Assembly to reenact the law.

Sen. Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset) told the Fredericksburg Free Lance-Star in a telephone interview he had worked hard on the measure ruled unconstitutional yesterday by two Circuit Court judges.

The reason cited for knocking down the law was that the Legislature exceeded its authority by enacting the anti-slot machine bill at a short session limited constitutionally to consideration of statewide, budgetary and emergency matters.

"The people wanted the law as we passed it. We felt that it was an emergency and could be taken up at that session," Phoebus said.

Maryland's Attorney General announced that he would ask for a special summer session of the Court of Appeals to hear the state's appeal from the Circuit Court ruling.

Asked why, in the event the lower court ruling is upheld, he would recommend the calling of a special session when a regular session of the Legislature is scheduled next year, Phoebus replied:

"This certainly is a big issue—whether the gamblers and gangsters can rule the country or whether the good people will. If we believed in it last March, we certainly believe in it now."

The controversial law banned slot machines in any establishment on a navigable river of the state, unless such a place is accessible by foot from the Maryland shore.

The law hit directly at the casinos operating in the Potomac River off the Virginia shore. The establishments are licensed in Maryland and do a thriving business from Virginia, which outlaws slot machines and the sale of whisky by the drink.

292-Year-Old Flag Wanted For Celebration

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP) — Somerset County officials are looking for one of the county's 292-year-old flags.

They found out what the flag looked like this week in a painting which had been hanging in the Baltimore law offices of the late Southey Miles, a Somerset Countian. The painting was brought here for reproduction by Joshua W. Miles Jr.

It is a red, white and blue flag just like the Union Jack of Great Britain except for an Indian head where the bars cross each other. It was a maritime flag and was given to Somerset because it was a maritime county.

In 1666 when the flag was issued the county extended from Chesapeake Bay to the Atlantic Ocean and from the Naticoke River in Delaware south to Pocomoke County. Since then Worcester and Wicomico counties have been carved from it.

Confidence Man Caught By FBI

BALTIMORE (AP) — The FBI announced Thursday it had arrested a man who bilked the American Red Cross in 25 cities in 13 states into advancing him money with a story he was waiting for compensation from the Veterans' Administration.

The FBI identified him as Elbert Cecil Joseph, 32, and said he had used six other names.

James J. Kelly, special agent in charge, said Joseph was arrested at Poughkeepsie, N.Y. on only one indictment. Kelly said that Joseph had obtained $100 from the Red Cross there.

The agent reported that Joseph also had been advanced money by the Red Cross in Maryland, Delaware, Connecticut, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New Jersey, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Kelly said Joseph would go to the Red Cross and claim he was an unemployed veteran who needed financial help. He would tell of having been discharged from the Air Force with 50 per cent disability resulting from a crash in Korea.

To support the story, the agent said, Joseph would display a fictitious application for veterans' compensation which he had not yet received. The FBI said Joseph submitted the false claim to the VA and it was on this charge that he was indicted in Poughkeepsie in December of 1954.

Agent Kelly said Joseph actually enlisted in the Navy in 1941 by stating he was 18 when he was only 15. He was discharged the next year when his true age was discovered.

Joseph was not injured in naval service and not entitled to any pension, Kelly said.

Trade Extension Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted 12-2 Thursday for an extension of the reciprocal trade program in a form far different from what President Eisenhower asked.

In the first place, the proposed extension is for three years. President Eisenhower asked for five years, and the House voted five.

The Senate Committee wrote in an amendment sharply limiting presidential power to overrule the Tariff Commission on the question of higher tariffs. This was a victory for those who say domestic industry needs more protection from foreign competition. It is expected to cause a hot fight when the extension bill comes up in the Senate.

Port Interests Protest Tunnel

BALTIMORE, July 10 (AP) — Maryland port interests have filed protests against a proposed tunnel under the Baltimore shipping lane at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay.

They contended the 5,665 foot tunnel projected for the natural lane to Baltimore and other Bay ports would be too restrictive and should be at least 6,200 feet.

The protests were filed by the Maryland Port Authority and the Baltimore Association of Commerce with the Army Corps of Engineers at Norfolk. Thursday was the deadline for such protests.

The tunnel is one of two proposed for a combination bridge-tunnel crossing at the mouth of the bay. The other, planned for 6,200 feet, would cross under the Thimble Shoals channel handling traffic into Hampton Roads and Norfolk.

Virginia interests proposed the second tunnel after Maryland shippers protested plans for a bridge across the channel now used for traffic to the upper Bay.

"The shorter tunnel projected by the consulting engineers employed by the Chesapeake Bay Ferry District, the Virginia agency in charge of the proposed crossing, would require considerable filling in of the natural wide and deep fairway that is now utilized by vessels serving Baltimore," the Maryland Port Authority said.

Before World War II, the Soviet Ukraine accounted for nearly a fourth of Russia's entire wheat and corn crops, a third of its barley and two-thirds of its sugar beet output.

Teen-Agers Get Reformatory Terms

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four teenagers who stole cars and held "drag races" with them on the highways were sentenced Thursday to four years each in the State Reformatory for Males.

Judge Joseph L. Carter imposed the terms in Youth Court on Vincent C. Vccioni Jr., 17, Timothy Cling, 18, Jackie G. Cooper, 17, and Howard D. Mace, 18.

Police testified that a total of 10 cars had been stolen by the boys during a two-month period beginning late in March.

Council Appointed

Gov. M'Keldin Believes In Integrity Of Adams

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland, leaving on a trip to Israel, Thursday expressed what he termed his fullest belief in the integrity of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams.

"I have known him for many years," said McKeldin. "I think of him as a man of profound integrity. He would not do anything wrong in this world."

As for the current congressional probe into the relations between Adams and Boston financier Bernard Goldfine, McKeldin said:

"What kind of an investigation is that? How little that becomes the spirit of this country."

Accompanying the governor were his wife and two children, Theodore Roosevelt, 21, and Clara Whitney, 18, both college students. In his party also were Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Baltimore and Mrs. Sobeloff.

In Israel McKeldin will take part in ground-breaking ceremonies for an American student center in Jerusalem and receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Check-Grabbing Goldfines Slow Answering Quiz

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Goldfine clan may be fast at grabbing for the check, but it must be just about the slowest family on record at answering questions.

Bernard Goldfine, the millionaire textile manufacturer who likes to present gifts to important people, was back Wednesday as a witness before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee. And he fetched along one of his sons to help him with the testifying.

The son—his father calls him Horace, but the son refers to himself as H. Maxwell—doesn't look a bit like his father. Also unlike his father, Horace Maxwell's command of English is almost perfect. But put a microphone in front of him, and throw a committee question his way, and he can match papa, silence for silence.

At 36, H. Maxwell is a dapper, cool young man, who wears a blue suit, a heavy coat of tan, and a look of amused tolerance, largely because he raises his eyebrows so often he has created permanent creases in his forehead.

With a cigaret dangling from his lips, he looks surprisingly like a motion picture gambler, one who appears carefree because he holds a pat hand.

Bernard Goldfine obviously is the star of this show, since it was he who did the favors for Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 White House man.

Yet he scarcely was seated on the witness stand before he was modestly proclaiming that he was not the gold mine of information that the committee had hoped for.

So H. Maxwell Goldfine joined his father at the microphone.

How simple that sounds, and yet how tricky the execution!

For the Goldfines are so fortified with legal and secretarial help there was no room.

"The platform," Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) observed, "can hold only so many."

Furthermore, H. Maxwell has his own private lawyer, who was assigned to his left ear. When the change was made at last, some of Goldfine's best legal talent was pushed so far back that Roger Robb, who heads the squad, could only waggle his wishes, like a baseball manager telling a right-hander in the bullpen to warm up.

Yet once the younger Goldfine made the lineup, he showed no great enthusiasm for this type of work.

He, like his father, conferred frequently with the lawyers. He, too, showed a distaste for a couple of simple English words, yes and no. He, too, did something his father likes to do.

"Would you repeat that question, please?" Or "May I have the question again?"

Harris tried to speed the hearing up, but he didn't get very far.

Once, when he was urging speed, Robb protested that Bernard Goldfine merely had been trying to confer with his lawyers and couldn't he do that?

"He can confer with anyone he wants to," Harris said, "and he's surrounded by a good many."

Tours World With Navy He Hasn't Joined

ANNAPOLIS (AP) -- A 16-year-old Maine boy is seeing the world with the Navy, and he didn't even have to join up.

Stephen M. Levine of Auburn, Maine, arrived at the Naval Academy here on the first leg of a 45-day trip which will take him to Puerto Rico, South America and around Cape Horn to California on one of the Navy's supercarriers.

Young Levine earned the trip by winning first prize in a nationwide contest sponsored by the Navy Recruiting Service, the Navy League and a company which sells ship and plane models.

More than one million entries were judge by a board headed by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. Stephen's prize-winning entry said it is his ambition to make the Navy his career.

Soviet, German Treatment Of Fliers Differs

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Nine American fliers forced down in the Soviet Union and nine American fliers forced down in East Germany have received entirely different treatment.

A case can be made for the Soviet actions at home. None can be made for her actions through her German puppets.

In one case, an American military plane, though actually not armed, was indisputably intercepted 30 miles within the Soviet Union.

American and Communist military forces face each other around the worldwide Communist perimeter. Such taut-nerved situations always have produced incidents. They are even more inevitable when any plane can carry terrible destructive devices or equipment for extensive spying.

There is no question about what would happen to an unannounced Soviet military plane caught 30 miles inside a U.S. border.

It would be shot down, just as was the American plane. Or else the defense establishment would be in trouble.

Later the United States would have expressed regret over the necessity, but that's not to be expected from a government with slaughterhouse manners. The fliers were released after a reasonable period. Charges of Soviet barbarism, in this one instance, will be hard to sustain.

In East Germany, however, human beings are being held as political hostages, a practice from which the rulers of the area have not advanced since the times of Tamarlane and Darius.

The same thing is happening in Red China, and has been happening throughout the communist sphere for years.

A hundred years ago Western powers considered this practice so reprehensible they never let anybody get away with it. War was preferable to this type of blackmail, which played upon western feeling for the human being.

Now war, which would threaten humanity as well as human beings is not preferable to anything. Political kidnapers can ply their trade without fear of military force.

The Soviet Union and the East German Communists want the puppets recognized as a legal government and make their attempts in petty ways.

Store Manager Stole Them Blind

MOSCOW (AP)—The press this week splashed the case of a jewelry department manager of a big Moscow store who stole two million rubles worth of baubles over the years and then, conscience stricken, gave himself up.

The culprit, Naum Isakovich Krakovsky, once decorated with the "excellent worker" badge, got a 25-year sentence.

By keeping the top management brass well polished, he avoided inventories for years, he said.

Rumblings Of The Recession Are Heard Today Among Many Churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Rumblings of the recession are heard today among the churches.

They're wrestling with the effects—both on their pocketbooks and on their consciences.

"Grave moral and spiritual issues are involved," says the Board of Social and Economic Relations of the Methodist Church.

As for the collection plate, it has fared variously. Receipts of some congregations have skidded. Others, with extra effort, are doing better than ever.

"It's often a matter of what countermeasures have been taken," says the Rev. Arthur Rinden, a church budget-raising expert.

Breaking a steady, 10-year climb in building outlays, the total dropped 1 per cent in the first quarter of 1958, despite prior predictions of a continued rise.

David M. Church, director of the American Assn. of Fund-raising Counsel, says time is too short and the amount of the drop too small to draw definite conclusions, but the figure is the best index of church financial status.

On many fronts, however, church programs dollar-wise are still going up. Most denominational conventions this year have set increased over-all budgets.

Southern Baptists reported that central receipts for the first half of 1958 were more than 8 per cent ahead of 1957.

But what is going on in local parishes where the first signs would show?

The interdenominational fortnightly Christianity Today said a survey indicates a trend toward "caution about future spending," adding: "Individual members were not as willing to pledge amounts of money over an extended period."

Of 30 Southern Baptist pastors questioned at a Kansas City meeting, 12 thought the recession had adversely affected offerings. Of 12 Los Angeles churches polled, all said income had dropped. But many elsewhere said it was up.

The Rev. Mr. Rinden, of the Stewardship and Benevolence Department of the National Council of Churches, says the recession has "caused a number of churches to use more care in setting their budgets.

"As a result they've come off better than before."

A flood of demands has resulted this year in his department holding seven seminars at which pastors (about 40 at each seminar) are trained in budget-raising methods. Comparatively, only two such seminars were held last year.

Several church groups have urged government steps to ease recession hardships and unemployment. "Involuntary unemployment is a basic injustice . . ." said the general board of the 32-denomination National Council.

It called for steps to expand and equalize jobless benefits in various states. So did the Methodist Social-Economic Relations Board, but it warned against inflation-causing "deficit spending that will mortgage the future."

Meanwhile, there was a move in the United Lutheran Church to restore financial priority of regional synods over the central church—a policy of early 1930s depression.

The national Roman Catholic weekly, The Sign, said economic letdowns are bound to come because of "a deep-rooted failing in human nature. The economic system in this regard is like a person's spiritual life."

Just as neglect of the soul is corrected by "periods of prayer and penance," it added, so man's prosperity extremes are chastened by temporary setbacks.

Allowed To Return

SINGAPORE (AP) — Hundreds of Singapore-born Chinese students who went to Red China without parental consent are being allowed to return at their own and parents' requests. Singapore's chief minister Lim Yew Hock told reporters: "They will be allowed to return and enjoy what they now realize communism cannot give and do for them."

Lebanon Crisis Boils Down Into Hazy Internal Mush

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

In the two weeks since U.N. Secretary General Hammarskjold went to Lebanon the situation there has boiled down into a hazy mush which may have averted a military crisis.

Hammarskjold's position which is backed by a vague report by the U.N. observations group, is that the shooting there is primarily an internal matter which must be settled by the Lebanese themselves.

The United States and Britain think the observations group may be technically correct in failing to find massive foreign infiltration into the rebel ranks, but wrong in issuing a report playing down such interference from Syria as there is.

Since the two powers can hardly justify intervention as long as the U.N. does not overrule Hammarskjold, they have been given an out with the Lebanese government which may be more welcome than is admitted publicly.

Expressed doubts as to Beirut's claims may also have served to forestall the expected Lebanese request for a U.N. police force or for U.S.-British aid under the mutual defense provisions of the U.N. charter.

One damper on outside action to aid the Chamoun government has been its reluctance to throw its own army into what it has tried to make appear as an outside invasion from the Syrian section of the United Arab Republic.

The government apparently has feared the effects of division within the army itself, and the army leaders apparently prefer a middle course until the ultimate political victor is determined.

There was a report at the U.N. Monday that Chamoun was considering an offer to the rebels to resign when Parliament meets late this month, remaining only as caretaker until the September election. The report was discounted by many who failed to see just what it would mean to a compromise, since he has promised to get out in September anyway, and since there is no evidence of central authority among the rebels.

Such an attempt at compromise would also be an admission that the Lebanon rebels can be dealt with, and that outside pressure, arms and infiltration are not predominant factors as the government has claimed.

The rebels have promised, but showed no signs of producing, an important military campaign. The government is holding its own.

A new crisis will arise if an anti-Western government seems about to be established either through military or political action between now and September. In the meantime the crisis has been reduced from a flood to a quagmire.

Will The Igloo Count In U.S. House Census?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should the building of a new igloo be taken into account when Uncle Sam tabulates housing statistics?

This is a somewhat exaggerated example of the problems facing the Census Bureau and other federal agencies which will have to amend their statistical ways once Alaska becomes a state.

Officials of most of the agencies involved say the impact of Alaska on almost all sets of figures will be small. However, they acknowledged that the admission of a 49th state will create some special problems.

The Census Bureau already gathers quite an array of Alaskan statistics and will merely have to lump these into the national total. However, even Census has cause for handwringing. Since all its present forms list Alaska with the territories, these will have to be discarded and replaced with new ones giving Alaska a position next to Alabama.

At the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the big question is how to integrate Alaska's high living costs into the consumer price index. People in Alaska earn more and spend more because so much of what they need has to be shipped great distances.

The government probably will move fast to include Alaska in surveys of personal income. Speed is necessary because per capita personal income serves as the basis for apportioning federal aid for such programs as health, hospital construction and school lunches.

The Commerce Department, which makes these surveys, has no reliable income figures for Alaska. Before it begins gathering them, it will make a study of past income trends there, so figures for the new state will be in line with those for the rest of the nation.

Monthly employment and unemployment statistics also will be revised to take the Alaskan labor market into account. This won't change the national picture very much since the most recent Census Bureau estimate puts Alaska's civilian population at 165,000.

Soviet Missile Lead Is Not Great

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

The Army's missile boss says we could run faster in the space race with Russia if:

1. American science could provide a leader who combined high technical objectivity with the ability to make dynamic and forceful decisions.

2. We changed "our national philosophy of crucifying the man who makes one mistake even though he's had nine straight successes. "That philosophy leads to a man's spending more effort on avoiding mistakes than doing something."

But Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, head of the team which put Explorers I and III in orbit, also thinks the Soviets "don't have such a lead that it can't be overcome.

"There is nothing they know how to do that we don't know how to do. We have the creative ability and the productive resources. But it's going to take hard work and a continuing sense of urgency."

Technical leadership is needed to weigh various space age proposals and give green lights to the best bets, Gen. Medaris told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview.

Can't Be President

"And this leader can't, for example, be the President, for his job is too big. He shouldn't have to make all such decisions."

Medaris agrees with the President that civilian leadership is needed. But —

"Scientists don't join forces with each other to develop such leaders. They won't follow someone else."

Further, most of the highly competent scientists in the space area, says Medaris, are directly involved in one or the other of the projects under way and could not be expected to approach the overall program objectively.

He says the main reason space efforts have been conducted so far by the armed services is the organization capabilities of the military managers.

If we must continue to depend upon military management in this area, Medaris warns, we will lose the psychological war with Russia. The Soviet won't fail to exploit the argument that the military is running the show — with warlike intent.

Fear of making a mistake delays decisions and programs in government and industry alike, Medaris said. The bigger the company, the more likely the tendency to play it safe.

Aren't Doing This

"But the Soviets aren't doing this with their creative scientists. The man who is successful on his first try can afford failures on the next venture or two at least. However, this apparently does not apply in the political area in Russia."

Tall, with dark graying hair and mustache, Gen. Medaris was commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala., during the past 2½ years, and is now chief of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, which includes that agency and other key missile research and development facilities.

The Army is working on one or two rockets to explore the moon with instruments measuring magnetism and gravity, and at least one more satellite for International Geophysical Year studies. But Medaris offers no details yet.

As for the Russians, "I have an uneasy suspicion their main goal next is to bring a satellite successfully back to earth again. That's the first step in getting animals or humans into space and back again safely."

Work On Lunar Probe

"I think they're also working on a lunar probe as we are. But my hunch is they think there's greater propaganda value, for one thing, in a satellite that can be recovered."

Medaris's first exposure to rocketry came in 1912 when he was 10, living in Springfield, Ohio. A mechanic made him a brass tube, open at one end, into which he could tamp black powder, then set it off.

In World War II as an ordnance officer, he made it his own business to learn early about German rocket weapons. He came to Huntsville in September 1955.

Medaris—"The Big M" to many of his men—has developed such a team of experts, in depth for each job, that "no man there is indispensable, including me."

The team includes the renowned Wernher von Braun.

"If someone picked six men, very carefully, and took them away from me, it would hurt. Any number less than that wouldn't seriously or permanently hurt the program, though some would be sorely missed for psychological reasons until the men accepted their successors."

Medaris finds his own job "a field as little known and understood as any in the world. It means taming imaginative science for productive ends, a science of the management of development, without stifling the imagination of scientists.

"Sometimes you have to arbitrate between teams of scientists who are like wild horses in harness. And they should be that way for they have imagination and a high sense of individuality that makes them good."

Not a scientist himself, Medaris learns fast, aided by a rare photographic memory and ability to read 700 to 800 words a minute with high retention.

A very successful management expert in civilian life — between two long Army hitches—he uses a knack of defining basic problems to reach solutions or help assistants reach solutions.

Medaris pays particular attention to maintaining high morale and a sense of challenge at Huntsville. Both played a role in shooting explorer I into orbit.

"The Army had no satellite assignment. But Secretary (of Defense) McElroy was at Huntsville the night Sputnik I went up. Naturally we weren't happy the Russians had done it first.

"Von Braun said to him: 'Secretary McElroy, we can get a satellite up in 60 days.'

"No, Wernher, 90 days," I said.

Took 80 Days

"It took us 80 but we weren't starting right from scratch by any means. We had been testing nose cones for intermediate range missiles, using three-stage rockets based on an elongated Redstone booster.

"We had nine of them. We had fired three, recovered a nose cone —the one the President showed on television—and had the data we wanted. So I had the other six rockets put away in the bank, just in case.

"The morning after Sputnik, we had this stuff off the shelf and were moving. We added a fourth stage rocket. The IGY panel assigned us an experiment on cosmic rays, which the Jet Propulsion Laboratory engineered for the Explorer shape.

"We didn't get the official go-ahead for Explorer until four or five days after Sputnik. We were that much ahead again.

"One of the nose cone tests, in September 1956, went 3,000 miles a year before Sputnik.

"My boys had figured in advance that that 1956 shot could have put a satellite in orbit, if they'd tossed away the dummy top section and put on the fourth stage and the satellite itself.

"And I think they would have done it if I hadn't watched 'em."

Frostburg College Seeks $1½ Million

The State Planning Commission has been asked to approve a total allocation of $1,455,000 for additional projects at Frostburg State Teachers College.

However, of the total, $536,000 was asked for Gunter Hall, the dining hall building. During the past fiscal year, $422,000 had been appropriated, but when bids were opened they were about $80,000 higher than the amount available.

The State Department of Public Improvements made attempts to modify the design of this building, but the State Board of Education did not approve the change in the style of roof.

This would be inconsistent with the architecture that has been followed in the other new buildings, the board said.

The Board of Education wants two more residence halls, one for men and the other for women. The board is asking the planning commission to approve the allocation of $362,000 for each of them.

R. Bowen Hardesty, Frostburg State president, said each of the halls would be similar to the other two new residence halls built in the past few years, — Allen Hall for men and Simpson Hall for women.

The board also asked $195,000 for site improvements. This would go for outdoor athletic facilities in the south area in the rear of Compton Hall, the gymnasium.

Hardesty commented that the college has first class indoor athletic facilities, but the outdoor area is substandard.

He said part of that money would go for landscaping around Gunter Hall when it is completed.

There are two residence halls for women at Frostburg, Simpson Hall with space for 91 and Frost Hall with rooms for 120.

Allen Hall will accommodate 90 students.

When Gunter Hall is completed, the dining area in Frost Hall will be converted to a large living room, which that building lacks, a music room, infirmary with quarters for physician and nurses, and quarters for the hall supervisor.

Completion of these projects would have Frostburg State making a creditable contribution to the educational facilities of Western Maryland.

The only state college in Western Maryland, it has been expanding by leaps and bounds since the building project was instituted in 1947 by Dr. Lillian C. Compton, who was president of the school when a state committee advocated that it be closed down.

The citizens of Frostburg and surrounding areas and the faculty and alumni of the college were instrumental in saving the institution from being abandoned, and in addition got a building program started.

Workers Begin Razing Span Over Wills Creek

Workmen are in the process of dismantling the temporary bridge across Wills Creek at Baltimore Street.

The wooden structure of heavy beams was erected last year and while the modern concrete span was being constructed across the creek the temporary span was used by thousands of autos and small trucks.

A large crane is being used to lift the heavy deck planking from the bridge onto trucks. The temporary span cost approximately $35,000. Much of the heavy timber can be salvaged.

Meanwhile, the Western Maryland Railway is continuing the work on a new bridge to replace the span in use just above the Baltimore Street bridge for many years. Both projects are part of the overall flood control program.

The railway bridge had several large piers in the stream bed and this impeded the flow of the water. The new span will be of a design to fit in with the general flood control program. A temporary trestle type span is being used by the railway while the new bridge is being constructed.

4-H Club Week Registration Started Here

Registration of Allegany County boys and girls who will attend the annual 4-H Club Week program at the University of Maryland August 4 through August 9 has been started.

Last year approximately 45 boys and girls attended from this county. James Arnold, assistant county farm agent in charge of boys club work, and Miss Mary Wise, county home demonstration agent, said reservations should be in by July 19.

The program includes demonstrations and discussions on agriculture and related subjects for boys. The girls will discuss home economics and also witness demonstrations.

For the older 4-H boys and girls over 16 years of age the classes have been planned on topics such as careers, clothing selection, new trends in home economics and agriculture, recreation and public speaking.

During the late afternoon various activities such as dancing, tennis, softball, volley ball, crafts, sketching are on the program. Campfire programs are held on two evenings during the week.

The boys and girls are divided into 24 Indian tribes and on three evenings Indian councils are held. Vesper services are held at the end of each day's program.

A visitors' day will be held August 8 and a Club Week pageant is slated for the morning of August 8. On the same day a dress review will be held in the afternoon.

There will be several sightseeing tours of Washington.

Members of 4-H Clubs in Allegany County who expect to attend will have a pre-club week meeting July 24 at 7:30 p. m. at the office of the Extension Service, third floor of the Court House.

GRADUATES — Edward C. Athey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Athey, 212 Laing Avenue, was graduated June 30 with a degree in commercial science from Benjamin Franklin University in Washington. A graduate of Fort Hill High School in 1954 where he played football and baseball, Athey has also taken undergraduate work at the U. S. Department of Agriculture School. He is married to the former Dixie Lee Klosterman and they have one son.

Strike Action Authorized By Kelly Local

In a vote taken during the past two days, the membership of Local 26, United Rubber Workers, has given its officers the right to call a strike during the current wage negotiations with Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Of the 1,600 members of the union, 78 per cent went to the polls, A. E. Johnson, president, said.

The margin in favor of giving the officers the authority was a hundred to one, he added.

The union is conducting negotiations with Kelly officials through a wage reopening clause in the contract that will remain in effect until next spring.

Johnson said the industry pattern of eight cents an hour is being asked. Two weeks ago, Goodrich and Goodyear companies of Akron granted an increase of eight cents an hour to the 35,000 rubber workers there.

Held off in Akron for later discussions were proposals concerning pensions and insurance programs.

Johnson said the 60-day wage reopening period comes to an end at midnight Saturday. Negotiations are continuing daily, he said.

Area Land Dispute Hearing Is Today

A land condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission against a property owner on U. S. Route 40 in the Flintstone area is scheduled for a hearing before a jury in Circuit Court today.

The SRC brought the suit against Saul P. Mauzy for land needed in the highway modernization project under way in that area. Milton Gerson is Mauzy's attorney while William C. Walsh represents the SRC.

A similar suit for another piece of land on U. S. Route 40 in the Flintstone area which had been scheduled yesterday was settled out of court. The land was owned by Arthur C. Walters. He was represented by Earl E. Manges and Harold E. Naughton while the SRC was represented by William L. Wilson.

Railroad Traffic Boost Expected

Traffic on the Western Maryland Railway and B&O Railroad is expected to pick up next week when union mines go back to work.

Coal business on the two carriers, which haul much bituminous fuel from area West Virginia and Pennsylvania pits, has been slack during the past two weeks.

This period is the annual paid vacation of the miner who works for companies having contracts with the United Mine Workers.

The two-week vacation when rail traffic is down is also taken by many railroaders for their annual leave.

Medical Doctors Needed In Creek Area

The need for medical practitioners in the Georges Creek region was outlined in a letter to John Sargeant, executive secretary of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Sargeant had written the county board concerning the need for medical practitioners in that area which lies between Frostburg and Westernport.

The commissioners said the need for medical service in the Georges Creek area is general. For a number of years there was a doctor in Midland, one in Barton and three in Lonaconing, the board stated. At present there is only one physician to serve the center portion of the valley, the commissioners pointed out.

The medical body inquired particularly about Knapps Meadow, Moscow, Nikep, Mill Run and the county commissioners pointed out they are all located in the same general area.

Any doctor interested in locating in the valley will be able to obtain suitable housing in Midland, Lonaconing or Barton, the commissioners told Sargeant. They also said schools are excellent and Lonaconing has a modern two-million dollar high school, which is Valley High.

As far as social activities, Maplehurst Country Club at Frostburg offers the usual social and recreational facilities of such organizations, the board added. The nearest hospital is Miners in Frostburg and in addition residents of the area are also treated at Sacred Heart and Memorial hospitals in Cumberland.

The opportunities for a young, interested doctor are great in this area, the commissioners stated.

Marriage Licenses

Otha Woodrow George, Petersburg, W. Va., and Mabel Irene Combs, Needmore, W. Va.

St. Mary's CYO Picnic Sunday

The Catholic Youth organization will sponsor the St. Mary's Church picnic Sunday, July 13 at Marydale from 2 to 8 p. m.

A ham dinner, games and dancing will be on the program. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the CYO at the grounds Sunday.

Edward Bergman, general chairman, said transportation will be provided to the grounds, with buses scheduled to leave from the church at 1, 2, 4 and 6 p. m.

The dinner will be prepared by the Mothers Club and Sodality of the parish, under the direction of Mrs. Bergman and Mrs. Lester Hudson.

Choristers Cancel Summer Rehearsals

LONACONING — The Choristers will not hold rehearsal on Friday afternoon, according to Mrs. William Ternent, director. There will be no summer rehearsals scheduled for the Choristers of the First Presbyterian Church, she said.

The House of Rothschild, founded in Frankfurt-on-the-Main, was the first money-lending organization to operate on an extensive scale. It had branch offices in Vienna, Paris, London and Naples.

Car Damages Keyser Dwelling

KEYSER — A Chestnut Street house and one automobile were badly damaged in a two-car collision at the corner of Chestnut and South Davis shortly before 1 p. m. Wednesday.

City Patrolman James Spurling said Robert Lee Selders, 40, New Creek, was driving north on South Davis Street when Leon Wineow Holmes, 57, Cumberland, Md., driving a 1954 Ford, pulled through a stop sign out of Chestnut in front of Selders.

Selders rammed into the Holmes car and it careened across the sidewalk into the front porch of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Clifford. The car smashed into the front porch, through a post and into the front door. The impact was so great that plaster in the ceiling of two rooms was knocked down.

Neither Selders nor Holmes was hurt, but Holmes was charged with failing to have his car under control. He told Spurling the accelerator on his car stuck.

The Selders car was only slightly damaged, but the Holmes vehicle was extensively damaged.

Diocese Bishop Is Brother Of Local Priest

The Most Rev. John J. Russell, Bishop of Charleston, S. C., has been named to head the Richmond Diocese succeeding the Most Rev. Peter L. Ireton, who died April 27.

Bishop Russell is a brother of Rev. W. Joyce Russell, former assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church here.

The Richmond Diocese covers Virginia and eight counties of West Virginia, including those in the Eastern Panhandle such as Mineral, Hampshire, Morgan and Berkeley counties.

The administrator for the Richmond Diocese until the new bishop was appointed by Pope Pius XII was the Most Rev. Joseph H. Hodges, auxiliary bishop of the diocese.

Bishop Hodges lived in Cumberland as a boy, attending St. Patrick's School. He was the son of a B&O railroad physician.

Bishop Russell is a native of Baltimore and graduate of St. Charles College and St. Mary's Seminary and Urban University in Rome.

He was made a domestic prelate in 1945 after serving pastorates in Baltimore and Washington. In January 1950 he was made Bishop of Charleston, S. C.

The raccoon is found only in North and Central America. It is common to the whole of the United States.

Three Miners Found Dead In Deep Workings

SOPHIA, W. Va. (AP) — Three vacationing miners who went back to work for one day were found dead, Thursday, victims of a gas explosion deep in a coal mine in the southern part of the state.

The three miners agreed to go back Wednesday morning to start some pumps in No. 1 mine of the Slab Fork Coal Co., idle during the miners' annual 10 - day vacation period. When they had not returned home by 11 last night, their families notified company officials, and rescue parties started in after them.

About 2½ miles into the slope mine, the leading rescue party was blocked by debris from an explosion. Their indicators showed definite traces of explosive methane gas and deadly carbon monoxide.

It seemed obvious that the methane gas had seeped into the mine tunnel and had been ignited, possibly by a spark from a motor. There was no resulting fire.

The force of the explosion tossed an eight - ton motor into the side of the tunnel.

Although the debris considerably held up the rescue operations, the chief deterrent was in ventilating the mine and exhausting the combustible gases.

Dead were Sam Sawyers, 54 - year - old father of 12 children, and Walter Moore, 38, married but childless, both of Slab Fork, and Herbert Cline, 42, night foreman and father of six, of nearby Maxwell Hill.

The mine was scheduled to resume operations next Monday, when the vacation period ends. It doesn't look likely now.

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Sawyer, who are next - door neighbors within sight of the mine entrance, said their husbands went into the mine at 7 a.m.

When their husbands did not return home by suppertime, they still were not unduly alarmed, for they could see that no water was being ejected from the exhaust line. They must be working overtime, the women thought.

But by 11 p.m., they were worried. They called Mrs. Sawyer's brother - in - law, Charles Francis, a load supplier at the mine. Francis called an assistant to the coal company's president, and a rescue party was quickly organized.

The party entered the mine about midnight. At 3 a.m. Thursday, it sent up word that it "looks like there must have been an explosion." The men found pieces of twisted beltline and a beltpan.

An investigation would await the clearing of the tunnel to the explosion site.

State Mines Chief Crawford L. Wilson said in Charleston that the clearing was expected by Friday and the investigation would start at 9 a.m.

Wilson scheduled the formal hearing for 10:30 a.m. Saturday. He said that Charles Ferguson of Washington, safety director for the United Mine Workers, would be among those present.

The mines chief, who was in touch with the operations in the mine throughout the day, said that a total of 50 men took part in the search for the three miners. Of these, about 15 were state mine inspectors and other officials of the mines department. The accident came when the company rescue teams were on vacation.

In October of 1956, another three men were killed in an accident at the same mine.

Governor Speaks At Chicago Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Cecil Underwood invited Lions from all over the world to visit West Virginia during a special program at Chicago Stadium honoring his state Thursday night.

The governor began his speech with a tribute to Dudley Simms of Charleston, W. Va., president-elect of Lions International who will take office when the four-day convention here ends Saturday.

"You will come to know more of his great talents in the year ahead," he said of Simms during the "West Virginia Night" program.

He put his invitation like this:

"If you've never seen, or if you enjoy seeing, the flame of the maple and oak as the autumn leaves turn to gold; if you thrill to the eloquence of the quiet trees and green-glistening sod; if you appreciate a pioneering spirit where people are progressive and full of vigor; and if you like to be among friends — then we invite you to our state, the land of the rhododendron where people relax and work with pride and joy in their land."

Garment Plant Operations To Begin Monday

Factory Result Of Civic Effort

FROSTBURG — After more than 10 years' work by various civic groups to secure a new industry here, the project will become a reality Monday when the Frostburg Development Company (undergarment factory) will begin operations in the $100,000 factory constructed by the Frostburg Industrial Development Corporations, a non-profit group of local citizens.

Following several trys over the 10-year period to obtain funds for the erection of another factory for a local industry, and missing out by a small margin in each case, the present project was begun through the cooperation of the Mayor and Council and interested citizens. The Cumberland Undergarment Company was planning on moving operations due to the type of building they were operating in. The firm needed a one floor operation for more economical production. This project, too, seemed doomed when pledges for shares in the construction were not forthcoming.

The group was ready to drop the matter when William Preston, then a private citizen and now a city commissioner, said "let's try again and get the women to help." From then on the project moved forward and enough pledges for shares of stock were secured to erect the building which is now located at Wrights Crossing.

The new factory, which will manufacture women's slips, half slips and night gowns, will employ approximately 130 persons when in full operating capacity, Maurice Milberg, company official said. Equipment moved into the factory has been installed and is now receiving finishing touches.

Milberg stated that as soon as the factory begins regular production an open house will be held for all shareholders, followed by another for all local residents.

First Class Post Office Is Assured For Paw Paw

Increased Receipts Improve Rating

PAW PAW—The Paw Paw Post Office is the first in Morgan county to receive a first class rating, effective July 1.

Local receipts have soared from $6,500 to $65,500 in the last year as the result of the Avon Products Company locating a local shipping center which occupies a building formerly used by the old tannery.

The new status has brought about plans for a new post office building on the site next to the Consolidated Orchard Company offices, now under option by the Post Office Department. This will provide the town with modern postal facilities.

The new post office building here will probably be built within the year. It will be especially adapted for post office use and will provide the town with a new attractive structure.

Rouzee Postmaster

James H. Rouzee has been postmaster here the past 18 years. The sudden growth has saddled him with numerous new responsibilities which include the supervision of one station at the Avon plant. He will also have more employes under his supervision. The postmaster, one clerk and a substitute ran the office for years.

Rouzee has also had a rural route from the office which provides services for persons living in Morgan and Hampshire counties in West Virginia and Allegany County, Maryland. Miss Ada Lions has been on the staff for 24 years and Mrs. Ray Portmess, one year. Robert McCoole, who has been with the Postal Transportation Service for eight years running the Washington-Grafton Railway Post Office, will be transferred to the Paw Paw station after July 12. Herman Gatey is the rural carrier.

The large shipment of parcel post is now being handled by a truck route between Martinsburg and Paw Paw. The route is the principal source of incoming mail, as well as outlet. The county seat of Berkeley Springs and Great Cacapon receives mail from this route, as does Hancock, W. Va.; Hancock, Md.; Warfordsburg, Pa. and several other offices by connection made at Berkeley Springs.

Money Orders Up

The outgoing COD business, numbering about six or seven each year, has now expanded to about 45 daily. Paw Paw is without a bank and a large money order business for the post office has resulted.

The principal industry of Paw Paw is the growing and packing of fruit. The Consolidated Orchard Company has a packing plant and offices here. Until a few years ago, the tanning business played an important part in the town's economy. This plant operated nearly full-time during the thirties and Paw Paw weathered the depression better than most small towns.

Through the effort of a citizens' committee seeking replacement industry, the town's possibilities were brought to the attention of the Avon firm which took advantage of local facilities and the labor market. This company now provides about 90 per cent of receipts at the post office, and is the town's second largest employer with Consolidated leading the employment picture with 110 full-time workers and up to 400 during the orchard season.

Rouzee is the fifteenth postmaster of the Paw Paw office which was established May 26, 1846, with Isaac Baker as postmaster. He was succeeded by Samuel A Pancoast July 8, 1854. Others serving the office, with the beginning date of their terms, were William Heironimus, August 10, 1857; Jacob Ziler, May 15, 1862; Albert Hughes, January 15, 1878; Lewis Largent, March 7, 1878; Oliver Wilson, September 16, 1885; Samuel Edminston, April 11, 1889; John Williamson, June 30, 1893; Samuel Edminston, June 30, 1897; George Flora, May 13, 1901; P. E. Nixon, February 15, 1915; George Flora, August 13, 1921; Benjamin Moser, October 20, 1925; Mrs. Lillie Mosier, January 16, 1926 and Henry McNabb, 1933. Only one of the former postmasters. Mrs. Moser, is still living.

Formerly Flora's Mill

The Town of Paw Paw was originally in Hampshire County, prior to the formation of Morgan County, and on early maps was listed as Flora's Mill. The railroad and the canal brought a shipping and trading center here. During the Civil War, Union troops kept a considerable force here to protect the railroad and canal and flank forces attempting to cut communications over both.

Receipts of the Paw Paw office are about three times those at the next largest office in the county, the second-class county seat office at Berkeley Springs. Paw Paw and Great Cacapon post offices are the only ones left of six in Cacapon District. These now serve all the people of this area, giving star and rural routes door service to patrons who formerly walked to small offices for mail.

Protocol Hassle Settled: 'Judge' Title Off Ballots

CHARLESTON (AP) — A big hassle over protocol was settled to the satisfaction of all concerned at the Secretary of State's office Thursday.

It started when two circuit judges complained that a third circuit judge had gained "an unwarranted and unfair advantage" by having "judge" in front of his name on the ballot.

All three judges, along with four other citizens, are candidates for the Democratic nomination for judge of the Supreme Court to fill a vacancy created by the recent death of Judge James B. Riley.

The joint complaintants were Judges Norman Knapp of Beckley and Harlan C. Calhoun of Moorefield. They were nettled by a rival candidate, Judge K. K. Hall, being listed as "judge" on the Democratic ballot. Judge Hall readily agreed to dropping his title on the ballot.

Meanwhile, Republican Judge Max DeBerry of Harrisville heard about the Democratic hassle and wired Secretary of State Helen Holt to delete the "judge" from his name on the GOP ballot.

Judge DeBerry and E. Franklin Pauley of Charleston are running for the Republican nomination for the Republican nomination for a six-year vacancy on the Supreme Court bench.

Mrs. Holt promptly informed Judges Knapp and Calhoun that it had been customary for the Secretary of State to accept titles with candidacies.

She held conferences, however, with Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron and representatives of the West Virginia State Bar.

The Bar's legal ethics committee, in an earlier case involving Judge Hall this year, said it was unethical for a judge to use the prestige of his position to seek political office.

That was when Judge Hall announced for Congress without resigning his office as judge. He later withdrew.

After the round of conferences, Mrs. Holt issued a statement saying, "we are right in accepting titles."

However, Judge Hall requested that the "judge" be eliminated from his listing. So Mrs. Holt said that inasmuch as all parties to the controversy had gotten together, her office would go along with them "as a matter of courtesy."

She forthwith sent out telegrams to all circuit clerks, who are responsible for printing the local ballots, asking them to delete the "judge" from Hall's name on the Democratic ballot, and from DeBerry's name on the Republican ticket.

If the ballots are already printed, she suggested stickers be pasted over the "judge."

Belington Man Abandons Plan To Span Ocean

SOUTHWEST HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Two men who planned to cross the Atlantic in an 18-foot outboard boat canceled their trip Thursday and said they might have to hitchhike home for lack of money.

Roy Sutter, 43, of Belington, W. Va., said he and James Pirtle, 30, of Fort Worth, Tex., gave up the project after having waited three weeks for word and money from their sponsor. They identified him as Ben Whitehouse, owner of a Fort Worth boat company.

Sutter said he and Pirtle want to "apologize to the press, although the outcome of the adventure is not our fault."

He said their resources had now diminished to $26 and 20 gallons of fuel and that they presently didn't know just how to return to their homes.

Sutter said he had given up a position in Los Angeles to make the crossing.

Parolee Held In Burglary

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — Donald Clarence Barber, a parolee from the Maryland Reformatory for Males at Hagerstown, was held on burglary charges Thursday in connection with the breaking and entering of a filling station.

The 18-year-old Hagerstown youth was picked up on the highway after a filling station at U.S. 40 and Swan's Creek, between Havre de Grace and Aberdeen, was broken into at 12:35 a.m.

The station's owner heard noises from a receiver he has in the station and called police. An Aberdeen policeman arrived just after someone had climbed out of a rear window. A car was parked in the station's driveway and police said two cigar boxes with an undetermined amount of money were in the car.

Barber was lodged in the Harford County jail at Bel Air pending action by the state's attorney.

Police records at Hagerstown showed that Barber is on probation from an 18-month sentence at the Maryland Reformatory for Males and has been arrested eight times on such charges as larceny, drunk and disorderly conduct and assault.

Farm Income Up

Total cash farm income in Maryland during the first quarter was three per cent higher than a year ago, the State Planning Commission has reported.

The increase was due to better income from livestock—up 13 per cent — allthough income from crops was 40 per cent under a year ago.

Horse Dies; Owner Cited For Cruelty

CHARLESTON (AP) — Carlos Seabolt of Shrewsbury, operator of a cinder block plant and former mayor of Cedar Grove, has been cited for alleged cruelty to animals.

Magistrate Earl Arthur said Thursday that Seabolt had been ordered to appear in his court Monday in answer to a complaint lodged by the Charleston Humane Assn.

Mrs. Dorsey Smith, president of the humane group, said an investigation established that Seabolt had mistreated and failed to take proper care of a horse.

"It's the worst case of neglect of an animal I've ever seen," Mrs. Smith said. "We sent a veterinarian to the animal's aid but the horse died before the doctor arrived."

Cops, Take, Lose, Then Find Slots

MULLENS (AP) — The battered remains of five slot machines stolen from headquarters of the Wyoming County State Police detachment have been found along the Cabin Creek road.

The machines, confiscated in a weekend raid on the Mullens American Legion Club, were stolen Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

Cpl. C. W. Andrick said an unidentified man had provided information which led to finding the machines scattered near a bridge, where an attempt apparently had been made to throw them in a creek.

The machines, officials said, apparently were battered open for the seven or eight hundred dollars worth of coins they were said to have contained.

The Recession Is Wearing Out

Students of the U. S. economy now have the situation pretty well sorted out. They see the recessionary trend as waning rapidly because of two factors.

Disposable personal income, which means spending power, is down only $4 billion. That is only 1 per cent less than the peak annual rate. Government payments have largely offset the payroll decline.

These payments include unemployment insurance, social security and veterans' benefits—the built-in anti-recession programs which had been expected to soften any business decline.

Maintenance of relatively high consumer purchasing power is a solid factor in helping business over the doldrums. Business was confronted by the necessity of liquidating excess inventories. While this is happening at a record rate, more goods are being consumed than produced.

Presently industry will be producing at the rate of consumption, and the upturn will be here.

Buyers will be back in the supply markets, factory production schedules will increase, and the unemployed will return to the assembly lines.

There is no threat to an increasing economic vigor except the normal mid-summer lull. Once that is past, there will be an upward movement of moderate proportions at least.

With rising population and new products to meet the increasing wants of the American people, the next period of prosperity should last well into the 1960s.

What Does It Cost?

Many, many years ago, when I was associated with the National Association of Manufacturers, some of the hired help got into a great discussion as to how to measure a standard of living. There had always been large talk on how high and superior the American standard of living is but how does anyone really know? What is the yardstick that can be universally applied?

So we worked it out on the basis of how many hours of labor does a man have to sell to buy a pound of butter, a loaf of bread, a glass of water, a pair of shoes, a shirt, a dress, etc. We found, after careful research, that not only was the American standard of living high but that, in comparison with many other countries, the cost of living, measured in terms of labor, was low.

Now along comes the AFL-CIO, Department of International Affairs, with a chart that brings such studies up-to-date. In fact, they do a more complete job because, in addition to showing what the situation is now, they make a comparison with 1938. The ultimate test of Communism, even from the standpoint of dialectical materialism, will not be how many nations the Kremlin will reduce to its will and power, but what happens to the people of those countries, what is done for their general welfare. For instance, in Albania, according to this AFL-CIO chart, in 1938 it cost a man 205 hours to buy a suit of clothes, but in 1957, it cost 513. Something obviously is wrong there. The hours of labor should have been reduced as the country moved from a revolutionary to a stabilized condition. If we take the United States as the norm, only because we live here, it takes a man 33 hours, 10 minutes of labor to buy a suit of clothes and in Soviet Russia, it takes 350 hours of work for the same purpose. When one realizes that 350 hours is nearly 44 working days of 8 hours each, it is an enormous price to pay for one suit of clothes.

Let us have a look at one pound of bread. In the United States, that costs a worker five minutes of labor and we complain about the high cost of living. In Soviet Russia, which used to be called the granary of the world, it takes 11 minutes of work to get that pound of bread. In Albania, 22 minutes; in Bulgaria, 23 minutes; in Poland, 20 minutes.

Mere figures do not explain what this means. In the Iron Curtain countries, bread is still the staff of life, the principal article of food in every household. Nobody there can say that if bread is too dear, let them use a cake mix. They have no cake mix and would not eat it.

This study, currently made, has enormous implications because how long can a people be inadequately fed and clothed and take the pabulum of Utopian promises as compensation? Of course, those who go on personally conducted tours do not see what the life of the people is in 8,500,000 square miles, nor could one in a life-time of exploration and research. Furthermore, unless one has been studying economic and social standards in these various countries since 1917, it is impossible to form a judgment.

The question that arises, then, is how authentic are the AFL-CIO figures? The chart states that the figures are based on the most authoritative sources, but the sources are not given. From the context of the printed matter, it would appear that the figures are taken from Soviet publications. It would have been better had the sources been published so that no question as to authenticity can arise. If we accept the data in the AFL-CIO chart, the conclusion must be reached that as regards certain essential articles of food and clothing, the standard of living in Iron Curtain countries continues to go down.

It would be interesting if the same type of examination were made for the 100 commodities most consumed in the United States. Let us take a stenographer as an example. What does she consume in the course of a year in the United States; what does a similarly employed girl, working identical hours, consume in Soviet Russia, Rumania and Red China? What a story that would tell!

The Clown Act

Microphone-Placing, Wiretapping Long Used In Washington Sleuthing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This writer, who for some years has specialized on getting the inside news from Cabinet meetings and smoke-filled rooms, has been the subject of considerable ribbing on having his ace sleuth caught in company with the ace sleuth of the Harris Congressional committee. The ribbing is justified.

Two wrongs don't make a right, but the mistake Baron Shacklette, the Harris committee's chief investigator, made was in "bugging" the room next to him in the Sheraton Carlton Hotel instead of using the Washington police.

The metropolitan police are not supposed to bug rooms or tap wires for either private individuals or Congressional committees. It is strictly against the rules. However, they do it just the same, as demonstrated by the operations of Police Lieut. Joseph Shimon when he spied on Howard Hughes, the west coast airplane manufacturer, and his executives for the benefit of Pan American Airways. Congressional testimony developed the fact that Lieut. Shimon not only directed eavesdropping on the Hughes entourage at two Washton hotels, but that Washington police tapped the telephone of the late Sen. Josiah Bailey of North Carolina, then Chairman of Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, who had the power to pass on important legislation affecting Pan American Airways.

After the Senate probe was all over, Lieut. Shimon went before a police review board to see whether he should be penalized. He was exonerated and given a new choice assignment.

That is how the nation's Capital has looked upon wiretapping and microphone-placing and similar undercover sleuthing in the past. It's not a happy state of affairs in the past. It's not a happy state of affairs in a democracy, and I have written various columns regarding it.

Shadowing Newsmen

It's become something of a habit lately for big businessmen who are under investigation and have plenty of money to spend, to hire detectives to probe Congressmen. Most Congressmen are just as clean as Ike's proverbial "hound's tooth," and many of them are a lot cleaner. But with even the cleanest, a smart investigator can sometimes dig up a skeleton which can hurt in a tough election battle. Shacklette, the committee's ex-investigator, was checking on this counter-espionage.

It's a sad travesty on life in the nation's Capital that few hotel rooms are 100 per cent safe if you want to discuss matters highly confidential. Nor are private offices. When you went into the office of former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, he usually pushed a secret button on his desk which turned on a recording machine. General Eisenhower, when commander of NATO, could push a little lever on his desk which recorded the conversation of visitors.

I have never placed a microphone in anyone's room in my life or tapped a telephone wire, and never shall. But when I don't want to let either government investigators or private gumshoes know what I'm talking about I move out of my office into the garden or talk in an automobile.

The New York Times recently revealed that newsmen were being shadowed by agents of the Eisenhower administration. This is true, but it's an old story. I was shadowed more under the Truman administration. The chief reasoning for the shadowing is to ascertain a newsman's sources.

This state of affairs was why Roger Robb was smart in hiring detective Lloyd Furr to look over the rooms of his clients for microphones. This is also why the claim of Miss Mildred Paperman that her papers were stolen does not make sense. Smart people don't leave important papers in hotel rooms for a weekend, and Robb is too smart to have his client leave any papers which were worth bothering about.

Vicuna Democrats

A lot of people have been asking what it was Goldfine's agents were discussing on that Sunday night when their room was bugged. Frankly, it was a long way from any earth-shaking plot.

It was a plan to make public various thank-you letters from governors who had received vicuna cloth from Goldfine via Governor Dwinell of New Hampshire during the Governors' Conference in 1955.

The Goldfine crew shuffled through the letters to pick the most embarrassing one and finally selected those of Governor Leader of Pennsylvania, Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan, and ex-Governor Lausche of Ohio, all Democrats.

There was some discussion over whether to withhold Lausche's letter because he had now been elected to the Senate, and was never considered a party-line Senator anyway.

"This is a Democratic-controlled committee," argued one Goldfiner, "and our purpose is to embarrass the Demcoarts."

Someone then proposed including at least one Republican and suggested releasing a letter from J. Bracken Lee, the ex-Governor of Utah, because, though a Republican, he was now defeated and pretty much out of politics. Apparently it was not realized that Lee is now preparing to run for the Senate.

The Bracken Lee idea, however, was ruled out. It was finally decided that Democrats only were to be embarrassed. So the letters of Governor Leader, who is running for the Senate from Pennsylvania, Governor Williams, who is running for an unprecedented sixth term in Michigan and is a presidential candidate, and finally ex-Governor, now Seantor, Lausche of Ohio, were selected.

In brief, the so-called conspirators laid an egg.

Reversal Of Little Rock Decision Being Demanded

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Representative Emanuel Celler, Democrat, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, has issued a statement demanding that the Department of Justice intervene as a "friend of the court" and try to get reversed the decision recently handed down at Little Rock. Federal Judge Harry Lemley granted a two-and-a-half-year delay in desegregation, as requested by the School Board. Mr. Celler says:

"It is imperative for the Department of Justice to intervene and assert the importance of the settled law of the school segregation case."

It is not the function, however, of the Department of Justice to intervene in every case when it is alleged the law is being violated by private litigants. Usually it intervenes only on the request of the court itself. Nor is there any such thing as "settled law" in the school segregation problem.

On the contrary, the law concerning delays in desegregation cases is far from "settled." A most informative article on this subject, which was compiled by the editors of the Harvard Law Review and presented in a recent issue, now takes on added significance. It treats exhaustively all the different kinds of delays that have occurred since the Supreme Court decided the desegregation case in 1954 known as "Brown vs. The Board of Education." Articles and "notes" in the Harvard Law Review are often quoted in Supreme Court decisions, and many of the editors of past years have been chosen to be "law clerks" to various Supreme Court justices.

The Harvard Law Review article on delays in desegregation cases refers to the factors of "community hostility" as follows:

"The courts, in reviewing local School Boards, have exhibited great diversity in according weight to the administrative factors enumerated in the Brown decree, and in the scope of review accorded the Boards' actions. The cause of this diversity appears to be the response of the courts and the School Boards to the factor of community hostility.

"Although this factor is not expressly considered in the Brown decree beyond the statement that 'disagreement' cannot alone prevent ultimate enforcement, since the court ordered retention of jurisdiction of the cases by the lower courts, it seems probable that in some instances the court contemplated a protracted period of transition.

"Some courts and commentators have found that the Brown decree forecloses consideration of actual or potential local hostility in determining the need for delay, and that only the enumerated elements of adminstrative difficulty may be weighed in determining the need for delay in plans for desegregation. On the other hand, several courts have placed direct reliance on hostile community attitudes in order to justify delay."

In one instance the U. S. Court of Appeals for the 8th Circuit affirmed a plan of desegregation which is not expected to be completed for seven years. The School Board's stated reasons for delay were the "size and complexity of the job and the need for planned new facilities whose creation should be awaited, the need in order to begin where fewer teachers and students are involved to desegregate by descending grades, and the value of gaining experience gradually to avoid 'mistakes.'."

Inasmuch as none of these difficulties, treated as administrative problems, appeared to the Harvard Law Review editors to present a reasonable basis for requiring a seven-year transitional period, the editors declared that it seemed to them, therefore, that "the court must have allowed some weight to be given to the factor of community hostility which is latent in the reasons given by the School Board."

The article points out that, where delay is likely to occur, the court as a condition of withholding an injunction ought to require the School Board to make a prompt and reasonable start, including the formulation of some plan by which the ultimate desegregation is to be achieved. The Harvard law editors added this comment:

"The conscientious School Board defendant can represent to the court a sober judgment of the limits of what is peaceably possible at a particular place and time. The court may find that recognition of the plaintiff's right requires greater speed, and disapprove the plan in whole or in part; but by refusal to consider hostility the court will cut itself off from a valuable source of relevant information."

None of this indicates that there is any such thing as "settled law" with reference to the enforcement of the desegregation decision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Some form of delay is almost certain to be upheld in the Little Rock case. The issue may turn on whether two-and-a-half years is too long and whether some modification might be made which would permit a review at the end of another twelve months. Plainly the School Board at Little Rock not only made an effort to conform to the Supreme Court decision, but actually did try, by the admission of nine Negro students, to develop an integration plan When the same School Board which made this effort now comes into court and says it needs more time, it would be surprising indeed if any of the higher courts denied the School Board the right to exercise some discretion in the timing of its plans for enforcing the Supreme Court's decree.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

ENCINO, Calif. — Jack Webb and his beautiful bride have gone off to Palm Springs for a honeymoon. They left their little cottage here to Gayle and to me. It is a dream place, as beautiful as a ten-karat diamond set in a cluster of emeralds. The swimming pool is in the back and is shaped like a busted banjo.

Mr. W. is going to sell it for $200,000.

Gayle wishes we could buy it. I said I wished that we could buy one of the bathrooms. At least one of the towels. "Ha!" Gayle said. "You have money you haven't even folded." She is fresh and the Sisters at Star of the Sea Academy will, I hope, drill a little more respect into her bony skull.

The house sets on three acres. It is easy to find. All one does is drive like a maniac up Sunset Boulevard out of Hollywood to Coldwater Canyon, turn right, pass Betty Grable's new house on the left, tear through the canyons of the Santa Monica mountains until Earl Felton's fort is hard a-port, then down to San Fernando Valley, turn north on Ventura Boulevard, fight the other madmen-on-wheels, turn right on Encino Avenue and you will see a big white electric gate on your left.

That's it. That's us. There is a sweep of lawn as in Gone With the Wind, and a one-story house which rambles from left to right all the way across the property. There are curving driveways, little landing strip lights on the edge of the grass, coach lights at the entrance, garages in back, a big guest house and bar, a tennis court, swimming pool, diving board, underwater lights, a servant's house, a small farm, an assortment of fruit trees, including real oranges, and no people.

Originally, it was built by William Bendix. Then, unless I'm mistaken, it was bought by Marie McDonald and Harry Karl. Her dressing room is about the size of the Paramount lobby. After that, Jack Webb and, I think, Julie London, bought it. The woman's shoe rack in one closet will hold 87 pairs of shoes without scuffing.

When Webb got the house, he had John Sturdevant decorate it. All the curtains are made of Irish handkerchief linen. The draw drapes operate on electric impulse. Sturdevant, one of the great art directors, had George Montgomery carve the furniture. It is all hard wood, all early American. The doors are all Dutch, with big brass hinges. The break fronts show old colored plates.

Mr. Jackie Gleason was a guest here last spring. He took one look at the size of the bad in the master bedroom, phoned Wilma, the maid, and said: "Honey, bring a few beers into the baseball diamond." Tall hedges screen the estate from the rest of the world.

Gayle is lost. From her bedroom, which is equipped with two baths, she yells to me in my bedroom, but I cannot hear her. So she picks up her phone, dials 4, and my phone rings. "Hey, pops," she says, "I'm going swimming. How about it?"

"Go ahead," I say. "Just leave your telephone extension with the maid." There is a little silence. "How about us living out here?"

"Nothing doing. Too hot at Christmas time."

"I know. You go swimming and I'll see you later."

The Campaign for California is on. "I've been thinking," Gayle says, "that our house in Sea Bright could be dropped inside of Mr. Webb's guest house." I nod. "That's the good girl," I say. "Keep thinking Sea Bright because that's where you're going to live."

"What a cheapskate," she mumbles. "This place is only $200,000."

"Do you know how much money that is?"

"Well — not exactly."

"You know that quarter spending money you get?"

"Sure daddyo. And that reminds me, you owe me for last week."

"It would require 800,000 weeks of spending money for you to buy this place."

Our Daily Food Gets Safe Chemical Additives

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Contrary to some ideas that have been circulated, reliable food processors have not reduced the nutritional quality of our foods or created inferior products through the use of chemical additives. Actually, the quality and sanitary characteristics of our foods have been improving. Likewise, there is no evidence that consumption of foods resulting from the use of the new chemicals in crop production, or in the processing of foods, has created mysterious disease epidemics or endangered the health of the people."

This statement by the Food Protection committee of the National Research council appeared in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Dietetic Association. It was used by Dr. H. W. Schultz to quell many misleading claims made by those who think the public is being poisoned by modern food technology.

The word "chemical" has a harmful or undesirable connotation to some individuals. This has led to misconceptions and alarming statements about the hazards of adding such substances to foods. Many persons do not realize that food itself is a chemical or a combination of chemicals. The same can be said of vitamins, minerals, flavors, and the natural coloring matter of foods.

Various chemicals are added during the production, processing, and storing of almost everything we eat. They help to protect growing crops against insects and plant diseases; to preserve edibles; and to improve the nutritional value, eye appeal, texture, and flavor. Virtually the only objection stems from the use of pesticides that might remain in the foods when they reach the consumer. Some of these chemicals are essential for many reasons but they need not be hazardous.

Competent experts are retained to judge the safety of a product before it is marketed. According to Dr. Schultz, "No reputable food manufacturer will add a chemical to food when a hazard to public health is known to him."

This does not mean that all chemicals are safe and that all manufacturers have the good of the public at heart. The Food Protection committee of the National Research council has been following the process closely in the interest of public welfare.

NEW INFECTIONS

J. J. S. writes: Between the ages of 13 and 30 I had three attacks of rheumatic fever. Is it possible this infection was active in my system during those years?

REPLY

Recurrences are common in rheumatic fever but each attack is preceded by a respiratory ailment of streptococcal origin. Further attacks are discouraged by avoiding strep infections or by the routine use of a sulfonamide or an antibiotic. The moment a throat infection occurs it should receive immediate treatment.

PRESSURE HAZARDS

W. Z. writes: Why is high blood pressure dangerous?

REPLY

It is dangerous when it leads to enlargement of the heart and causes premature hardening of the arteries. It is the latter that is responsible for heart attacks, strokes or uremia.

MUSCLES IN CROSS-EYE

Mrs. F. writes: Is cross-eye in a child due to paralysis of the eye muscle?

REPLY

It could be but muscle weakness is a more common cause.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Revived: the story of the little man homeward bound from a festive office party. He consulted his watch. It was 7 p. m.! From the taxi window, he next spotted a clock outside a jewelry store. It registered 6:55. Then he asked a driver for the time. "The time," was the answer, "is exactly 6:50."

"Turn around fast," implored the little man. "I'm going in the wrong direction!"

Texas, of course, is the largest state in the union, but how many of you can name the following five in their proper order? Your list made? Well, here they are: California, Montana, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada.

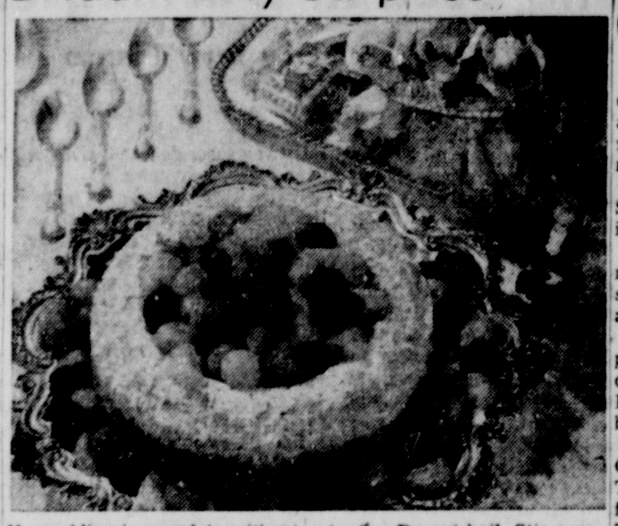
Wishing Ring Of Rice Bridal Party Surprise



No wedding is complete without showering rice on the bride and groom. Why not bring rice into the picture early in the engagement? Serve a colorful and luscious fruit dessert ring at the bridal parties. Decorate with tinted uncooked rice. Give guests packages of the rice as a favor.

INGREDIENTS:

2¼ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup uncooked white rice
3½ cups milk
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¾ cup beet or cane sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 almonds
½ cup drained raspberries, mashed
Red and green food coloring
Mint flavoring
½ cup whipping cream
5 cups chilled fruit, drained (strawberries, maraschino cherries, mandarin oranges, dark sweet cherries, Royal Ann cherries, raspberries)

METHOD: Put 2 cups of water, salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil. Turn heat down. Cover. Simmer 14 minutes. Add 2½ cups of the milk. Cover. Cook over low heat until the milk is absorbed, about 45 minutes. Do not boil. Stir occasionally.

Pour the ¼ cup water over gelatin. When water is absorbed, add remaining 1 cup of milk. Heat very slowly to dissolve gelatin. Stir into the cooked rice. Add sugar, vanilla and almonds. Cool slightly. While warm, lift out slightly more than half of mixture and mix with raspberries. Add red food coloring, if desired.

To rest of rice add mint flavoring to taste. Tint green. Make slightly darker than desired. Cool. Cover and chill both mixtures in refrigerator. When rice is cold, whip cream until stiff. Fold into green rice. Spread in a well-greased ring mold holding 6 cups. Top with raspberry rice. Cover and chill.

Two hours before serving, run a knife around all edges. Dip mold in hot water. Place a large serving platter over mold. Invert. Cover and chill. Or unmold on small plate. To serve, slip to serving platter. Serve with the fruit in and around the ring. Twelve servings.

TO TINT RICE: For each pound of rice, slowly stir in 2 tablespoons colored water. Spread out to dry.

Veal Tarragon

Tarragon, a favorite salad herb, is an ideal flavoring agent for veal. It takes only a pinch of the herb to flavor a couple of pounds of the meat.

Veal Tarragon

2 pounds veal round steak, cut 1-inch thick
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon paprika
2 tablespoons lard
3 medium onions, sliced
½ teaspoon tarragon
1 cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar

Cut veal in serving-size pieces. Combine flour, salt, pepper, and paprika; rub into cut surfaces of veal. Brown meat in hot fat; add onions and brown thoroughly. Sprinkle in tarragon; add water and vinegar. Cook, covered, over low heat until tender, about 1 hour. 6 servings.

Printed oilcloth makes up well into window shades that are unique and washable.

Orange Sauce Over Cured Pork

New and interesting ideas concerning foods, menus or recipes are usually welcomed or considered a refreshing change by most homemakers.

Canadian-Style Bacon-Orange Sauce can turn a colorless meal into a palette of color.

It might interest many homemakers to know that Canadian-style bacon is the boneless cured and smoked back strip of loin.

For convenience and variety purposes, Canadian-style bacon can be roasted if in one piece. If sliced, it may be broiled, pan-broiled, or panfried.

In this recipe, 12 slices of Canadian-style bacon are used. They act as a base and topper for an orange and onion slice. The recipe serves 6.

12 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut ¼ inch thick
6 thin onion slices
6 orange slices, rind removed
2 teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup orange juice
1 orange, cut in sections
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Arrange 6 slices Canadian-style bacon in a greased shallow 1½-quart baking dish. Top each slice with an onion slice, an orange slice and another slice of Canadian-style bacon. Bake in a slow oven (300°F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. Mix together sugar and cornstarch. Add orange juice and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Stir in orange sections and lemon rind. Serve sauce over Canadian-style bacon. Yield: 6 servings.

Pink Party Cake Needs Little Work

A good, adaptable party cake recipe which does not require a lot of fancy work is mighty nice to have on hand, especially if you have youngsters with their umpteen reasons for giving parties.

Here is such a cake, thoroughly children-tested which owes its festive air to the simple device of color. By tinting half the batter with any of the pure food colorings in your color kit, you can have a marbleized surprise cake keyed to the party's color scheme, such as the guest of honor's favorite hue. Matching frosting can be elaborate or lusciously simple as shown here, with easy-to-make leaves (leaf pastry tube) centering the candleholders and corcling the cake base.

The cake's flavor is a delicious blend of pure vanilla and almond extracts. Because children love to have their cake and eat it too (as who doesn't?) the recipe allows for a 9" cake and 9-12 take-home cupcakes, each frosted with a guest's name and used as place cards. Pretty ribbons can tink them to the cake.

Pink Party Cake

½ cup butter
½ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
2¾ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon pure almond extract
6 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon red food coloring

Cream butter and shortening; add sugar gradually. Sift flour with baking powder and salt three times. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk; beat after each addition. Blend in pure vanilla and almond extracts. Beat egg whites until stiff but still glossy; gently fold into batter. Spoon half of batter into 2 greased 9" layer cake pans and into cupcake pans. Blend coloring to remaining batter with folding motion and alternate spoonsful in cake and cupcake pans. Run spatula once through batter to give marbleized effect. Bake in a 350° oven about 35 minutes. Cool. Frost with pink boiled frosting.

Canned Meats Can Ease Summertime Cooking

Canned meats are a summer treat to Mom because they're easy to prepare; to the family, because they're so tasty. All you need is a little imagination, a can opener, and a cabinet of food supplies (including canned meats).

The next time you shop for food, glance at the canned meat section. There are dozens and dozens of canned meat products. Each can of meat is as protein, vitamin and mineral-rich as fresh meat. For your convenience, the label on the can describes its contents and approximate number of servings.

Three popular canned meats are deviled ham, chili, and luncheon meat. The small can of deviled ham holds a delicious meat blend—it's made of whole ham finely ground and blended with spices. That hearty chili mixture is a spicy blend of chopped meat with a zippy tomato sauce, packed with or without beans. While some canned luncheon meat is all beef or ham, usually the meat is chopped pork shoulder with perhaps some beef, veal, or ham.

Here are three tempting summer recipes using the above canned meats. They can be the meat highlight of a formal brunch, a hearty supper, or an outdoor meal.

Delightfully different, delightfully delicious is the combination of nippy deviled ham, pineapple, and a creamy curry mixture. These deviled ham delights are just the right size and taste combination for a brunch or luncheon.

Deviled Ham Delights

- 2 cans (3¼ ounces, each) deviled ham
- 3 large English muffins, cut in half
- 6 slices canned pineapple
- 1½ tablespoons brown sugar
- 1½ tablespoons butter or margarine
- ¼ teaspoon curry powder

Spread deviled ham over muffin halves; top each half with a slice of pineapple. Mix sugar, butter, and curry powder. Spread a thin layer of this mixture on each pineapple slice. Place on broiler rack about 2 inches from heat source. Broil 5 minutes. 6 servings.

This meat entree is easy to prepare. Just open a can of chili, prepare a corn bread mix, and you have:

Chili Shortbread

- 2 cans (16 ounces, each) chili con carne with beans
- 6 squares hot corn bread (3-inch squares)

Place chili in sauce pan and cook over low heat until piping hot. Spoon chili over corn bread square. 6 servings.

Sweet-Sour Meat Kebabs

- 1 can luncheon meat
- 1 large green pepper cut into 1-inch chunks
- 6 small whole cooked onions
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons catsup
- 1 tablespoon water
- ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
- 6 frankfurter buns

Cut meat into 1-inch cubes (makes 18 cubes). Alternate meat, green pepper, and onions on skewers, using per skewer, 3 meat cubes, 1 onion, and several green pepper chunks. Place skewers in shallow pan; mix brown sugar, vinegar, catsup, water, and ground cloves, and pour sauce over skewers. Broil 3 inches from heat about 4 minutes, turning once. Remove from skewers and serve on frankfurter buns; spoon on sauce from pan. 6 servings.

Apple Custard

- 1 cup canned apple slices, drained
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1½ cups hot milk
- Nutmeg

Arrange apples in bottom of four custard cups. Combine sugar, salt, and eggs. Add milk slowly. Pour over apples, sprinkle with nutmeg.

Set cups in a pan of hot water. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until custard is set.

4 servings. Over ⅓ cup milk per serving.

Spanish Canape Spread

Mash to a paste 1 can (4-½ oz.) shrimp. Add 2 tablespoons crushed onion (put through garlic press), ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt. Blend in 2 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, 1 teaspoon garlic-flavored wine vinegar, and 1 tablespoon mayonnaise. Makes 1 cup. Excellent as a spread on crackers or wafers or as a thick dip for corn crisps.

Sweetpotato Custard

- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1¾ cups milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2½ cups finely shredded raw sweet potato (shred just before using)
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Add sugar, salt, nutmeg, orange rind, and milk to the eggs. Mix thoroughly. Add sweetpotato and fat.

Pour into greased custard cups and set in a pan of hot water. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for about 30 minutes or until set.

6 servings. Over ¼ cup milk per serving.

Human beings can learn to recognize at least 10 thousand distinct odors, but are quite poor at telling a strong odor from a slightly weaker one of the same kind.

Barbecued Beef Dishes Easy To Fix

It's easy to have delicious barbecued food! With this recipe no special equipment is necessary and the sauce is made with just two ingredients plus water! Here is an economical meat dish as well as a last minute one.

Rice is used to stretch the beef and make six generous-sized meat loaves from one pound of beef! The loaves are browned then simmered in a superb barbecue sauce. There's plenty of this sauce so each individual loaf is succulent and good when it's eaten.

MENU

Barbecued Beef Loaves
Buttered Sweet Corn
Tossed Vegetable Salad
Favorite Bread
Sliced Peaches Cake

Ingredients:

- 1⅓ cups water
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅔ cup uncooked white rice
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 teaspoons steak sauce
- Flour
- 3 tablespoons cooking fat
- ½ cup chopped onions
- 1½ cups tomato ketchup
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 cups water

Method: Put the 1⅓ cups water, salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid.

Simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

After the rice cooks, stir in the beef, egg and steak sauce. Chill the mixture. Form into 6 small meat loaves using a liberal ½ cup mixture for each loaf. Roll each loaf in flour.

Melt the cooking fat in a large skillet. Add the meat loaves and brown on all sides. Add the onions. Cook several minutes. Arrange the loaves over the onions. Add the ketchup, Worcestershire sauce and water. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until the onions are tender.

This recipe makes 6 servings.

Delicious Franks

Slit a frankfurter; stuff it with a mixture of catsup, chopped olives and oregano; wrap in cheese pastry and bake it. The result is frank-cheese delight — wonderful for serving at a casual supper or as a party snack.

Frank-Cheese Delight

- 10 frankfurters (about 1 pound)
- ½ cup catsup
- ¼ cup catsup
- ¼ cup minced black olives
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup lard
- ⅓ cup grated cheese
- ⅓ cup cold water

Slit each frankfurter lengthwise, but do not cut through. Fill opening with a mixture of catsup, olives, and oregano. Sift flour and salt; add lard and cut into flour until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add cheese and mix lightly. Add water, sprinkling it over one portion of the dough at a time and blending in gently with a fork. Shape into a ball; divide into two parts. Roll each part in a rectangle ⅛ inch thick. Cut each part into five rectangles large enough to enclose a frankfurter. Place frank on a section of dough and fold ends over frank; bring sides of dough together; and pinch pastry together at top. Bake on a greased baking sheet at 425° F. 20 minutes. Serve immediately 5 servings.

Freezer To Frying Pan

Cook frozen beef without thawing, say nutritionists, but the meat will require longer cooking time. They recommend adding 15 to 20 minutes per pound to the cooking time.

Rays of red light have the longest wave length of the colors in the visible spectrum.

...and it's churned fresh daily in the butter country source of the world's sweetest cream

Spicy Cranberries

- 4 cups (1-lb.) fresh cranberries ground
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ cup orange juice
- 1 cup raisins
- 2 cups brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- ½ cup black walnuts, chopped

Mix all ingredients except black walnuts. Place in refrigerator an hour or more for flavors to blend. Add black walnuts to relish just before serving. Makes 3 cups.

New York Matchmaker Is Indicted In Boxing Scandal

Walman Is Named In Indictment As Co-Conspirator

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing matchmaker Jimmy White Thursday was indicted and Manager Herman (Hymie the Mink) Wallman was linked with another alleged fix attempt in the spreading boxing scandal.

White, a 51-year-old New Yorker, was indicted by a New York grand jury on charges of conspiracy in trying to fix the Virgil Akins-Isaac Logart fight, and acting as an undercover manager for Logart, a Cuban.

He pleaded innocent and was released in $2,500 bail.

Wallman was named in the indictment as a co-conspirator but not as a co-defendant.

The furrier-manager, who has been suspended by the state athletic commission, also had been named as a co-conspirator in another indictment which the grand jury returned last week against boxing Judge Bert Grant. Grant has been accused of accepting $400 in bribes to influence his decisions in fights involving Wallman's boxers.

Akins, far behind, rallied to knock out Logart in the sixth round of their welterweight tournament elimination bout in Madison Square Garden March 21. Akins, of St. Louis, then knocked out Vince Martinez in the fourth round at St. Louis June 6 to win the vacant welterweight title.

Immediately after the Akins-Logart fight, the DA's office served more than a dozen subpoenas to fight figures, including Akins and Martinez, their managers, and White, at the garden.

BEAUTY IS INTERNATIONAL—Faye Hasenauer (left) can hardly believe the news that judges at Palisades Park, N.J., have selected her Miss New Jersey over 300 other beauties. The title will put her in the running for Miss United States, and if she wins that crown, she will compete in the Miss Universe Pageant. At right, Arminda Perez Gonzales, 24, figures in the running as she is named Miss Cuba in competition in Havana.

Sifford, Burke Lead Insurance Open Tourney

Shoot Sub-Par 63s In Opening Round

WHETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP)—Charles Sifford of Philadelphia and Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., shot a pair of 8 under par 63s Thursday to tie for the first round lead in the annual $25,000 Insurance City Open Golf Tournament.

A total of 54 players broke par and 15 others equalled regulation figures over the 6,551-yard par 71 course.

This exhibition of hot shooting broke the Professional Golfers' Anns. record for the year set last week in the Rubber City Open at Akron, Ohio. On that occasion 45 players broke par and six equalled.

Bracketed in a four-way tie for third place with scores of 65 were Doug Ford, Paradise, Fla., Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.; George Bayer, San Gabriel, Calif., and Jim Ferrie, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Al Balding of Markham, Ont., Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., the Masters champion and Gary Player, of Johannesburg, South Africa, had 66s.

Dr. Ted Lenczyk of Newington, former Connecticut Open champion, led the amateur contingent with a four under par 67.

Williams Received "Mystic Messages"

LONDON (AP)—Cleveland Williams, American heavyweight from Houston, Tex., who claims to receive mystic messages "from above," was barred from British boxing rings Thursday.

The British Boxing Board of Control said it had no sympathy with Williams' claim to have received a spiritual message instructing him not to go through with a July 2 fight against Dick Richardson of Wales.

"Naturally we don't want to disturb any good will existing between us and the New York State Athletic Commission," said Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British board. "It is also true that Williams might have a religious or superstitious streak."

"But a promoter who has sold nearly 12,000 tickets cannot be subject to the whim of a boxer. The sanctity of contracts must be upheld."

Williams flew home Saturday after his fight had been postponed a week. Pittsburgh's Bob Baker stepped in as a last minute substitute and was outpointed by Richardson at Porthcawl, Wales, Thursday night.

Sikes Is Conqueror In Third Round, 5-4

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Junie Buxbaum, taking a week's vacation from his Memphis auto salesman job to play golf, Thursday ousted Bob Faulkenberry 4 and 2 to gain the National Public Links Golf semifinals.

The 5 feet 6½ inch Memphis mite, winner of the meet in 1956, won four consecutive holes on the back nine in chopping down the erratic Oklahoma City display advertising salesman.

Sikes Beats Essig

The biggest upset of the meet came in the third round, however, when Dan Sikes, 27, of Jacksonville, Fla., a law student, overwhelmed the defending champion and medalist, 19-year old Don Essig of Indianapolis, 5 and 4. Sikes crushed Essig by holding out a 15-yard wedge blast from the heavy rought for an eagle 3 on the 541 yard ninth hole.

Sikes was 4 under par for his day's work of 31 holes.

Bob Ludlow, 220-pound Indianapolis junior high school physical education instructor, gained the 36-hole semifinals by downing Ron Luceti, San Francisco dental student, 2 and 1. Ludlow, former golf star for Butler University, smashes Charles Kline of Roswell, N.M., 4-3 in the morning.

Buxbaum, who says he plays par on the card and not his opponent defeated Warren Strout of Speedway, Ind., in the morning round 3 and 2 before taking care of Faulkenberry with 2-under-par shooting for the 16 holes needed.

Buxbaum, who came up through the caddy ranks and was a golf pro five years before being reinstated in the simon pure ranks in 1953, won four straight holes beginning with the 11th with three pars and a 30-foot birdie deuce putt. Faulkenberry folded as he missed greens and wandered into traps.

Other Semi-Finalists

Also moving into Friday's 36 hole semifinals was the 37-year-old Portland, Ore., stevedore, Bob Patterson. Patterson disposed of young Bob Kletcke of Chicago in the morning 19 holes, then took on heavily favored Harry Mussatto, muscular golf coach at western Illinois University in Macomb. Patterson polished him off 4 and 3, shaving par by 3 strokes.

GREAT RELAY TEAM BREAKS UP—In three seasons this quartet won 27 of 30 races at 440 yards and eight of nine at 880 yards. The Abilene Christian College runners from Texas are, left to right, Bobby Morrow, James Segrest, Bill Woodhouse and Waymond Griggs. Only Woodhouse will be back next spring.

Sports Car Club Decides To Drop Hill Climb Plans

Western Maryland Club Cancels Event Set For Next Month

There will be no sports car hill climb on Breakneck Road this year after all, it was learned here last night.

Four weeks ago, the Western Maryland Sports Car Club made tentative arrangements to stage the climb east of Cumberland on Sunday, August 10. At that time, the Central Pennsylvania Sports Car Club of Altoona offered to provide technical direction for the climb. The local club was to have assisted in obtaining entries. Proceeds were to have benefited the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company.

Since that tentative decision of June 13, several impediments have been placed in the path of the climb promoters, with the resulting cancellation for 1958.

One difficulty was the high insurance rate for cars participating in the climb. Another was the relatively short time for the Flintstone firemen to obtain advertisements for the climb program.

Finally, it was decided to cancel plans for a 1958 climb and to begin promoting the 1959 hill climb early next spring. There were sports car hill climbs here in 1955 and 1956.

The Western Maryland Sports Car Club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Sports Car Motor Sales, McMullen Highway. A sports car film will be shown.

Lonaconing Cops Pony Loop Game

LONACONING, July 10 — Lonaconing defeated Mt. Savage in a Bi-State Pony Baseball League game here today by the score of 6-4.

The big blow of the game was a three-run homer by Roger Wilson of Lonaconing in the fifth inning. Al Cesnick banged a two-bagger for the winners.

George, who relieved Miller in the fourth inning, was credited with the victory.

Thomas Belts Pair, Ups HR Total To 24

CHICAGO (AP) — Pittsburgh rallied for five runs in the ninth inning Thursday but the Pirates dropped an 8-7 decision to the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. Rain delayed play for 16 minutes in the ninth inning and forced postponement of the second contest.

Gallant Man Will Oppose Small Field

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Gallant Man and four other stakes runners Thursday were entered in the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday, making it the smallest field in the history of the handicap.

Named to go against Gallant Man, Ralph Lowe's great little 4-year-old English-bred bay, were the Elobee Farm's Eddie Schmidt, N. S. McCarthy's Irish colt, Seaneen, Mystic Eye from the O. Enterprises Stable and Swirling Abbey owned by Tom Ross and Phil Klipstein.

Entries for the mile and one-quarter feature, fixture of the Hollywood Park meeting, were taken two days ahead of the usual one-day period.

War Trouble Pays $19.40

Favored Encore Is 7th At Monmouth

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 10 (AP)—War Trouble, an 8-1 chance, sped to a two and a half length triumph over the fast closing St. Amour 2nd in the New Jersey Senate Purse today at Monmouth Park.

The attendance was 19,665.

Winning his second of four starts this season, the 4-year-old Mr. Trouble colt paid $19.40, $9.40 and $5.40 across-the-board. With W. M. Cook making up most of his 121 pound impost, the colt owned by Mrs. C. White ran the 6 furlongs in 1.11 1/5 over a "good" track.

Nan's Mink, an early factor along with Sand Boy and Encore, the 19-10 favorite which ran last in the field of seven, was third. St. Amour 2nd returned $7.60 and $4.80 and Nan's Mink was $4.40 for show.

Miss Zeno ($19.40) winner of the first, ridden by George Gibb, combined with Foiled Attack ($13.00), victress of the second, piloted by Larry Gilligan, formed the $104.40 daily double.

Howard Grant, the nation's second leading rider as of June 30, celebrated his return to competition by riding Navy Brass ($12.80) to a victory in the third race. Grant had been set down for 15 days by the stewards for careless riding.

Hurricane Jackson's Retirement Ordered By New York Group

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission Thursday ordered the retirement from boxing of heavyweight Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson on the recommendation of its medical advisory board.

Jackson had been barred from the ring by the National Boxing Assn. last November on the grounds that he was in danger of serious physical injury if he should continue.

Jackson, a wild swinging puncher with almost no defense, staged a sensational rise in 1954 to become a leading heavyweight contender. He fought champion Floyd Patterson in a title bout last July and was stopped in the tenth round after taking a bad beating.

Baltimore And Yankees Make Sweep Of Doubleheaders

New Yorkers Beat Indians, 7-4 And 4-3

Kucks And Shantz Win; Ryne Duren Stars In Relief

NEW YORK (AP)—Woody Held played Jerry Lumpe's pinch-single into a two-run double in the eighth that gave New York a 4-3 victory over Cleveland Thursday night for a day-night doubleheader sweep. The Yankees won the opener 7-4 with Elston Howard driving in three runs.

The Yankees, blanked on five hits by rookie Gary Bell for seven innings, busted loose for all four in the nightcap eighth, then breezed in as fire-balling Ryne Duren made his second mopup of the day.

Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle singled with one out in the eighth. McDougald scored on a passed ball and Mantle scooted home on a single by Yogi Berra that chased Bell.

Hoyt Wilhelm, who wild pitched a run home in the opener, struck out Bill Skowron, but then walked Siebern. Lumpe followed with his hit to left, which Held failed to cut off.

The Yankees, who hadn't won any of their previous six home games, got going in the opener when Howard's fourth inning triple scored two runs. Winning reliever Johnny Kucks then singled Howard home for a 3-2 lead that handed Jim "Mudcat" Grant a 6-7 record.

Yanks Trim Dapper Red Sox, 10 To 4; Braves, Giants Win

The Yankees upset the first place Red Sox, 10-4, at Post Field, and the Giants nosed out the Cardinals, 5-4, at Penn Avenue Field, in games played yesterday in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan League.

Tim Wallace limited the Red Sox to seven well spaced hits as the Yankees spilled the front runners. Gary Lueck, Bob Helmick, Jim Hudson, Wallace and Tom Lueck collected two hits each for the Yankees. The 10-hit barrage included circuit belts by Tom Lueck and Wallace. Robertson and Willis shared four of the seven blows.

A four-run explosion in the fifth inning enabled the Giants to come from behind to whip the Cardinals.

Bill Dean went the route for the Giants and fanned six while Gary Morgan, Cardinals' hurler, whiffed eleven. Young banged a double and single for the Giants while Farrell blasted a homer and double, Morgan a double and single and Rice two singles for the Cards.

In a Dan Division game at Penn Avenue Field, Gary Shroyer hurled the Braves to an 8-1 decision over the Athletics. Shroyer held the A's to four singles while his mates nicked Leasure and Hedrick for 11 safeties, including three hits by Gus Cook and a two-bagger by McFarland. Scores:

Cresaptown's front-running Eagles edged Tri-State Memorial by the score of 7-6 yesterday to cling to its slim lead in the Pen-Mar Little League while the second place Barrelville nine was belting Ellerslie to the tune of 15-2.

In the third game of the day the LaVale Maroons topped the LaVale Orioles by the score of 6-5.

Terry Wendt, who replaced Kemp on the mound for the Eagles in the third inning, struck out an even dozen and got credit for his 6th straight win of the season. Tri-State was limited to four hits while the Eagles racked up total of 14. Wendt, Jack Hillsland and Phil Fradiska collected a trio of bingles for the league leaders.

Don Engle turned in a two-hit performance in Barrelville's triumph over Ellerslie. It was the fifth win in a row for Engle who aided his cause at the plate with a homer and single. Barb, Barth, Loar and Tressler also collected two hits. Tom Conner homered and Ricky Connor blasted a triple for Ellerslie.

The LaVale Orioles suffered their 15th straight loss in bowing to the Maroons as Pittman and Rod Hinkle, his successor, collaborated to hurl a no-hitter. Pittman issued 11 bases on balls and was replaced by Hinkle in the 4th inning. The latter got credit for the win.

Boston Routs Chicago, 11-2

Jackie Jensen Hits Grand Slam Homer

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Jensen, the Boston strong boy, belted a grand slam homer in an 11-2 Red Sox victory over Chicago Thursday night. The blow enabled Jensen to bolster his lead in two American League batting departments as he stretched his hitting streak to 16 consecutive games.

The grand slam, seventh of Jensen's career and second this season, boosted his homer total for the year to 25 and his runs-batted-in figure to 72. He tops the AL in both categories.

Barton Grabs Lead, 'Coney Tops Midland

Westernport Wins Over Finzel, 2-1

Barton's Braves forged ahead in the Twilight Baseball League race yesterday by beating Zihlman in a 12-11 slugfest at Barton while Midland was being upset by Lonaconing in a 4-2 battle at Midland.

In other games, Westernport nosed out Finzel, 2-1, and Cumberland clobbered Wright's Crossing, 11-0, on a two-hitter tossed by Russ Miller.

Woody Symons' double and Ellis Fazenbaker's single scored the run that gave Barton a last inning decision over Zihlman. Billy "Gas House" Johnson, who relieved Jim Wilson in the 6th, received credit for the win, his sixth straight of the campaign.

Tommy Warnick and Woody Symons of Barton and Downton and Deffenbaugh of Zihlman led the hitters with three safeties each.

Carl Donald hurled a three-hitter as Lonaconing turned back Midland. 'Coney coupled three errors with a hit for three runs to sew up the decision in the second frame.

Champ Spiker and Rodney Johnson rapped doubles for 'Coney and Ed Triple slammed a triple for Midland.

Dave Marple was returned the victor over Ronnie Rice in a slab duel as Westernport edged Finzel and tied Midland for the runner-up spot. Rice collected the three hits credited to Finzel. Dick Niland, Alex Ambrose and Marple obtained Westernport's three bingles.

Russ Miller fanned eight in his two-hit performance for Cumberland against Wright's Crossing. The winners executed six double plays. Donnie Lewis hit three hits and Jesse Markley and Paul Stickley two each for the victors. McGowan and Wilson got the losing team's hits. Scores:

Roberts Beats Cardinals, 13-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Poor St. Louis Cardinal pitching Thursday night gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 13-3 victory and sent the Phils into third place, where the Red Birds were before the game.

It was the Phils' eighth victory in their past nine games, and they achieved it with 13 hits and 10 walks off Cardinal pitching.

Robin Roberts was the Phillie winner, for his seventh victory. He has lost eight. Sal Maglie was the Cardinal starter and loser. Roberts' worries ended in the fourth inning, when the Phils tacked a five-run rally on Maglie with only three hits.

Los Angeles Park Is 3rd In Homers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After half a season, the Los Angeles Coliseum ranks only third among National League parks in home run yield.

This falls somewhat short of bearing out the forecasts of preseason prophets, who said balls would be flying out of the place so fast it would look as if somebody left the door open on a popcorn machine.

However, the screen, standing 251 feet from home plate at the foul line, actually has done a rotten job of intercepting homers. It's true that fewer have been hit here than at Wrigley Field in Chicago and Seals Stadium at San Francisco. But about 90 per cent of the Coliseum homers have flown over that artificial barrier that extends 140 feet along the left-field wall.

And it would seem safe to conclude that only the spacious dimensions of center and right field have saved the Coliseum from becoming a Utopian hunting ground for seekers of souvenir baseballs.

Through the 37 games played here before the All-Star break, the Dodgers hit 36 home runs and the opposition 51. The total of 87 was slightly lower than that of Wrigley Field (94) and Seals Stadium (92), but considerably greater than that of most of the parks in the league.

Exploding for five runs in the ninth inning, the V.F.W. defeated Pittsburgh Plate Glass by the score of 8-3 yesterday at Stitcher Field and retained their lead of 1½ games in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The mound duel between "Pete" Elliott and Bill Thompson came to a conclusion in the second overtime stanza when the Vets coupled three passes with four hits for five tallies.

After walks to Elliott and Reuschel and Ted Durbin's single loaded the bases, Thompson forced over the tie-breaking run by passing Dean. Vern Penner then singled in two tallies and Ronnie Cage and "Bub" Porter hit safely to drive in two more runs.

The win was the 6th without a loss for Elliott, who tossed a 5-hitter.

Cage hit a two-run homer and single, Penner collected a double and single and Porter and Reuschel had two safeties each for the Vets. Stevenson rapped a double for the Glassmen.

The Elks scored three runs in the first inning and edged the Ritter A. C., by the score of 3-2 at East Side Field. The losers made it a close one by chasing over two tallies in the final frame.

In the opening frame, "Pooch" Orndorff walked and Dick Klavuhn walloped a home run. After Bob Pence singled, Ted Rowan blasted a triple for the third run of the inning.

Roy Manges and Ted Rowan had two hits each for the Elks and "Whip" Kreitzburg excelled behind the plate.

Ritter's scored two runs in the final stanza on hits by Martin, Morgan and Ritter but Leo Rhodes was cut down at the plate as he tried to score the tying run.

Martin accounted for three of Ritter's eight hits.

The Knights of Columbus handed Celanese its 15th consecutive defeat at Celanese Field by the score of 6-2.

After the Silkmen had taken a 2-0 lead in the second inning, the Caseys scored thrice in the third to put the game on ice. Bob McGreevy homered with Mickey Clark aboard and Al Sheetz drove home the third run of the inning and went on to post his sixth win against two losses.

Orioles Win 6-3 And 3-2, Move To 5th

Athletics Dropped To Third In A.L. 7-Team Scramble

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles throttled a pair of ninth inning Kansas City threats Thursday night to win both ends of a twi-night doubleheader 6-3 and 3-2 and further tighten the seven-team scramble behind the winging New York Yankees in the American League.

The twin victories moved the Orioles up two notches into fifth place and dropped the Athletics to third place behind the Boston Red Sox. Boston is 11 games behind New York but only 2½ games ahead of Baltimore.

Arnold Portocarrero, the big right-hander obtained in an April 18 trade with Kansas City, upped his record to 7-5 in the second game while earning his first triumph over his former mates in three decisions.

Optimists Win 3-2 On No-Hit Contest Hurled By Stewart

Jim Stratton's home run with Joe Balch aboard in the top of the eighth inning enabled the Lions Club to defeat the Rotary Club in an extra inning thriller yesterday at Fort Hill Field. The score was 4-2.

Balch had singled before Stratton hit for the circuit.

The victory enabled Manager John Daum's Lions to take sole possession of first place in the Hot Stove League with a 7-3 record. The Lions and Kiwanis were tied at 6-3 prior to yesterday's contest.

Mike Miller, who relieved Ronnie Evans in the 6th with two on and none out throttled the Rotarians and hurled one hit ball the remainder of the route. Evans fanned nine and Miller whiffed six. Joe Ranker, the losing pitcher, supplanted Manges in the 4th frame and struck out 11 batsmen in the role of relief hurler.

Miller, Evans and Balch of the Lions and Ranker of Rotary collected two hits each.

Mike Long's single scored "Chuckie" Fields with the deciding tally in the 7th inning to give the Cumberland Optimists a 3-2 decision over the Bedford Road Optimists last night at Penn Avenue Field.

Jim Stewart tossed a no-hitter for the victors, struck out ten and registered his fourth straight win of the season. He also led the Cumberland Optimists' 7 hit attack with a two-bagger and single. Seeders, who went the distance for Bedford Road, fanned ten. Scores:

5-Year-Olds Finish Half Length Apart

STANTON, Del., July 10 (AP)—Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Pucker Up, last year's champion handicap race mare, today defeated her rival of long standing, J. Graham Brown's Bornastar, in the featured Twilight Tear Purse at Delaware Park.

The two famous 5-year-olds reached the end of the six furlongs a scant half length apart with the Pentagon Stable's Salix third in the field of six, two and a half lengths farther back. Pucker Up, under Steve Brooks, flashed home in 1:11 flat, carrying equal weight of 121 pounds with Bornastar. Ken Church rode the latter.

Both Pucker Up and Bornastar were getting a prep for the second and third segments of Delaware Park's distaff big three series, which gets under way Saturday with the $50,000 Oaks for 3-year-olds exclusively. On the next two Saturdays come the $40,000 New Castle Stakes, then the $150,000 Delaware Handicap, world's richest for distaff racers.

Bornastar had defeated Pucker Up in their last three meetings, but Mrs. Rice's star had beaten her rival before that. In 1957 Pucker Up failed to last, losing a photo in the mile and a quarter Delaware Handicap classic, won by now-retired Princess Turia.

The crowd of 10,065 installed Bornastar favorite at 4 to 5. Pucker Up naturally was the second choice, returning $5, $2.20 and $2.20. Bornastar paid the same place and show—$2.20 and $2.20, the legal minimum—and Salix likewise was $2.20 third.

Williams Believes Fans Should Select All-Stars

Ted Prefers Old Style Of Voting

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams prefers the old style of All-Star voting with the fans selecting the players. The Boston outfielder hastens to add, however, he has no fault to find with the present method in which the players select their own.

"Those were fine representative teams we had in Baltimore," said Williams. "I'm sure they were the best men at each position. I'm certain, however, the same players would have been named by the fans. I'd like to see the game given back to the fans.

"Why not have each fan who attends a game be given a ballot. The more games he attends the more opportunities he should have to vote. The only restriction is that he should not vote for a home team player."

When it was suggested that the fans might have voted him for left field, the Red Sox slugger said: "No, I don't believe it. Bob Cerv of Kansas City certainly deserved to be picked over me. He is having a great season. I know our club fears him."

Virtually all of the National Leaguers complained about the background at Memorial Stadium. Most of the American Leaguers did, too, which may explain why the game was devoid of extra base hit.

"That background is murder," agreed Gus Triandos, Baltimore catcher, who must play 77 games a season in that spacious park.

"Those guys just got a taste of what I have to go through all year. And if they think that's bad, they ought to try to hit here at night. When those numbers on the center field scoreboard light up, you can't tell the difference between the ball and one of those bulbs."

Golfing with ALEX MORRISON Teacher of Champions

THE ENTIRE golf world should congratulate Tommy Bolt on his winning of the 1958 U. S. Open. It was truly a great victory, proving a point of unlimited value to all golfers. Not only did Tommy completely dominate a huge field of the world's best golfers, competing over a course rated as the toughest ever used for the national Open, but he also demonstrated self control possibly greater than any ever shown by any U. S. Open winner including Bobby Jones and Ben Hogan.

In addition to completely surmounting obstacles of peak tournament competition it replaced Bolt's lifelong habit of yielding to a trigger temper.

Tommy explained: "I realized that my outbursts over bad shots weren't getting me any place so I decided to control myself."

He demonstrated that self control is something done within yourself, a sure way to better scores.

The Bubble Gum Set

"Kids are taking over," said Annette Funicello, a dark-eyed, full-busted young lady who is fifteen and three quarters years old and whose first record "How Will I Know My Love" is in the top forty already.

Annette is typical of the younger crowd that is elbowing all the older crowd — that's anyone who has turned twenty — out of business. She has been a Mousketeer since Walt Disney started "The Mickey Mouse Club," which is to say three years. She's about to start her first feature film "Shaggy Dog." She's been dancing since she was five years old. She's got an LP on the market. She gets 5,000 fan letters a month.

In other words, she's a typical young teen-ager of the upcoming generation and I thought I ought to find out how she lived because we didn't live like that when I was a boy. "All the kids are turning to singing," she said. "Like Darlene Gillespie. She's a Mousketeer too. Or Laurie Collins. Do you know Laurie Collins?"

I said no. I'd never heard of Laurie Collins. "She's going out with Ricky now," she explained. I felt pleased that I knew who Ricky is. He's Ricky Nelson, the teen-age son of Ozzie and Harriet whose records are red hot. "And then there's Paul Anka." I was at sea again. I never heard of Paul Anka who, I was told, was not only a singer but who wrote his own songs and was all of seventeen years old.

Annette is the only Mousketeer left of the twenty-four that started with Disney three years ago. "When I started there were twenty-four. Then Mr. Disney dwindled us to sixteen, then to nine. Now they've all been let go except me."

What, I asked, happened to old Mouseketeers? "Well, they go on to other things. They've had experience. There's great demand for child actors. This is a good year for teen-agers, too," she pointed out.

That's the way the ball bounces now, Daddy-O. They start at eight and by fifteen and three quarters their lives are mostly over. One big problem, I pointed out, is that the audience outgrows the show. That's what happened to "Howdy-Doody." The kids grew up and forgot. Kids are fickle that way. And the same thing, I pointed out, threatens the "Mickey Mouse Club" and the Mouseketeers. "The audience ought to grow up with the performers," suggested Annette. "Like with Ricky Nelson. He was eight when he started and look at him now."

Annette has no great fear of being superseded yet. Eventually she'd like to be a dramatic actress. At the moment she's touring the country plugging Disney's picture "Light in the Forest" In Albany for instance, she was part of a big show called "Tower Of Talent" with the Everly Brothers and other teen-age talent. Thirty-two thousand people showed up; 4,000 were turned away. Life at the teen-age level is a hectic business.

"When I'm touring I hit usually five schools a day. I do TV appearances, hospitals for crippled children and disc jockeys," she sighed. "And it's sure great to get home." At home the grind doesn't end though. Most weekends and holidays she's expected to go out to Disneyland where she and the other Mouseketeers help to draw the crowds.

"Every time he goes out there, Mr. Disney adds something new," said Annette, who adores Disney. "He says Disneyland will never be finished. There'll always be room for something new." Talking about Disneyland she looked for the moment like a child, which is not fashionable any more.

At the age of fifteen and three quarters, she has already had to deny her own death not once, but dozens of times. "I don't know where the rumors start but they come in waves. I choked to death on a wad of bubble gum. Or I was asphyxiated by a poisonous balloon. Or I fell off my bicycle and was crushed to death. The letters pour in by the hundreds," she said.

The bidding:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 2 no trump | Pass | 6 no trump |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

Opening lead: Diamond ten.

On a casual inspection this hand would appear in the eyes of the average player to be more or less of a laydown and he would not be apt to give much preliminary attention to planning the campaign. However, a little thought will make it clear that if suits break badly, all will not be beer and skittles.

Those who are inclined toward ceremony may sneer at the rugged tactics employed by North and South in reaching today's very sound slam contract. To his humble observer, this bidding appears to be the acme of perfection. Its very simplicity is its greatest point of merit.

North has a point count of 11 and is assured that the two no trump bidder has at least 22—so that at worst the partnership assets amount to 33, which is sufficient to warrant a slam commitment.

The opening lead was the ten of diamonds. Barring any extremely bad break in spades, 12 tricks appear on the surface—four spades, three hearts, four diamonds, and one club.

Declarer cashed the king and jack of diamonds, entered dummy with the ace of spades and received a rude jolt when East failed to follow to the third diamond. Cashing the fourth diamond would now establish a trick for West.

Hoping that East would have the long spades, declarer took the remaining diamond and went about operations on the spade suit. When West showed up with a stopper the contract was doomed.

There was a relatively safe way to play the hand which would insure the contract against anything but five spades or a singleton jack in the East hand. Declarer should cash the king and jack of diamonds and then play a low spade to the ten in dummy. If it wins his troubles are over, and if it loses, he still retains an entry to dummy to cash the high diamonds without the necessity for overtaking the jack.

Plebiscite Vote For Alaska To Be Set Soon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Mike Stepovich said Thursday he will set a date before Aug. 1 for a plebiscite on Alaskan statehood —with an emphatic "yes" vote indicated.

He said he had received official notice from President Eisenhower that the bill to make the vast territory the 49th state has been enacted and signed.

"Predicting an overwhelming "yes" vote on the statehood issue, Stepovich commented:

"We want to get our elections out of the way so that we may seat our two U.S. senators and our one representative in the 1959 Congress."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Good manners can smooth life's path for everyone, including yours.

Your Charm Of Manner

Any breach of etiquette you make is sure to hurt you more than anyone else. When you neglect or forget to write a thank-you note for hospitality or a gift, the stature of your charm shrinks in the eyes of the person to whom it is owed. But some slips have far more serious consequences. When you are in the driver's seat of your car, unmannerly conduct can develop into a fatal crack-up.

Some people, who have the most gracious ways in their own home, exhibit an entirely different nature when behind the wheel on the road. Although they would never think of trying to beat someone else through the door of their home, they take pride in trying to beat another car through a bottleneck. Though they carefully tune their house radio so as not to annoy their neighbors, they blast the horn of their car without provocation.

Statistics show that percentage-wise, women have the fewest accidents. I think this is because they inherently have more consideration of others. To keep that record intact and yourself with it, and to serve as the best possible example for your family, check your driving practices against the life-saving and courteous practices listed:

1. Keep in the right hand lane, except when passing, so others can readily pass you. 2. Always signal turns and stops. 3. Pull your car off the road if you stop for any reason. 4. Honk your horn only to give necessary warning. 5. In traffic, await your turn with patience. Never try to steal a more advantageous position. 6. Dim your headlights when another car approaches on the highway. 7. Never throw trash or lighted cigarettes out the window.

Women have always been responsible for what degree of courtesy there is in this world. Let's see how much they can instill into their families this summer during the period in which all America is on the move.

YOUR COLOR TYPE — Here's your personal colorscope, scientifically designed to determine just which colors keep you looking complexion-perfect and charming of dress. A copy of my all-new booklet "Your Color Type" is on its way to you for 25c and a stamped, return envelope sent to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this paper.

Bonds Rally— To Another Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — News the treasury had been buying some government bonds and might buy more spurred a rally in these securities Thursday. It was the second day of advance after five straight declines.

Gains in government issues were reflected to some extent in high quality corporate bonds. Rails generally advanced while utilities eased. Foreign bonds continued to gain.

Trading in corporate bonds on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $4,170,000 par value compared with $5,200,000 par value Wednesday.

Loading booms on ships were named for Derrick, the hangman, an executioner for Queen Elizabeth. He invented a special type of gallows.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

ROBERT O. BONNELL, Chairman, EDGAR T. BENNETT and JOHN J. McMULLEN, Constituting the STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND, Acting for and on behalf of the STATE OF MARYLAND vs. GEORGE ROTONDARO and HENRIETTA ROTONDARO, his wife. No. 2756 Law in The Circut Court for Allegany County. (Filed June 26, 1958)

PETITION NO. 2756

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, Maryland, belonging to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twenty-ninth Election District of Allegany County, consisting of 2160 square feet, more or less, which is being taken for stream changes and facilities as shown on Plat No. 18563 (revised 4-25-58).

TOGETHER with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown cross-hatched on said plats, such stream changes and facilities as are necessary in the opinion of the State Roads Commission within said area, together with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining and together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the bed of Park Avenue lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on the aforesaid plat.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a deed from George F. Hazelwood, Jr., et al. to George and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, dated August 27, 1951 and recorded on November 6, 1951 in Liber 236, Folio 45, among the Land Records of Allegany County.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the U. S. Route 40, Maryland Route 36 to Long, in Allegany County, Maryland.

That your Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check under the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland in the amount of Five Hundred and Sixty-Five ($565.00) Dollars, payable to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purpose.

That your Petitioners have attempted to set forth the interests or estates of all other parties having an interest, in the hereinbefore described and that the defendants George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing at 2312 Pitt Avenue, Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

NOTICE is HEREBY GIVEN to George Rotondaro and Henrietta Rotondaro, his wife, non-residents of the State of Maryland, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of July, 1958, and show cause, if any they have why said property or said defendants' interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said Petition.

/s/ Joseph E. Boden
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

The news that Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Todd Jr. will not make "Busman's Holiday," as they had planned, does not mean this organization has broken up, according to Bill Doll, vice president of the Todd Company, who is visiting here with his wife.

"Mike Jr. is going full speed ahead to make another picture, bu in this one Elizabeth will not be starred. There's absolutely no trouble of any kind between th beauteous Liz and her stepson," says Bill.

Keely Smith and Louis Prima received a telephone call from Frank Sinatra saying that he and the Peter Lawfords will stay at Cal-Neva for the Smith-Prima opening. Pat (Mrs. Lawford) is visiting her father, Joseph Kennedy, former Ambassador to Great Britain, at Lake Tahoe.

Tony Curtis' gift to Janet Leigh for her birthday was a diamond heart. Tony partied for Janet at Scandia with Debbie Reynolds, the Dean Martins, Judy Garland and Sid Luft and Joan Collins among the guests.

There will be no twins for producer Stanley Rubin and his wife, the former Kathy Hughes. X-rays show that they can expect only one baby.

Mary Healy and Peter Lind Hayes start a new TV show October 6 on ABC.

Nellie Manley, Paramount hair stylist, received a letter from Princess Grace giving permission for Princess Caroline to be officially listed as a sponsor of the WAIF ball in October.

George Capri, who Marie McDonald says she's going to marry, gave her a surprise birthday party at the Flamingo. All the stars on the Las Vegas strip turned out.

Judy Garland's new record album, "Judy in Love," to be made by Capitol Records, will have a cover written by Jimmy McHugh.

Behind The News In Business

by Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — The hottest case generated by the New York office of the SEC in years involves what Louis E. Wolfson and spokesmen for him did or did not say regarding his stock interest in American Motors.

Paul Windels Jr., the SEC's regional administrator, has hauled the multimillionaire Florida financial operator into Federal Court. The charges are "false and misleading statements and failure to disclose liquidation of Wolfson's entire holdings of 400,000 American Motors shares as well as short sales by him and associates of more than 100,000 shares."

Here's the record of press reports in recent months:

Detroit Times, Feb. 5, 1958 — "Louis Wolfson, financier and largest individual stockholder in American Motors Corp., has no intention of disposing of his AMC stock, it was announced at a stockholders' meeting today.

"The announcement was made by Martin Segal of Jacksonville, Fla., an associate of Wolfson's, who was elected to the company's board of directors today. . .

"Replying to stockholders who were disturbed by reports in a New York newspaper that Wolfson was selling his stock to a large corporation, Segal said:

"'I think this is the proper forum to scotch this report. Mr. Wolfson has no discussions on with General Dynamics Corp., or any other company regarding sale of even one share of his stock in AMC. He has great faith in Mr. Romney (George Romney, company president) and in AMC. He will continue to co-operate and continue to hold his shares in this company.'"

• • •

The N. Y. Herald-Tribune on April 12, 1958, Noting an "unprecedented" trading of 125,800 shares in American Motors, making it the most active Stock Exchange issue in two days said "it raised a highly speculative question on Wall Street — was financier Louis E. Wolfson getting out of the stock?"

The story reported:

"A spokesman said the Miami industrialist would not comment on American Motors save to say his holdings 'were unchanged.'

"This was echoed by W. A. Shea, a partner in the New York law firm of Manning, Hollinger & Shea and one of two Wolfson directors on American Motors board.

"Mr. Shea said that so far as he was concerned it was all 'rumor.' Mr. Wolfson, he said, planned to hold onto his stock, though 'you could never tell what kind of an offer somebody might make.'"

• • •

The N. Y. Times on June 20, 1958, reported: "The largest single stockholder in American Motors Corporation has been taking advantage of recent strength in the price of the stock to liquidate his holdings.

"Louis E. Wolfson, Florida industrialist, is about one-quarter the way home in disposing of the 400,000 shares of American Motors stock that he and his immediate family own, a spokesman for Mr. Wolfson said yesterday."

The N. Y. Times later identified the spokesman as Alexander Rittmaster, close associate of Wolfson and a director in his Merritt-Chapman & Scott.

A release sent over the "PR" news wire service to newspapers June 20, 1958, in the name of Ed Brause, press relations director for Merritt-Chapman & Scott, headed by Wolfson, had this lead:

"New York, June 20 — Louis E. Wolfson issued the following statement today in confirmation of published reports that he is disposing of his shareholdings in American Motors Corp. and to date has sold approximately one-quarter of the approximately 400,000 shares previously held by himself and members of his immediate family."

• • •

The Wall Street Journal on June 23, 1958, reported: "Louis E. Wolfson. . . called 'inaccurate' statements indicating that he has sold about 100,000 of the 400,000 shares in the auto and appliance manufacturing concern reportedly held by him and his family. . .

"Mr. Wolfson's statement. . . seemed to leave up in the air how much of his American Motors stock he has sold, while it confirmed that he had made up his mind to liquidate his position. . .

"William A. Shea, general counsel for Merritt-Chapman & Scott and a director of American Motors, said in an interview: 'I had thought that Mr. Wolfson had disposed of all his American Motors stock.'"

The SEC complaint, filed in Federal Court charged that at the time of the June 20 newspaper story Wolfson had sold or otherwise "disposed" of all his holdings and "He, together with his associates, had a very substantial short position in the stock and was at the time of publication of this newspaper article, engaged in purchasing the common capital stock of American Motors to cover their short position."

Stock Market Rebounds To Cancel Earlier Losses

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market bounced back Thursday in a recovery which more than canceled Wednesday's losses.

Key stocks were up from fractions to about a point. Special issues made gains stretching to 2 points or so.

Wall Streeters commented that as offerings were well absorbed and prices remained fairly steady the selling dried up and optimism was regained.

Feeling in the financial district also was cheered by news that the U.S. Treasury had been buying government bonds and might buy more.

Coppers were a bit soft on news of a reduction in copper scrap prices but building material issues gained on the improving picture in the construction industry.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to $175.50 with the industrials up $1.10, the rails up $1.10 to a new high for the year and the utilities up 40 cents.

Of 1,149 issues traded, 517 rose and 345 fell. New highs for the year totaled 48 and new lows 7.

Volume was 2,510,000 shares compared with 2,630,000 Wednesday.

Twelve of the 15 most active stocks advanced, two fell and 1 was unchanged.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed with a slightly higher tendency. Volume was 750,000 shares compared with 780,000 Wednesday.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Others have tried and failed to get Fred Astaire in a straight dramatic role, but Stanley Kramer has high hopes that Fred will accept his offer to play an Australian naval officer in "On The Beach." This Neville Shute book gave me the blues after I read it. It's a story of what may happen if atomic bombs are dropped all over the world.

Stanley is still in Europe where he showed "The Defiant Ones," his latest picture, at the Berlin Film Festival. While he was abroad he made a side trip to Rome to talk to Ava Gardner about playing the femme lead in "On The Beach." Shocking as this book is, it may do some good in preventing the wanton destruction of entire cities and people.

You'll know I mean Eddie Constantine when I say he's an American performer who went to Paris many years ago and became the toast of the town. Well, Eddie's going to co-star in "Passport To Shame," a British picture with Diana Dors. Her contract with RKO has just been sold to an English company.

The curious thing about the Dors girl is that she started off with such a bang and then the pictures she made really died at the boxoffice. She was supposed to be another Marilyn Monroe, which she never was by any stretch of the imagination.

There's some fast talking going on between Bob Hope and Bing Crosby with Norman Krasna. Bob and Bing are interested in Norman's Broadway play, "Who is That Woman I saw You with Last Night."

I am reliably informed that the deal may be closed any edition. Wouldn't that be some movie — to see Bob and Bing together again. Let's hope the price is okay, so they will be able to acquire the film rights to the play.

The Mike Romanoff party on the 4th of July celebrating Mike's change from his title Prince Romanoff to American citizen with the plain handle Mister, was one of the most popular affairs ever given in our town. Mike's pure delight at becoming an American is heart-warming and you can take my word for it, he's a great and happy addition to our great country.

With all the publicity he's received, 20th Century-Fox, which owns the rights to the Luther Davis New Yorker Magazine series based on Mike's life story, is working to get it ready. Peter Ustinov, who's giving up his stage play and heading in our direction, is being mentioned for the Mike role.

An unexpected telephone call from Vic Damone tells me that everything is rosy and beautiful between him and Pier Angeli. His mother-in-law has gone to Italy.

Pier starts rehearsals July 15 for "Song of Bernadette," and she leaves for Rome July 28 to make a picture. Vic says he will tour the provinces in England, and his record "The Street Where You Live" is very popular in London.

I am happy Pier and Vic have worked out their problems. They both love their three-year-old

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (AP) — A moderate but broad demand spread through the grain pits on the Board of Trade Thursday and nearly all futures prices were bid substantially higher than the previous closes.

Wheat and rye led the upward movement with gains of well over a cent a bushel on most contracts while corn and oats moved ahead by fractions of a cent and soybeans finished with little or no change.

Dealers said the demand for rye stemmed from a stronger market for the grain in Winnipeg while wheat traders took their cue from the Kansas City market where prices were firmer.

Wheat closed ⅞-1½ cents a bushel higher, July $1.83⅝-½; corn ⅛-⅜ higher, July $1.30⅝-½; oats ⅜-¾ higher, July 64¾; rye ½-1¾ higher, July $1.27¼-27; soybeans ⅛ higher to ⅜ lower, July $2.24¼-⅛; lard 8 cents a hundred pounds higher to 8 cents lower, July $12.57-60.

The demand for all grains mainly was short-covering since there was a virtual absence of export business and other commercial buying was slow.

Six-Month Total Over 1957 Figure

June was another busy month for issuance of building permits in Allegany County as the year's previous high of 53 permits was matched and the builders' total estimated cost of the construction was $230,140, third highest monthly total this year.

The first half of 1958 topped last year in both the number of permits issued and in the total builder-estimated cost of construction. This year there have been 199 permits in the first six months for total construction of $3,295,084.

Most of that construction cost was attributed to the waste treatment plant at Westernport to serve the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Tri-Towns. The listed cost was $2,308,254. Work started there in May.

Last year, the first half totals were 197 permits and $2,233,775, which is $61,309 below this half year's total. In 1957 the big permit was for the proposed $2,000,000 shopping center on Winchester Road for which construction still has not started.

The number of June permits—53—was the same number issued in April. Total estimated construction cost of $230,140 last month was below May's $2,459,554 and March's $303,475. Some 19 of the June permits were for relatively minor jobs costing less than $1,000 each.

False Reports To Police Bring $25 Fines Here

Similar Charge Filed Against Third Man

Two local persons were fined $25 and costs yesterday on charges of providing false information to city police.

The sentences were imposed on Allen Emerick, 18, and Adrian Counihan, 27, after hearings before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

The hearing opened last Wednesday but were continued to allow the magistrate to get additional information about the man and youth.

The charges, according to Lt. James E. Van, resulted from false statements made by the pair following a fight June 28 in nearby West Virginia.

When first questioned, they said they were beaten in a fight in Cumberland. They later admitted the fight occured in nearby West Virginia.

Faces Same Charge

A warrant charging a local man with the same charge was issued yesterday morning by Magistrate Dick.

He is Joseph Powell, 30, of 157½ North Mechanic Street, who was picked up for investigation Wednesday night. He told Detective Kenneth W. Morrissey that cuts and abrasions on his body resulted from being assaulted while on his way home from a tour of taverns Tuesday night.

Detective Morrissey became suspicious of Powell's story after trying to check it out Wednesday and after interrogating him Wednesday night Powell revealed his story had been a hoax.

Morrissey said Powell then told him he had fallen while entering the front door where he has an apartment and suffered an abrasion on his forehead when it struck the door jamb.

Powell said he then went to his room, dressed his head wound and proceeded to tear his shirt and inflicted scratches on his abdomen with a penknife. Police were called in by Powell's landlady after he told his fictitious story to her.

Faces Assault Charge

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said Powell is out under $500 bond, posted after his wife swore out an assault warrant, and that no additional bond was required.

Both charges, he said, will be disposed of today in Trial Magistrates Court.

Powell, he said, has admitted giving several false reports.

The investigator said that several months ago Powell reported he had been beaten up on Dingle Hill when he stopped to help a motorist fix a tire. Injuries he said were inflicted by a tire tool were actually suffered in a fight in Frostburg, Mr. Lilya reported.

Local Marine Unit Leads In Rifle Scoring

Fifty-eight Marine reservists from the Cumberland area proved their ability with the M-1 service rifle by scoring a high unit shooting average after only four hours of practice firing on the Dam Neck (Va.) rifle range.

Pfc. Norman G. Cline of 1211 Ella Avenue outshot his fellow reservists with the M-1 rifle.

The company spent Wednesday crossing beach obstacles and practicing infantry company tactics. They also learned how to debark safely from ships into assault landing craft.

On Monday, the company was instructed in the rudiments of amphibious organization, including boat team and assault wave structure.

Captain Billy C. Menges, commander of the local Sixth Infantry Company, was pleased with the way his men were responding to all phases of the annual field training. "During the first three days our men have demonstrated that they are capable of becoming the best Reserve Marines to train at Little Creek. To be frank, we're hoping to win the Reserve Trophy," he said.

The Reserve Trophy is awarded annually to the most outstanding of all units to train at Little Creek. Competition invariably runs high during the summer-long period.

The Cumberland reservists also were instructed in the newest concepts of vertical envelopment by helicopter. The company was organized into heli-teams and the men were airlifted by helicopter from their assembly area to a "battle point."

Later on the training cycle, the Reservists will learn how to discard clothing and equipment in the water while keeping themselves afloat. Men who have not yet learned to swim will practice water survival under the watchful eye of expert instructors. Early next week the Cumberland Marines will undergo rigorous physical conditioning along with bayonet fighting and marksmanship training.

General Term Bonds Covered By Sinking Fund

$400,000 Issue Paid During Fiscal Year

Sufficient funds are being held in the city's sinking fund to cover the remaining $275,000 of term bonds which are general obligations of the City of Cumberland.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, said the remaining term bonds totaling $1,883,068 are Water Department obligations.

The Sinking Fund was set up to retire term bonds issued by the City of Cumberland. Trustees are Charles G. Holzshu and John H. Mosner.

At the beginning of the 197-58 fiscal year, the fund stood at the $2,450,397.07 mark. Securities purchased by the trustees earned $82,573.59 and the City, through the Water Department, contributed $45,097.57 to bring the fund to the $2,558,068.23 mark.

The debt of the city was reduced by $400,000 during fiscal 1957-58 when the fund paid off the first bond issue sold by the city for Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Gibson said only three general term bond issues totaling $285,000 remain outstanding and that funds contributed to the Sinking Fund fully cover the remaining issues.

They are a $125,000 Memorial Hospital bond issue due in 1959, a $100,000 Memorial Hospital issue due in 1966 and a $50,000 Works Relief issue due in 1969.

During the present fiscal year, the City, through the Water Department, will contribute slightly over $45,000 to the Sinking Fund. This will be added to the $1,883,068 in the fund applicable to the term water bonds totaling $2,705,000.

These issues will be paid as they become due in from 1959 to 1970.

Local Attorney Frees GI Once Sentenced To 25 Years For 12-Year 'French Leave'

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — A quirk of military law Thursday freed Pvt. Norman W. Swain, 41, who once was sentenced to 25 years at hard labor for wartime desertion.

At a second court-martial here, Swain was convicted of a lesser charge of being absent without leave and then was freed because a two-year statute of limitations applied to the AWOL charge.

Stunned by the turn of events, Swain grabbed a friend's arm, walked out of the courtroom and into the PX for a cup of coffee.

He was defended at his second trial by a Silver Spring attorney, Elmo Gower, who has taken part in about 3,000 courts-martial in this country and abroad. (Mr. Gower formerly of Cumberland).

Swain has been in Army custody since June 7, 1956, when a gendarme picked him up in Paris and turned him over to U. S. military authorities.

It was the story of a GI who took French leave intending to visit Paris for 48 hours but stretched out his absence to nearly 12 years.

Swain, whose home is in Southbridge, Mass., was charged with deserting the 3882d Quartermaster Truck Co. at Chalons, France, on Sept. 14, 1944. A court-martial convicted him of desertion and sentenced him to 25 years. This sentence was reduced by higher Army authorities to six years.

Last Nov. 8, the U. S. Military Court of Appeals here set aside the conviction on the ground the military court's legal officer erred in failing to tell the court-martial that Swain could be convicted of the lesser AWOL charge. A retrial was ordered.

This took place Thursday, with Gower pressing the argument that Swain was not a deserter because, while he admittedly left his unit, he did not intend to remain away permanently.

The court agreed with this view, finding Swain not guilty of desertion but guilty of being absent without leave. Gower then cited the statute of limitations and the court agreed it could impose no punishment.
